LABOR BILL STIRS CONGRESS ROW

Texas Crops Are Hard Hit By Cold Wave

Winter Dips South; Flood-Cold Death Toll Mounts To 21

A surprise attack on Dixie by winter's bitter cold dealt Texas crops a sub-zero blow Monday, causing multi-million dollar damage.

The frigid, snow-banked Western Plains and Rocky Mountain areas had some slight respite from extreme conditions, permitting progress by a crops of Army, Air Force and civilian teams striving to aid beleaguered humans and livestock.

But the vulnerable south had record-breaking low temperatures, heavy snow, sleet and freezing rain. In Llano, Texas, situated in the central part of the state, the mercury reached six below zero. San Antonio had a record zero.

The death toll in recent days from floods and cold in the south reached 21.

Tomato, Potato Crops Ruined

In Texas' Rio Grande Valley tomato and potato crops were a complete loss. Ripening fruit was heavily damaged. Even hardier crops such as cabbage and carrots suffered damage. Vegetable damage in Cameron County alone was estimated at $15,000,000 by County Agent Frank Brunneman.

Only Florida of the Gulf states remained fairly mild, New Orleans' 29 and Mobile's 33 were unusually cold, but inland conditions were more severe.

Shreveport, La., had a minimum of eight above, and it was 17 at Memphis. Snow up to five inches in depth blanketed much of Kentucky and Tennessee with other areas along the Ohio River getting more than three inches.

Atlanta was hit by freezing rain which reached underground conduits, knocking out virtually all of the city's power for more than two and one-half hours. Effects of the cutoff included stoppage of power buses, jamming of elevators in office buildings, and interruption of an operation in a hospital.

Snow On Atlantic Seaboard

The Atlantic glaze was part of a storm which moved northeastward up the Atlantic coast during the day, bringing rain and snow to most of the seaboard. Washington had four inches of snow, followed by rain. Rain and snow fell northward into New England, hitting New York, and bringing heavy snowfall to inland areas.

Meanwhile, on the West Coast, Los Angeles and Southern California were recovering from late January freezes, with daytime temperatures of 55 to 60 expected during the next few days.

In the western midlands range country, additional cases of hardship were revealed. New efforts were being made with bulldozers and planes to break through with aid for marooned families on remote Indian reservations.

In Northeastern Arizona, a party of 20 men reached 40 children and

Green Says Pay Hikes Are Still Warranted

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said tonight living costs have declined too little to avoid a fourth round of postwar wage increases.

However, Green conceded that a fourth round may not be so general, covering as many workers, as the prior rounds of pay boosts.

At the same time Daniel Tobin, president of the powerful AFL Teamsters Union, disputed accuracy of the Labor Department figures showing a steadily declining cost of living for the past several months.

Tobin, sitting in on Green's news conference after initial sessions of the AFL Executive Council's midwinter meeting, remarked that "we're not inclined to accept in its entirety the statistical reports of the Department of Labor."

Newcomer To Pictures

It's an old story for Joan Fontaine, of the movies, but for Daughter Deborah Leslie Dozier, born last November 5, getting her picture taken is a new experience. This is her first. Deborah's father is Motion Picture Producer William Dozier.

Pennsylvania's Assembly Okays Veterans' Bonus

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31 (INS)—Pennsylvania's General Assembly gave final approval tonight to the 500 million dollar bonus for the state's World War II veterans.

Payments, slated to start next year, will range from $15 a month for overseas duty to $10 a month for domestic service if the issue is approved by the electorate in November. More than 1,200,000 servicemen and women are expected to share payments.

The proposal, passed by two separately elected assemblies starting in 1947, is in the form of an amendment to the state's constitution allowing the commonwealth to assume the 500 million dollar debt.

Labor Secretary Tobin Confirmed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Maurice J. Tobin, of Massachusetts, was unanimously confirmed by the Senate today as Secretary of Labor. Tobin has been serving under a recess appointment.

The Senate also received from President Truman a new batch of nominations including that of Jesse Donaldson for a new term as Postmaster General. His is the one Cabinet post with a fixed term.

Maj. Gen Lewis Andrew Pick was nominated to be Army chief of engineers to succeed Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler. Wheeler, soon retiring, has been chosen engineering advisor to John J. McCoy, president of the World Bank.

Pick, 58, a Virginia native, is a veteran of both wars who became a brigadier general in 1944. He is author of the Pick plan for development of the Missouri River basin. He was Missouri River division engineer at Omaha, Neb., six years ago and previously served division offices at New Orleans and Cincinnati. In 1945, he was assigned again to the Missouri River division. His home is Auburn, Ala.

Mr. Truman nominated Dean Rusk, director of the Office of United Nations affairs in the State Department, to be Assistant Secretary of State. This is a vacancy resulting from the resignation last summer of Norman Armour.

Rusk formerly was assistant to the Secretary of War.

Stalin's "Peace" Overture Viewed With Skepticism

May Fear Growing Western Unity Move

By HAL COOPER

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Western diplomats took a skeptical view tonight of Prime Minister Stalin's cagy "peace" overture. Many quarters thought Stalin was reflecting Rusia's shock at the speed with which movements for western unity are taking shape.

Experts in capitals all over the world were studying the answers Stalin gave yesterday to an American newsman's questions. They were trying to determine whether Stalin was engaged in a Soviet propaganda move or was expressing a genuine desire for peace.

Stalin said he had "no objection" to meeting President Truman at a mutually acceptable place to discuss a "peace pact" and gradual disarmament. He also said Russia was willing to consider a joint American-Russian declaration of peace intentions.

A Moscow dispatch said Stalin's statements had convinced many Russians that their leader is going to sit down at a conference table with Mr. Truman. Foreign diplomats in the Soviet capital were doubtful, however.

Truman's Statement Emphasized

President Truman has said repeatedly he is willing to meet Stalin in Washington. The White House called attention to the President's statement today but emphasized that there has been "no official word from the Russian government" regarding such a meeting.

French Premier Henri Queuille, in the first comment on the Stalin statement by a western head of government, said action, not words, was needed to achieve an East-West peace.

An American diplomatic source in London expressed the belief that Russia was "shocked into the new Stalin maneuver by the speed with which the West is building up its political defenses against aggression."

A similar view was expressed by a British informant who said Stalin had made "an obvious attempt to torpedo" the proposed North Atlantic security pact. Newspapers in Western Europe carried editorials along the same line.

USSR Shows Nervousness

Russia has shown definite symtoms of nervousness over the proposed North Atlantic alliance now being negotiated in Washington. The Soviet Foreign Ministry has described the pact as a plot to undermine the United Nations and an attempt to establish American-British world domination.

Russia also put pressure on Norway to explain whether she intends to join the Atlantic defense system and furnish military bases to Western Powers. Yesterday Sweden, Denmark and Norway failed to agree on a projected Scandinavian pact. This was the stumbling block: Should the three Scandinavian Israel, Trans-Jordan Granted Complete Recognition By U. S.

President Truman's Election Campaign Promise Fulfilled

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Truman welcomed Israel into the world family of nations today by granting it full-fledged American recognition.

At the same time, he extended United States recognition to the British-supported Arab kingdom of TransJordan.

The White House made separate announcements of the two actions. This emphasized the official American position there has been no "deal" with the British to trade American recognition of Transjordan for British recognition of Israel.

Britian in effect reversed its policy last Friday by granting Israel limited, or "de facto," recognition. Foreign Minister Bevin told the House Of Commons a few days earlier the American decision to recognize TransJordan materially influenced Britain's action.

The American announcement of full, or "de jure," recognition for the new Jewish state fulfilled a promise made by President Truman during the election campaign some three months ago.

Free Elections Held

On October 24, the President pledged full American recognition of Israel once it held free elections to choose a parliament and establish the provisional regime then in effect as permanent.

The elections were held last Wednesday with nearly 90 per cent of those eligible voting. The results assured continuance of the pro-American government headed by Premier David Ben-Gurion and President Chiam Weizmann.

United States recognition came 263 days after Jewish leaders carved a long cherished nation out of what had formerly been the British mandate of Palestine. It came as Jewish government officials negotiated for a truce with the Egyptians and other Arab nations which invaded Palestine after the British left last May.

The American government gave Israel a powerful helping hand six days before its elections by granting it a $100,000,000 loan. Some foreign diplomats said this helped swing the election to the incumbent government.

McDonald May Be U. S. Envoy

The peresent United States political representative to Israel, James G. McDonald, of New York, probably will be named the American ambassador later, officials said.

Jewish diplomatic officials said Elihu Epstein, head of the Israeli mission here, will undoubtedly be their country's first ambassador to the United States.

TransJordan was set up as an independent country March 22, 1946, and Abdullah was proclaimed as King two months later. Britain signed a mutual assistance treaty with TransJordan in 1946 to provide arms, money, and military advice to the TransJordan armed forces.

King Abdullah has been urging the other Arab states recently to make peace with Israel on the grounds that a Jewish government

Anti-Inflation Law Gets New Lease On Life

Extension Of GOP Act Ok'd By Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—A bill prolonging the life of a GOP anti-inflation measure for seven months after February 28 was passed late today by the Democratic Senate.

The measure, which now goes to the House, provides for voluntary agreements by industry to channel scarce material into essential uses.

The administration urged the extension as a stop-gap pending action on President Truman's request for compulsory control powers.

Democrats in the Senate took much ribbing from Republicans who stressed that the first item in the Democratic anti-inflation program was a new lease on life for a GOP measure.

Democratic leaders replied that the law had done some good but not enough.

Tariff Bill Action Due

In both House and Senate today, administration chiefs put the spurs to the President's bills as the big program ground through committee hearings, with economic bills in the lead.

At the White House, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) told the President that the tariff bill—the administration's move to restore reciprocal trade agreements legislation to its original form—will be taken up in the House next week. The bill would wipe out restrictions voted by the Republican Congress clipping presidential authority to cut tariffs in agreement with other nations.

Rayburn said early House action is in prospect on Mr. Truman's demand for an increase from 40 to 75 cents in the national minimum wage. Hearings may end Friday. In the House Labor Committee, the Western Union Telegraph Company asked that any new wage-hour law exempt some of its part-time workers in small communities.

Former President Herbert Hoover gave the House Executive Expenditures Committee his firm endorsement of President Truman's request for permanent powers to order reorganizations of government agencies—subject to congressional veto.

Burma Troops Defeat Rebels

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 31 (AP)—Government sources said a force of entrenched Karen rebels surrendered today after a bitter nine-hour battle with Burmese troops on the outskirts of Rangoon.

Heavy machine guns and mortars blasted the Karens from trenches and concrete buildings in and about the suburban village on Thamaing, only eight miles north of the capital, the informants said. At times the battle raged at point-blank range.

Residents of the suburbs made a panicky rush toward Rangoon after the shooting stopped. Many Karens were said to have escaped in the confusion.

The fighting held up peace talks scheduled here. Saw Ba U Gyi, president of the separatist Karen National Union, was unable to get through the battle area to resume truce conversations started yesterday with Burmese government leaders. Thamaing straddles the road down which he would have to travel from his home in Insein, another suburban town.

Ba U Gyi has proposed a settlement between the government and the Karen tribesmen and various other rebelling political factions. Some rebels groups are fighting jointly. Others are conducting their own individual campaigns.

36 Students, Teachers Are Overcome By Gas

McALLEN, Tex., Jan. 31 (AP)—At least 36 pupils and teachers in Lincoln Elementary School here were overcome by gas or gas fumes today.

The victims were placed in the corridors, and doors at the end of the halls were thrown open. They became violently ill.

The McCallen Monitor said "practically every doctor in town" answered the emergency call.

Four of the victims were hospitalized. One of them, Ernest Vining, an eighth grade student, was in critical condition. He was given a blood transfusion.

Eight of the victims were teachers, all women, and 28 were pupils.

All seven McCallen schools were closed indefinitely while tests are made to determine the cause of the escaping gas or gas fumes.

Canton's New Governor Vows Fight To Finish Against Reds

Bridges Says U. S. "Failed" Chiang, Blasts Marshall

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) told the Senate today former Secretary of State George C. Marshall "did a miserable job" in representing this country in China.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, immediately came to Marshall's defense. He blamed "corrupt" Chinese officials for the plight that Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist government finds itself in as the result of Communist military victories.

Bridges, long an advocate of increased aid to Chiang, said "we turned our backs on China, a nation that stood beside us in times of stress." He added:

"Some day that is coming back to haunt the administration."

Hsueh Yueh Ready To Lead Defense Of Four Provinces

By JAMES FLOOD

CANTON, China, Jan. 31 (AP)—China's four southern provinces centered on Canton will make a last-ditch stand against the Communists, whatever the outcome of peace efforts elsewhere, Gov. Hsueh Yueh declared today.

The new governor of Kwangtung, who reluctantly took over last week after T. V. Soong departed, said in an interview he was "ready to be a martyr" and intended to lead the independent defense of Kwangtung, Kwangsi, Hunan and Fukien Provinces.

He predicted Generalissmo Chiang Kai-Shek would try a comeback from his questionable 10-day-old retirement, but intimated Chiang would get a cool welcome in the South.

As he spoke, the Communists formally took over the old northern capital of Peiping and government hopes of arranging a general surrender deal seemed fainter than ever.

Acting President Li Tsung-Jen flew from Nanking to Shanghai but returned to the semi-deserted capital after a short stay.

(It was learned later in Shanghai that Li's brief trip resulted in the appointment of a five-member delegation of social and cultural leaders to aid in efforts to help Li's official five-man peace delegation, with whom the Communists have refused to deal unless Chiang Kai-Shek and others on their "war criminal" list are detained.)

A reliable official source said Li's trip was "in pursuit of efforts towards peace," but his quick return hinted at failure.

The government is in the process of moving from Nanking to Canton, and has announced it will be functioning in Canton by next Saturday.

Hsueh, however said no final decision had been made and the government "probably will go to Formosa."

He said Premier Sun Fo, last reported in Shanghai, "wants to come to Canton to join us," and adder, "Li Tsung-Jen would also like to come, but there is no need.

Hsueh, famous as the defender of Changsha against the Japanese, was appointed governor of Kwang-

Palestine Talks At Crossroads

RHODES, Jan. 31 (AP)—Israeli-Egyptian armistice talks were said today to have reached a point where the Egyptians have a choice of either making major concessions or taking the responsibility for ending the conference.

The thorny Negev boundary question has deadlocked the negotiations which now are on the verge of failure.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, acting United Nations mediator, has presented several proposals in an attempt to end the stalemate. One informant described the suggestions as constituting a "Bunche line."

According to this source the position of the Israeli delegation is close enough to Bunche's proposals to make acceptance probable if the Egyptians agree. The Egyptians were said to have been placed in the position of having to make a decision.

Within an hour and a half after Bunche brought in his documents, Col. Ismail Sherrine of the Egyptian delegation, left by plane to present the proposals to authorities in Cairo.

Bunche said meetings would be resumed here when both delegations are ready with "views and reactions." He added: "It is hoped this procedure will serve to crystalize matters."

The mediator's efforts have been directed to keeping the armistice negotiations alive. Thus far neither the Israeli nor the Egyptian delegates have wanted to take the initiative in breaking off the talks although both sides are pessimistic about the chances for agreement.

Tobin Defends It, Aiken Claims It Lacks Teeth

Miner Chief Lewis Dominates Hearing Despite Absence

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—The hot fight over the Truman labor bill opened today in Congress. Secretary of Labor Tobin called for its enactment, and Republicans immediately objected that it had "no teeth" to deal with union leaders like John L. Lewis.

Lewis, though absent, dominated the hearing before the Senate Labor Committee on the administration bill, which would repeal the Taft-Hartley Act, and replace it with an "improved" Wagner Act.

Much of the discussion centered on an administration proposal to wipe out the Taft-Hartley law power to block "national emergency" strikes by means of court injunctions.

Tobin said this provision should be scuttled and replaced with a 30-day voluntary cooling off procedure.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) protested. Talking about the chief of the United Mine Workers' Union and its coal strikes, Aiken said:

"In the case of Mr. Lewis, that (the voluntary plan) would be hardly any teeth at all — unless you might say false teeth."

Public Opinion Farce Cited

Tobin argued that settlement recommendations by emergency boards under the cooling off procedure would be backed by the "powerful force" of public opinion. He said that would do the trick and prevent strikes affecting national health or safety.

The Cabinet officer started to say something, too, about "the power of the President of the United States . . ." then he turned instead to the "force of public opinion."

In assailing the Taft-Hartley law and plugging for a new labor law "encouraging free collective bargaining," Tobin read a 20-page statement. When he finished there was less than an hour left for committee questioning. So Tobin, after answering some inquiries, agreed to come back Wednesday to deal with the rest.

The hearing was held in the small Armed Services Committee room. It was jammed and the crowd overflowed into the corridor. Newsreel floodlights made the little room a sweatbox.

Lewis Attorney Is Spectator

Among the spectators was Welly K. Hopkins, the John L. Lewis attorney who has fought the government unsuccessfully in the UMW's battles against court injunctions to block coal strikes.

In a generalized indictment of the Taft-Hartley law, preceding a more detailed lambasting of specific provisions, Tobin charged that the law has:

1. Brought "confusion" to the field of labor relations.
2. Limited the scope of collective

More Strikes Since T-H, Tobin Declares

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Tobin said today that since the Taft-Hartley law was enacted there have been eight per cent more strikes, 50 per cent more workers involved and 80 per cent more idleness than in a comparable prewar period.

Tobin made the comparison in a statement presented to the Senate Labor Committee. He appeared before the group to seek repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and its replacement with the old Wagner Labor Relations Act, amended to conform to President Truman's recommendations.

Tobin said the number of work stoppages in the years 1946-48, inclusive, was, with a single exception, "consistently higher than during the 1930s." He named 1937 as the exception.

U. S. Is Producing Super A-Bombs, Atomic Energy Commission Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The United States is producing super A-bombs—substantially more powerful than the missiles that blasted Japan during World War II.

The Atomic Energy Commission made this disclosure today for the first time in an official report to Congress.

The commission recorded "an expansion of effort in all phases of atomic energy development," both for arms and peaceful pursuits.

And it announced that emergency defense measures have been taken to safeguard the world's No. 1 secret against sabotage and "against attack."

A major objective, the commission reported, is a greatly stepped-up production of the two atomic fuels—uranium 235, which is found sparsely in raw ore, and the synthetic new element, plutonium.

To this end, officials said there is now under way "the biggest single construction effort in American peacetime history," which will eventually cost more than $700,000,000. It includes construction or major alteration of 20 plants centering around the plutonium plant at Hanford, Wash., where nearly 15,000 workers are now employed.

In its fifth semi-annual report to Congress the commission further reported:

1. That the $3,000,000,000 atomic energy program has attained "a momentum which, if sustained, the commission believes will maintain and increase the nation's lead in atomic energy development."
2. That a new office of "intelligenec" has been set up by the AEC "to correlate and evaluate information on foreign atomic energy developments."
3. That continued efforts are being made to release as much still-secret information as possible without endangering the "common defense and security."

Chairman David Lilienthal, at a news conference, declared the present report represents a "turning point" towards th increased release of information because, he says, secrecy carried to extremes "could actually blacken out democracy."

Armed Bandits Rob Miami Beach Bank

MIAMI Beach, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—Two armed bandits who posed as escalator repairmen robbed the Mercantile National Bank of Miami Beach of between $60,000 and $75,000 today.

The gunmen knocked a hole in the wall of the bank's night deposit room, bound, gagged and handcuffed two tellers and threw them in a closet.

S. W. Curry, cashier, said the gunmen got between $60,000 and $75,000 in currency.

"The robbers," he said, "left two sacks of coins behind, probably because they were too heavy."

New Bill Would Fix Term Of Vehicles Commissioner

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31 (AP)—A sequel to the motor vehicles commissioner impasse of 1947-48 was drafted tonight by the delegation from Washington County — where Gov. Lane and his political enemy, W. Lee Elgin, both reside.

The six-man delegation put in a bill which would make the term of the Motor Vehicle Commissioner approximately the same as that of the Governor.

Thus an incoming Governor could select his own man for the job.

The administration wanted to do this in 1947 and passed a bill to that effect.

Friends of Elgin termed it "ripper legislation" and obtained enough signatures of voters for a referendum last November. The voters then directed that the 1947 act become invalid. Elgin then could complete his term which ends the first of May.

The new bill, which was conceded to have administration backing again and a fair chance of passage, has no "ripper" significance.

It merely states that the new commissioner be named for a term beginning the first Monday in May and ending in May, 1951. After that he would serve for four years.

The new motor vehicles commissioner is expected to be Arthur Brice, of Betterton, former State Senate president and now a member of the Public Service Commission. Brice would have had the job in 1947 if the referendum had not been obtained.

Both houses held typical Monday night sessions, lasting less than three-quarters of an hour.

The Senate had a three-minute flurry when Sen. Goldstein engaged in some name-calling of Ernest Vaughn, director of the Game and Inland Fish Commission.

He was seeking defeat of a bill calling among other things for fur dealers to report to Vaughn between July 1 and 10 each year anything he wanted to know about their activities.

"You have a dictator in that guy Vaughn running the fish and game commission," Goldstein said.

"What are we coming to? It's worse than Russia."

Diamond Merchants Beaten And Robbed

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Two men forced their way into a taxicab today, bludgeoned a diamond merchant with an iron pipe and escaped with $55,000 in diamonds.

They rolled the merchant's unconscious body in a street after searching his pockets. Then they forced the cab driver to speed them away. They missed taking $1,255 in cash, $14,000 in checks and $500 in diamonds.

Louis Steinberg, the diamond merchant, later was taken to Bellevue Hospital and treated for bruises.

"Pure Corn?"

"Vision Of Invasion," Featuring "Axis Sally," Is Heard At Trial

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The hysterical screams of "Axis Sally," broadcasting a melodramatic warning to American soldiers on the dangers of storming Hitler's Europe, were heard at the treason trial of United States-born Mildred E. Gillars today.

The broadcast, entitled "Vision of Invasion," was sent out over the German radio four weeks before D-Day in 1944.

Earphone-equipped spectators in the crowded federal courtroom promptly labelled the Nazi wartime production "pure corn."

Miss Gillars herself did not bother to put on her set of earphones to listen to the recorded skit in which she allegedly played the role of an American mother whose son was killed in the landings on the French coast.

Testifying for the government, Adelbert Houben, 41, manager of the overseas division of the German Broadcasting Company during the war, identified the voice of the woman who played the stellar role in the drama as the voice of Miss Gillars.

The 48-year-old defendant, a native of Portland, Me., faces a possible maximum sentence of death if convicted. She has pleaded innocent.

In the radio sketch heard today, "Axis Sally" cried out against the then forthcoming invasion in a conversation with her actor "husband," as follows:

Axis Sally: "Everybody says the invasion is suicide. The simplest persons knows that. Between 70 and 90 per cent of the boys will be killed or crippled for the rest of their lives."

Husband: "What can we do about it?"

Axis Sally: "Bah! We could have done a lot about it. Have we got a government by the people or not? Roosevelt had no right to go to war."

The stage husband then cautions her against making unpatriotic statements, but she retorts that she is an American woman and has a right to say what she thinks.

Houben testified that Miss Gillars' broadcasts were voluntary because, he said, no foreigners were ever forced to appear on the Nazi radio.

May Fear Growing Western Unity Move

By HAL COOPER

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Western diplomats took a skeptical view tonight of Prime Minister Stalin's cagy "peace" overture. Many quarters thought Stalin was reflecting Rusia's shock at the speed with which movements for western unity are taking shape.

Experts in capitals all over the world were studying the answers Stalin gave yesterday to an American newsman's questions. They were trying to determine whether Stalin was engaged in a Soviet propaganda move or was expressing a genuine desire for peace.

Stalin said he had "no objection" to meeting President Truman at a mutually acceptable place to discuss a "peace pact" and gradual disarmament. He also said Russia was willing to consider a joint American-Russian declaration of peace intentions.

A Moscow dispatch said Stalin's statements had convinced many Russians that their leader is going to sit down at a conference table with Mr. Truman. Foreign diplomats in the Soviet capital were doubtful, however.

Truman's Statement Emphasized

President Truman has said repeatedly he is willing to meet Stalin in Washington. The White House called attention to the President's statement today but emphasized that there has been "no official word from the Russian government" regarding such a meeting.

French Premier Henri Queuille, in the first comment on the Stalin statement by a western head of government, said action, not words, was needed to achieve an East-West peace.

An American diplomatic source in London expressed the belief that Russia was "shocked into the new Stalin maneuver by the speed with which the West is building up its political defenses against aggression."

A similar view was expressed by a British informant who said Stalin had made "an obvious attempt to torpedo" the proposed North Atlantic security pact. Newspapers in Western Europe carried editorials along the same line.

USSR Shows Nervousness

Russia has shown definite symptoms of nervousness over the proposed North Atlantic alliance now being negotiated in Washington. The Soviet Foreign Ministry has described the pact as a plot to undermine the United Nations and an attempt to establish American-British world domination.

Russia also put pressure on Norway to explain whether she intends to join the Atlantic defense system and furnish military bases to Western Powers. Yesterday Sweden, Denmark and Norway failed to agree on a projected Scandinavian pact. This was the stumbling block: Should the three Scandinavian

Extension Of GOP Act Ok'd By Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—A bill prolonging the life of a GOP anti-inflation measure for seven months after February 28 was passed late today by the Democratic Senate.

The measure, which now goes to the House, provides for voluntary agreements by industry to channel scarce material into essential uses.

The administration urged the extension as a stop-gap pending action on President Truman's request for compulsory control powers.

Democrats in the Senate took much ribbing from Republicans who stressed that the first item in the Democratic anti-inflation program was a new lease on life for a GOP measure.

Democratic leaders replied that the law had done some good but not enough.

Tariff Bill Action Due

In both House and Senate today, administration chiefs put the spurs to the President's bills as the big program ground through committee hearings, with economic bills in the lead.

At the White House, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) told the President that the tariff bill—the administration's move to restore reciprocal trade agreements legislation to its original form—will be taken up in the House next week. The bill would wipe out restrictions voted by the Republican Congress clipping presidential authority to cut tariffs in agreement with other nations.

Rayburn said early House action is in prospect on Mr. Truman's demand for an increase from 40 to 75 cents in the national minimum wage. Hearings may end Friday. In the House Labor Committee, the Western Union Telegraph Company asked that any new wage-hour law exempt some of its part-time workers in small communities.

Former President Herbert Hoover gave the House Executive Expenditures Committee his firm endorsement of President Truman's request for permanent powers to order reorganizations of government agencies—subject to congressional veto.

President Truman's Election Campaign Promise Fulfilled

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Truman welcomed Israel into the world family of nations today by granting it full-fledged American recognition.

At the same time, he extended United States recognition to the British-supported Arab kingdom of TransJordan.

The White House made separate announcements of the two actions. This emphasized the official American position there has been no "deal" with the British to trade American recognition of Transjordan for British recognition of Israel.

Britian in effect reversed its policy last Friday by granting Israel limited, or "de facto," recognition. Foreign Minister Bevin told the House Of Commons a few days earlier the American decision to recognize TransJordan materially influenced Britain's action.

The American announcement of full, or "de jure," recognition for the new Jewish state fulfilled a promise made by President Truman during the election campaign some three months ago.

Free Elections Held

On October 24, the President pledged full American recognition of Israel once it held free elections to choose a parliament and establish the provisional regime then in effect as permanent.

The elections were held last Wednesday with nearly 90 per cent of those eligible voting. The results assured continuance of the pro-American government headed by Premier David Ben-Gurion and President Chiam Weizmann.

United States recognition came 263 days after Jewish leaders carved a long cherished nation out of what had formerly been the British mandate of Palestine. It came as Jewish government officials negotiated for a truce with the Egyptians and other Arab nations which invaded Palestine after the British left last May.

The American government gave Israel a powerful helping hand six days before its elections by granting it a $100,000,000 loan. Some foreign diplomats said this helped swing the election to the incumbent government.

McDonald May Be U. S. Envoy

The peresent United States political representative to Israel, James G. McDonald, of New York, probably will be named the American ambassador later, officials said.

Jewish diplomatic officials said Elihu Epstein, head of the Israeli mission here, will undoubtedly be their country's first ambassador to the United States.

TransJordan was set up as an independent country March 22, 1946, and Abdullah was proclaimed as King two months later. Britain signed a mutual assistance treaty with TransJordan in 1946 to provide arms, money, and military advice to the TransJordan armed forces.

King Abdullah has been urging the other Arab states recently to make peace with Israel on the grounds that a Jewish government

Burma Troops Defeat Rebels

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 31 (AP)—Government sources said a force of entrenched Karen rebels surrendered today after a bitter nine-hour battle with Burmese troops on the outskirts of Rangoon.

Heavy machine guns and mortars blasted the Karens from trenches and concrete buildings in and about the suburban village on Thamaing, only eight miles north of the capital, the informants said. At times the battle raged at point-blank range.

Residents of the suburbs made a panicky rush toward Rangoon after the shooting stopped. Many Karens were said to have escaped in the confusion.

The fighting held up peace talks scheduled here. Sav Ba U Gyi, president of the separatist Karen National Union, was unable to get through the battle area to resume truce conversations started yesterday with Burmese government leaders. Thamaing straddles the road down which he would have to travel from his home in Insein, another suburban town.

Ba U Gyi has proposed a settlement between the government and the Karen tribesmen and various other rebelling political factions. Some rebels groups are fighting jointly. Others are conducting their own individual campaigns.

36 Students, Teachers Are Overcome By Gas

McALLEN, Tex., Jan. 31 (AP)—At least 36 pupils and teachers in Lincoln Elementary School here were overcome by gas or gas fumes today.

The victims were placed in the corridors, and doors at the end of the halls were thrown open. They became violently ill.

The McCallen Monitor said "practically every doctor in town" answered the emergency call.

Four of the victims were hospitalized. One of them, Ernest Vining, an eighth grade student, was in critical condition. He was given a blood transfusion.

Eight of the victims were teachers, all women, and 28 were pupils.

All seven McCallen schools were closed indefinitely while tests are made to determine the cause of the escaping gas or gas fumes.

Bridges Says U. S. "Failed" Chiang, Blasts Marshall

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) told the Senate today former Secretary of State George C. Marshall "did a miserable job" in representing this country in China.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, immediately came to Marshall's defense. He blamed "corrupt" Chinese officials for the plight that Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist government finds itself in as the result of Communist military victories.

Bridges, long an advocate of increased aid to Chiang, said "we turned our backs on China, a nation that stood beside us in times of stress." He added:

"Some day that is coming back to haunt the administration."

Palestine Talks At Crossroads

RHODES, Jan. 31 (AP)—Israeli-Egyptian armistice talks were said today to have reached a point where the Egyptians have a choice of either making major concessions or taking the responsibility for ending the conference.

The thorny Negev boundary question has deadlocked the negotiations which now are on the verge of failure.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, acting United Nations mediator, has presented several proposals in an attempt to end the stalemate. One informant described the suggestions as constituting a "Bunche line."

According to this source the position of the Israeli delegation is close enough to Bunche's proposals to make acceptance probable if the Egyptians agree. The Egyptians were said to have been placed in the position of having to make a decision.

Within an hour and a half after Bunche brought in his documents, Col. Ismail Sherrine of the Egyptian delegation, left by plane to present the proposals to authorities in Cairo.

Bunche said meetings would be resumed here when both delegations are ready with "views and reactions." He added: "It is hoped this procedure will serve to crystalize matters."

The mediator's efforts have been directed to keeping the armistice negotiations alive. Thus far neither the Israeli nor the Egyptian delegates have wanted to take the initiative in breaking off the talks although both sides are pessimistic about the chances for agreement.

Hsueh Yueh Ready To Lead Defense Of Four Provinces

By JAMES FLOOD

CANTON, China, Jan. 31 (AP)—China's four southern provinces centered on Canton will make a last-ditch stand against the Communists, whatever the outcome of peace efforts elsewhere, Gov. Hsueh Yueh declared today.

The new governor of Kwangtung, who reluctantly took over last week after T. V. Soong departed, said in an interview he was "ready to be a martyr" and intended to lead the independent defense of Kwangtung, Kwangsi, Hunan and Fukien Provinces.

He predicted Generalissmo Chiang Kai-Shek would try a comeback from his questionable 10-day-old retirement, but intimated Chiang would get a cool welcome in the South.

As he spoke, the Communists formally took over the old northern capital of Peiping and government hopes of arranging a general surrender deal seemed fainter than ever.

Acting President Li Tsung-Jen flew from Nanking to Shanghai but returned to the semi-deserted capital after a short stay.

(It was learned later in Shanghai that Li's brief trip resulted in the appointment of a five-member delegation of social and cultural leaders to aid in efforts to help Li's official five-man peace delegation, with whom the Communists have refused to deal unless Chiang Kai-Shek and others on their "war criminal" list are detained.)

A reliable official source said Li's trip was "in pursuit of efforts towards peace," but his quick return hinted at failure.

The government is in the process of moving from Nanking to Canton, and has announced it will be functioning in Canton by next Saturday.

Hsueh, however said no final decision had been made and the government "probably will go to Formosa."

He said Premier Sun Fo, last reported in Shanghai, "wants to come to Canton to join us," and adder, "Li Tsung-Jen would also like to come, but there is no need.

Hsueh, famous as the defender of Changsha against the Japanese, was appointed governor of Kwang-

Tobin Defends It, Aiken Claims It Lacks Teeth

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (AP)—The hot fight over the Truman labor bill opened today in Congress. Secretary of Labor Tobin called for its enactment, and Republicans immediately objected that it had "no teeth" to deal with union leaders like John L. Lewis.

Lewis, though absent, dominated the hearing before the Senate Labor Committee on the administration bill, which would repeal the Taft-Hartley Act, and replace it with an "improved" Wagner Act.

Much of the discussion centered on an administration proposal to wipe out the Taft-Hartley law power to block "national emergency" strikes by means of court injunctions.

Tobin said this provision should be scuttled and replaced with a 30-day voluntary cooling off procedure.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) protested. Talking about the chief of the United Mine Workers' Union and its coal strikes, Aiken said:

"In the case of Mr. Lewis, that (the voluntary plan) would be hardly any teeth at all — unless you might say false teeth."

Public Opinion Farce Cited

Tobin argued that settlement recommendations by emergency boards under the cooling off procedure would be backed by the "powerful force" of public opinion. He said that would do the trick and prevent strikes affecting national health or safety.

The Cabinet officer started to say something, too, about "the power of the President of the United States . . ." then he turned instead to the "force of public opinion."

In assailing the Taft-Hartley law and plugging for a new labor law "encouraging free collective bargaining," Tobin read a 20-page statement. When he finished there was less than an hour left for committee questioning. So Tobin, after answering some inquiries, agreed to come back Wednesday to deal with the rest.

The hearing was held in the small Armed Services Committee room. It was jammed and the crowd overflowed into the corridor. Newsreel floodlights made the little room a sweatbox.

Lewis Attorney Is Spectator

Among the spectators was Welly K. Hopkins, the John L. Lewis attorney who has fought the government unsuccessfully in the UMW's battles against court injunctions to block coal strikes.

In a generalized indictment of the Taft-Hartley law, preceding a more detailed lambasting of specific provisions, Tobin charged that the law has:

1. Brought "confusion" to the field of labor relations.
2. Limited the scope of collective

More Strikes Since T-H, Tobin Declares

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Tobin said today that since the Taft-Hartley law was enacted there have been eight per cent more strikes, 50 per cent more workers involved and 30 per cent more idleness than in a comparable prewar period.

Tobin made the comparison in a statement presented to the Senate Labor Committee. He appeared before the group to seek repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and its replacement with the old Wagner Labor Relations Act, amended to conform to President Truman's recommendations.

Tobin said the number of work stoppages in the years 1946-48, inclusive, was, with a single exception, "consistently higher than during the 1930s." He named 1937 as the exception.

U. S. Is Producing Super A-Bombs, Atomic Energy Commission Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The United States is producing super A-bombs—substantially more powerful than the missiles that blasted Japan during World War II.

The Atomic Energy Commission made this disclosure today for the first time in an official report to Congress.

The commission recorded "an expansion of effort in all phases of atomic energy development," both for arms and peaceful pursuits.

And it announced that emergency defense measures have been taken to safeguard the world's No. 1 secret against sabotage and "against attack."

A major objective, the commission reported, is a greatly stepped-up production of the two atomic fuels—uranium 235, which is found sparsely in raw ore, and the synthetic new element, plutonium.

To this end, officials said there is now under way "the biggest single construction effort in American peacetime history," which will eventually cost more than $700,000,000. It includes construction or major alteration of 20 plants centering around the plutonium plant at Hanford, Wash., where nearly 15,000 workers are now employed.

In its fifth semi-annual report to Congress the commission further reported:

1. That the $3,000,000,000 atomic energy program has attained "a momentum which, if sustained, the commission believes will maintain and increase the nation's lead in atomic energy development."
2. That a new office of "intelligenec" has been set up by the AEC "to correlate and evaluate information on foreign atomic energy developments."
3. That continued efforts are being made to release as much still-secret information as possible without endangering the "common defense and security."

Chairman David Lilienthal, at a news conference, declared the present report represents a "turning point" towards th increased release of information because, he says, secrecy carried to extremes "could actually blacken out democracy."

Armed Bandits Rob Miami Beach Bank

MIAMI Beach, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—Two armed bandits who posed as escalator repairmen robbed the Mercantile National Bank of Miami Beach of between $60,000 and $75,000 today.

The gunmen knocked a hole in the wall of the bank's night deposit room, bound, gagged and handcuffed two tellers and threw them in a closet.

S. W. Curry, cashier, said the gunmen got between $60,000 and $75,000 in currency.

New Bill Would Fix Term Of Vehicles Commissioner

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31 (AP)—A sequel to the motor vehicles commissioner impasse of 1947-48 was drafted tonight by the delegation from Washington County — where Gov. Lane and his political enemy, W. Lee Elgin, both reside.

The six-man delegation put in a bill which would make the term of the Motor Vehicle Commissioner approximately the same as that of the Governor.

Thus an incoming Governor could select his own man for the job.

The administration wanted to do this in 1947 and passed a bill to that effect.

Friends of Elgin termed it "ripper legislation" and obtained enough signatures of voters for a referendum last November. The voters then directed that the 1947 act become invalid. Elgin then could complete his term which ends the first of May.

The new bill, which was conceded to have administration backing again and a fair chance of passage, has no "ripper" significance.

It merely states that the new commissioner be named for a term beginning the first Monday in May and ending in May, 1951. After that he would serve for four years.

The new motor vehicles commissioner is expected to be Arthur Brice, of Betterton, former State Senate president and now a member of the Public Service Commission. Brice would have had the job in 1947 if the referendum had not been obtained.

Both houses held typical Monday night sessions, lasting less than three-quarters of an hour.

The Senate had a three-minute flurry when Sen. Goldstein engaged in some name-calling of Ernest Vaughn, director of the Game and Inland Fish Commission.

He was seeking defeat of a bill calling among other things for fur dealers to report to Vaughn between July 1 and 10 each year anything he wanted to know about their activities.

"You have a dictator in that guy Vaughn running the fish and game commission," Goldstein said.

"What are we coming to? It's worse than Russia."

Diamond Merchants Beaten And Robbed

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Two men forced their way into a taxicab today, bludgeoned a diamond merchant with an iron pipe and escaped with $55,000 in diamonds.

They rolled the merchant's unconscious body in a street after searching his pockets. Then they forced the cab driver to speed them away. They missed taking $1,255 in cash, $14,000 in checks and $500 in diamonds.

Louis Steinberg, the diamond merchant, later was taken to Bellevue Hospital and treated for bruises.

"Pure Corn?"

"Vision Of Invasion," Featuring "Axis Sally," Is Heard At Trial

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The hysterical screams of "Axis Sally," broadcasting a melodramatic warning to American soldiers on the dangers of storming Hitler's Europe, were heard at the treason trial of United States-born Mildred E. Gillars today.

The broadcast, entitled "Vision of Invasion," was sent out over the German radio four weeks before D-Day in 1944.

Earphone-equipped spectators in the crowded federal courtroom promptly labelled the Nazi wartime production "pure corn."

Miss Gillars herself did not bother to put on her set of earphones to listen to the recorded skit in which she allegedly played the role of an American mother whose son was killed in the landings on the French coast.

Testifying for the government, Adelbert Houben, 41, manager of the overseas division of the German Broadcasting Company during the war, identified the voice of the woman who played the stellar role in the drama as the voice of Miss Gillars.

The 48-year-old defendant, a native of Portland, Me., faces a possible maximum sentence of death if convicted. She has pleaded innocent.

In the radio sketch heard today, "Axis Sally" cried out against the then forthcoming invasion in a conversation with her actor "husband," as follows:

Axis Sally: "Everybody says the invasion is suicide. The simplest persons knows that. Between 70 and 90 per cent of the boys will be killed or crippled for the rest of their lives."

Husband: "What can we do about it?"

Axis Sally: "Bah! We could have done a lot about it. Have we got a government by the people or not? Roosevelt had no right to go to war."

The stage husband then cautions her against making unpatriotic statements, but she retorts that she is an American woman and has a right to say what she thinks.

Houben testified that Miss Gillars' broadcasts were voluntary because, he said, no foreigners were ever forced to appear on the Nazi radio.

Counsel For Reds Set Back Again

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Counsel for United States Communist leaders suffered a new setback today in their effort to get Federal Judge Harold R. Medina to disqualify himself from hearing their challenge to the federal jury-picking system.

For the fifth time since the conspiracy trial opened January 17, Medina denied a motion that he disqualify himself and all other jurists in the district from hearing the challenge. The motion had been pending since last week.

The defense contends that the method of selecting jury panels discriminates against the poor and members of minority groups and in favor of the rich. Defense attorneys claim all judges in the district uphold this system.

Therefore, they argue, the indictment against the 11 Communists, all members of the American party's national committee, should be voided.

The Communists are charged with conspiring to advocate the overthrow of the United States government.

Wednesday.

The Senate passed 18 bills. One of those sent to the Governor would allow a jury in convicting a man of rape to include in the verdict "without capital punishment."

If this recommendation were made the maximum sentence would be 20 years.

A veterans' bonus bill is certain to land in the Maryland General Assembly, but just when or how was decidedly uncertain tonight.

Senate Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany) said after conferring with American Legion officers he had decided to delay introducing his bill calling for a $110,000,000 bond issue for bonuses.

"I understand the Legion legislative committee has a measure prepared for introduction in the House of Delegates," Kimble said. "That being the case, I will hold mine up."

Both measures, Kimble said, are basically the same.

As legislators trooped back to the State House, they learned that the State Planning Commission has proposed a $31,176,969 capital improvements program.

How much the administration wants for new buildings and improvements at state institutions will be disclosed in a separate message Lane has scheduled later in the session.

December Sales Tax Receipts Are Record

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31 (AP)—Christmas - shopping Marylanders contributed more sales tax pennies in December than any month since the levy was first imposed, the comptroller's office announced today.

Receipts in January, representing taxes actually collected in December, totaled $3,105,675, the Retail Sales Tax Division reported.

Since the 1949 fiscal year began last July 1, receipts have amounted to $17,203,656. The total estimated for the year is $27,500,000.

Legislators Told They Can't Fix Parking Tickets

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31 (AP)—Maryland General Assemblymen may pass the laws that run the state. But they can't fix parking tickets.

Lt. Menash E. Katz, of the state police, told them so tonight.

Katz heads a detail of troopers assigned to the State House for the legislative session—and has for more terms than any lawmaker can recall.

He arranged with Annapolis authorities to reserve parking spaces around the State House circle for senators and delegates. Cars must display official tags, however, or "receive summons from the local police department."

He said he already had mapped a four-province defense coalition. Asked directly if his action meant a split with the Nanking regime, he replied:

"We are fighting both feudalism and Communism, Nanking has failed because they were feudalistic. I include Chiang Kai-Shek among the feudalists."

Hsueh acknowledged he had been reluctant to accept the governorship from Nanking because he considered Nanking politically backward.

"I am a progressive," he stated. "As governor of this province I intend to initiate political and economic reforms heretofore negleted by the Nationalists."

When he predicted Chiang's comeback in the event peace moves broke down, Hsueh was asked if he would oppose Chiang.

Counsel For Reds Set Back Again

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Counsel for United States Communist leaders suffered a new setback today in their effort to get Federal Judge Harold R. Medina to disqualify himself from hearing their challenge to the federal jury-picking system.

For the fifth time since the conspiracy trial opened January 17, Medina denied a motion that he disqualify himself and all other jurists in the district from hearing the challenge. The motion had been pending since last week.

The defense contends that the method of selecting jury panels discriminates against the poor and members of minority groups and in favor of the rich. Defense attorneys claim all judges in the district uphold this system.

Therefore, they argue, the indictment against the 11 Communists, all members of the American party's national committee, should be voided.

The Communists are charged with conspiring to advocate the overthrow of the United States government.

Wednesday.

The Senate passed 18 bills. One of those sent to the Governor would allow a jury in convicting a man of rape to include in the verdict "without capital punishment."

If this recommendation were made the maximum sentence would be 20 years.

A veterans' bonus bill is certain to land in the Maryland General Assembly, but just when or how was decidedly uncertain tonight.

Senate Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany) said after conferring with American Legion officers he had decided to delay introducing his bill calling for a $110,000,000 bond issue for bonuses.

"I understand the Legion legislative committee has a measure prepared for introduction in the House of Delegates," Kimble said. "That being the case, I will hold mine up."

Both measures, Kimble said, are basically the same.

As legislators trooped back to the State House, they learned that the State Planning Commission has proposed a $31,176,969 capital improvements program.

How much the administration wants for new buildings and improvements at state institutions will be disclosed in a separate message Lane has scheduled later in the session.

December Sales Tax Receipts Are Record

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31 (AP)—Christmas - shopping Marylanders contributed more sales tax pennies in December than any month since the levy was first imposed, the comptroller's office announced today.

Receipts in January, representing taxes actually collected in December, totaled $3,105,675, the Retail Sales Tax Division reported.

Since the 1949 fiscal year began last July 1, receipts have amounted to $17,203,656. The total estimated for the year is $27,500,000.

Legislators Told They Can't Fix Parking Tickets

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31 (AP)—Maryland General Assemblymen may pass the laws that run the state. But they can't fix parking tickets.

Lt. Menash E. Katz, of the state police, told them so tonight.

Katz heads a detail of troopers assigned to the State House for the legislative session—and has for more terms than any lawmaker can recall.

He arranged with Annapolis authorities to reserve parking spaces around the State House circle for senators and delegates. Cars must display official tags, however, or "receive summons from the local police department."

Rep. Case Would Admit Displaced Doctors

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Rep. Case (R-SD) asked Congress today to let 500 displaced doctors and 1,000 displaced nurses enter the country to take jobs at government hospitals.

He introduced a bill to amend the Displaced Persons Act of 1948.

NBC Tops CBS 7-6 In Hooper Ratings

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—The National Broadcasting Company regained its lead over the Columbia Broadcasting System in the top 15 programs of the C. E. Hooper audience ratings announced tonight.

NBC had seven programs in the top 15 to six for CBS and two for the American Broadcasting Company. CBS had taken the lead for the first time this season in the January 19 ratings with a seven to five edge over NBC.

Southern senators were expected to offer a compromise to the Senate Rules Committee in the battle of the filibuster. This would allow 86 of the 96 senators to limit debate if a national emergency were involved.

But the southerners put their foot down on any move to gag them when the President's civil rights program is offered.

Administration leaders and Republicans hope to provide a rule whereby a two-thirds vote could trim debate on any subject.

He said he already had mapped a four-province defense coalition. Asked directly if his action meant a split with the Nanking regime, he replied:

"We are fighting both feudalism and Communism, Nanking has failed because they were feudalistic. I include Chiang Kai-Shek among the feudalists."

Hsueh acknowledged he had been reluctant to accept the governorship from Nanking because he considered Nanking politically backward.

"I am a progressive," he stated. "As governor of this province I intend to initiate political and economic reforms heretofore negleted by the Nationalists."

When he predicted Chiang's comeback in the event peace moves broke down, Hsueh was asked if he would oppose Chiang.

"No comment," he rejoined.

First Move Is Boy's Not Girl's

Nancy Mottram

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I've been fond of a certain fellow for several months, but he never paid any attention to me, so I decided to make him notice me. I knew he went to the drug store every night after school, so I began to go, and always managed to be walking home when he was. I called him to ask about homework and to talk a few times and though he's been friendly, he still hasn't asked me for a date. I don't know what to do now, so I'm asking you for advice."

(A) The lad isn't blind, and you've made it pretty clear that you rate him as more than just a passing acquaintance. It's an old truth that boys like to feel that they've taken the initiative and won the girl, instead of having it the opposite way around. As long as he's positive you're so interested, he might not bother to come around—there's no mystery here. Don't deliberately seek him out—leave that to him. When you do see him by coincidence, smile, say hello, and eventually, you might stop to talk. But let him make the first move towards a romance.

• — • — •

(Q) "Dear Nancy: The girl I date has my ring, and we're considered to be going steady, but I don't think it's working out. When she wants to go somewhere and I've made plans to go out with the boys, she gets mad. We've been arguing about this for some time. As long as I don't take any other girl out, I'm keeping my agreement, so I don't see why she should object to my going out with my friends. What do you think?"

(A) You're not going back on your promise to date her only, but if she sees you on a date only about once a week, going steady couldn't mean much to her. There's no call for you to drop your friends to see her every night or swing to the other extreme, but try to divide your time. You have a responsibility to both of them, and you'll have to try to work out some sort of a schedule.

• — • — •

"Dear Nancy: We're having a school dance soon, and I'd like to ask a boy I've known for a long time; but the trouble is, I very seldom see him. In this case, would it be all right for me to call him at his home and invite him?"

(A) It's the only way you could be sure of asking him in time. Since you can't ever be sure of meeting him, why not call some evening when you're sure he'll be there, and ask him if he'll go? A telephone call in this case won't seem forward at all. You want to get his answer soon, and it's the only practical way.

Nancy will answer as many questions as possible in her column. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Four Forfeit Gaming Bonds

Twenty five dollars each was forfeited by four men, arrested on gaming charges for the alleged operation of tipboards and punchboards, who failed to appear in Police Court yesterday.

Nabbed Saturday night by City Police were Joseph Squillace, 753 Kelly Boulevard and Hugh Stride, 751 Kelly Boulevard.

Arrested Saturday afternoon on charges of maintaining the gambling devices were Anthony Cioni, 129 North Mechanic Street, and Ernest Stonebraker, 126 South Mechanic Street.

Officer Louis Downey arrested Cioni and Stonebraker, and Officers J. W. Stouffer and J. Carl Brown apprehended Stride and Squillace.

Officers headed by Lt. James E. Van, arrested William Shipley, 400 block Virginia Avenue, earlier Saturday when four slot machines were found in the South End Republican Club. Shipley posted $200 bond for a hearing Wednesday morning in Police Court.

The club had reported a robbery of $275 in cash and the police found the machines during their investigation.

Marriage On Decline

A total of 224 marriage licenses was issued at the office of Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden during January. Records show this is a decline over December's total of 313 and also below the 257 issued in January 1948.

Fossil bones of a 20-foot plesiosauer, 150,000,000 years old, were recently uncovered in an 18-inch belt of blue limestone at Barnstone quarry, Nottingshire, England.

Signs That Inflation Peak Has Been Reached Multiplying

The signs are multiplying that the peak of post-war inflation has been reached and passed. Actually, as figures on the cost-of-living index compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics show, the nation is on a mild downward price trend.

There are a number of causes for this condition. In many lines of goods supply has caught up with demand. Consumer resistance, too, has had its affect. A huge national budget, syphoning off a big slice of personal income in taxes, is a steadying influence.

The immediate effect of a price drop would be good on the national economy. A mild fall would, among other things, tone down or even eliminate demands for a fourth round of wage increases which, in itself, would be a highly inflationary move. It would permit the country to enter a period of price stabilization.

However there is a danger that the movement might snowball into real deflation. Already there is increasing talk about a coming recession. Labor, in some instances, is charting its course to protect itself against an actual depression. One economist predicts a major depression in five years.

Such talk can be damaging. A defeatist attitude breeds defeat and expectations of a depression may produce one. The present mild decline in the cost-of-living, the increasing layoffs and the growth in the ranks of the unemployed are signs that the national economy could not maintain its past momentum, and needed adjustment.

Whether what is happening now is merely adjustment or whether it is the beginning of a trend in the other direction is something that requires serious study and consideration. It is too easy, at this stage of the game, to upset the applecart by ill-timed demands from labor, super-caution on the part of business, or the application of half-baked New Deal economic panaceas by the Administration.

The Squabble Over The GOP National Chairman

Hugh D. Scott, Republican Congressman from Philadelphia, made a good record in both the Atlantic and Pacific areas in World War II and he entered Japan on the first day of the American occupation. However, he did nearly all his fighting then and none to speak of—or at least none that registered—when, as Governor Dewey's choice, he became the Republican National Chairman in 1948.

Both men evidently believed, as most others did, that the Party would coast to an easy and a certain victory. Although the campaign was supposed to be fought on the record made by the Eightieth (Republican) Congress, its achievements and the attacks upon it made by the President and other speakers were largely ignored by the Party manager.

So there were valid reasons for the numerously supported demands at the Omaha conference of the Republican National Committee that another national chairman be chosen. And there should have been. Mr. Scott did not measure up to the type of leadership the G. O. P. is in need of. The National Committee should have grasped the opportunity to inject into the veins of the Party the blood of one it felt could jolt it out of its complacency with a program that would rekindle the fighting spirit of the rank and file of the American people.

But the motion to declare the office vacant was tabled in a close vote (54 to 50) and Congressman Scott remains at the helm, the custom that a chairman who fails to deliver a victory shall step down being disregarded. However, much to the surprise of his most severe critic, Scott showed at Omaha, what was not greatly in evidence in the recent campaign, that he knew how to fight. If this preludes a purpose to follow through and put the Republican organization in fighting trim, the disappointment widely felt over the failure to choose a new chairman might be dispelled.

Something New Has Been Added To The Cat World

If the lion is the king of beasts, the cat is surely their princess. And now, it is revealed, a new royal line has been established. A New York breeder has developed a new strain by crossing white Persians with Siamese. The product is short-haired and cream-colored, with red points. Its eyes are blue.

Readers who are not too familiar with terms as applied to the cat family may need to be told that the "points" of a Siamese, which are always darker than the rest of its body, are its paws, tail and ears, mostly. Siamese now come in two strains, seal points and blue points.

A distinction was formerly made between Persian cats, supposedly from Iran, and Angoras, supposedly from Ankhara, Turkey. It is no longer recognized. These are called long-hairs, though the quality of their nocturnal music is no more symphonic than the tones produced by amorous short-hairs.

Persians, or long-hairs, most of them, have reasonably quiet voices, a low, cobby build, low-slung tails. Siamese talk louder, and produce sounds considerably more raucous and feral than a mere meow. Like other short-hairs, they have a rangier build and carry their tails at parade-rest.

They differ in temperament, too. Swinburne, who wrote, "Stately, kindly, lordly friend condensed here to sit by me" was obviously talking to a Persian. Persians are likely to be aloof and scornful, except when they choose to let their hair down and go zany. People who don't like them can generally manage to ignore them.

But a Siamese will not permit itself to be ignored. When it isn't climbing the curtains, it may be swarming up its owners' back. The Siamese is an affectionate rowdy, and it won't let people alone.

So, the new line, bred from a Persian and a Siamese, should be a creature of contradictions born from a mating of opposites.

We are making history, as a Congressman says, but the world is suffering from an over-abundance of history.

Congressmen are paid by checks which are mailed to them; senators are paid by checks which are brought to their office by messenger.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Trachoma—Granulated Eyelids

TRACHOMA IS a serious eye infection that has plagued the inhabitants of Asia, Europe, and Egypt for centuries. In our country, it is particularly prevalent among the Indians and reams have been written on how these early Americans became infected. The disease was transmitted from Europe, according to the traditions of the Red Man, by employes of the Hudson bay company.

By 1912, almost 25 per cent of our Indians were afflicted; this figure varied, however, and was higher in certain areas than others. By 1938 there was little change because trachoma had become resistant to all known remedies. The discovery of the sulfonamides proved a boon and by 1943, the percentage among the Navajos had dropped from 32.5 to 10.11.

• — • — •

Before the advent of the wonder drug there were few eye conditions as miserable as trachoma. The malady usually persisted for many years and upon healing, left scars that interfered with vision and movement of the eyes. The under surfaces of the lids and the white part of the orbit are affected mainly. The disease begins like any ordinary infection; the vessels become prominent and the parts red and swollen. Burning and itching appear and the individual complains that he "has something in the eye." The orbit becomes watery and light intensifies distress. The irritated lids twitch and now and then the victim is bothered to such an extent that he has difficulty in seeing. In a short time, eye changes occur that give the disorder its nickname, "granulated eyelids." Tiny protrusions similar to gooseflesh literally cover the membranes. They may be no larger than a pinhead and are soft initially but eventually become granulated and hard. This accentuates irritation and inflammation and the secretions accumulate, causing the lid margins to stick together.

Intermittent improvement may be invariably the ailment returns to its former state. This stage may go on for months or years until the disease burns itself out; but healing is accompanied by scar formation which may obliterate sight so markedly that blindness ensues. Sometimes fibrous bands tug on the margins of the lids, causing them to evert; as a result, the lashes touch and irritate the orbit. In others, the lid becomes everted and exposes the membranes to the elements.

The sulfonamides are of no value in curing such complications but frequently control the acute stage of the disease. Distressing symptoms and granular surfaces disappear rapidly; ulcers heal, tearing is lessened, and swelling subsides. This is in contrast to the older forms of treatment in which the membranes were cauterized with copper solutions or silver nitrate. In chronic cases, the granulations must be squeezed out and in some instances, literally are scrubbed with a stiff toothbrush. Surgery often is required to rectify the after-effects of scarring.

Trachoma is contagious and its victims should be extremely cautious not to pass the infection on to others. They should keep their handkerchiefs, towels, and linens to themselves and be careful not to use the same wash-basin as others. A virus is said to be responsible, which is transmitted by direct contact or through vermin. Individuals living in unhygienic environments are most susceptible and for this reason the disease is more prevalent among the poorer classes.

Rib Removal

C. R. writes: A friend claims that her ribs were removed for high blood pressure. I think this is done for tuberculosis. Is there an operation for high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes. When the operation known as a "sympathectomy" is done in hypertension, the ribs are removed in order to reach certain nerves along the spine.

Bosh

A. S. writes: I have been troubled with arthritis for many years and was told recently that eating tomatoes is responsible for this disease. Is this true?

Early Ambulation

Mrs. M. writes: A woman I know got up and walked a few steps the day after a major operation. Was this the thing to do?

REPLY

Yes, if her physician advocated it. Many surgeons have found that their patients do better under this regimen. They maintain strength, recuperate faster, and are less likely to develop complications.

REPLY

This is easy—switch to another dessert.

Undersecretary Of State Webb Vetoes Big Business For University Job; Big Butter Producer Lobbies For Oleo; Sen. Ball Censored TVA Report

—Says DREW PEARSON—

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Not many people know it, but President Truman had a hard time persuading Jimmy Webb, then Director of the Budget, to become Undersecretary of State.

Webb, whose job of whittling down the budget is one of the toughest in the Government, had received several lush offers to return to private business. Tom Morgan, head of Sperry Gyroscope, offered him $35,000. Clay Williams of Reynolds Tobacco made him an equally attractive offer, while a big chemical company in New York also put in a bid.

However, the job which appealed to Webb most would have paid him much less. It came from an old friend whom Webb greatly respected—Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina. While Graham was in the Dutch East Indies trying to iron out the Indonesian civil war, he scribbled a note in longhand to Webb asking him to become Dean of the North Carolina School of Business.

The salary was about half what private firms offered him—$15,000. But this was the job Webb was planning to take when President Truman finally persuaded him to become Undersecretary of State.

Along Pennsylvania Avenue

President Truman, who always sports a neat crease in his trousers, wont stand for a crease in his coat sleeves. Always an expert on men's haberdashery, he believes in a smooth, rounded sleeve—no wrinkles and no crease . . . One artist, who did a portrait of the President, was requested by the Chief Executive to "kindly paint out those creases in the sleeves." . . . The President dictates so fast that his confidential secretary, Rose Coway, has abandoned shorthand and now uses a stenotype machine to keep up with her boss . . . Back in the 1890's the great Polish patriot-pianist, Jan Ignace Paderewski, paid a visit to Independence, Mo. While there, he took time out to give a piano lesson to an awe-struck youngster named Harry Truman. Later Paderewski became President of Poland, and his piano pupil became President of the United States . . . One of the biggest guessing games in Washington revolves around the question of why Ed Bacher, executive director of the Republican National Committee, has a machine attached to his telephone to record conversations. It's generally agreed he's not trying to catch Democrats off guard. Beyond that, it's anybody's guess.

Man Bits Dog

Believe it or not, a butter producer is now lobbying for oleomargarine—not against it. Senators are blinking their eyes over a letter which Kingsdale Dairies of New York City is circulating on Capitol Hill.

Under a letterhead advertising "for bettering the buttering habits of the nation," Kingsdale Dairies confesses: "While we have a vital interest in butter, we believe we have nothing to fear from the removal of the oleomargarine taxes nor even from the removal of color restrictions—provided, of course, the margarine is not fraudulently foisted on the American people as butter. We feel that the danger of such fraud is small.

"That a large segment of the American people want oleomargarine needs no demonstration, and that they want it colored is now amply evidenced by their demand, at extra cost, for the new type bag which permits easy coloring by the housewife.

"To favor one industry by restricting another is not in our opinion compatible with democracy nor is it in the best interest of all business as a whole, or of the American people.

"We respectfully urge your support on any legislation that will free oleomargarine from its present restrictions."

In the flood of mail that deluges Capitol Hill, such a letter—lobbying against the sender's interests for the public good—is rare indeed. Congratulations.

Senator Ball's Censorship

The Democrats are about to take the wraps off a report that was kept in mothballs while the Republicans were still in power on Capitol Hill.

It is a survey on how the Tennessee Valley Authority has been getting along with labor. The Republicans intended it to be an unfavorable report and sent an investigator into the Tennessee Valley looking for trouble. Instead, the agent found TVA humming and labor putting its shoulder to the wheel.

The man who initiated this investigation and tried to blast TVA was ex-Senator Joe Ball of Minnesota and ex-Chairman of the Joint Labor-Management Relations Committee. He ordered staff investigator Alexander Christie to turn TVA upside down and bring back the facts. That's exactly what Christie did. But when his report turned out to be a boomerang, praising TVA instead of knocking it, Ball let the report gather dust on his shelf.

Whereupon Christie burned up, showed the report to Democratic Senator James Murray of Montana who has now promised publication.

Meanwhile, this column has already obtained a copy which painstakingly goes in TVA's labor problems. Summing up, the report declares: "The Tennessee Valley Authority has been in existence over 15 years and during that period its relations with labor have been relatively free of strife and discord.

"There is nothing in the labor policies of TVA that smacks of paternalism. The Authority is out to receive value for every dollar it spends. It . . . constantly strives for economical and efficient operation . . .

"TVA believes that by treating its employees as human beings, honestly and aboveboard, by having the employees express themselves and take part in the joint cooperative committees, by letting individual employees join unions if they so desire, by giving the individual some recognition—he is not just another cog in a heartless, impersonal machine . . . .

"TVA has proven that it wants to get along with labor—all other factors are of secondary importance to this one. Labor knows these things. Therefore, it cooperates with TVA, it works hard and it produces."

This is part of what Senator Ball suppressed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(INS) — Sideglances at celebrities:

People close to the workings of U.N. believe that President Truman was doing a lot more than talking for exercise when he said, in Kansas City, that there were pro-American elements in the Russian high command.

The editors of "United Nations World" now criticize the State Department for pooh-poohing the intent of Truman's off-the-cuff speech. They say the President has "sources" that have nothing to do with State Department channels.

These "sources" have informed him of innermost secrets of the politburo, it is said. They have told him that Stalin has mysteriously absented himself from a number of policy-making meetings of the politburo, and, as a result, considerable internal discord has made itself evident.

Chief conversation piece of Stalinless politburo meetings is the relative merits and demerits of the "cold war." With the cat away, the mice have become emboldened enough to speak their minds — and some of those speeches, the President has learned, are strongly in favor of much closer relations with the United States.

Speaking of Kansas City, it is the home and trading place of the world's biggest dealer in sugary sentiment — Joyce C. Hall. Mr. Hall prints greetings cards, suitable for all occasions ranging from birth to the grave.

We are, by all odds, the most sentimental country in history. More than 10 per cent of the mountains of mail handled each year by the Post Office Department is made up of tender messages — the kind of tender messages that can be printed on huge presses that grind out the good night and day.

Joyce has proof-read every poem and sentimental line, and inspected evry swift stroke of his cupid-conscious artists' brushes for many, many years. Somehow, he has survived this mass maudlinity so well that he now publishes 1,000,000 cards every day.

Valentine's Day, by the way, is second only to Christmas in the matter of dispatched devotion.

One of those who comes under Gen. Claire Chennault's stinging lash, in the General's just-published book, is Clayton Bissell, World War I fighter ace and later air force aid. Chennault blames Bissell for the disasters which befell Jimmy Doolittle's Tokyo raiders.

Bissell, sent to China to handle arrangements for the landing of Doolittle's planes there, after the historic strike at the Japanese capital, refused to take Chennault into his confidence, the General states.

"As a result, when the Doolittle raiders were forced to change their plans and arrived over China in darkness and bad weather the vast warning net of East China had no way of communicating with the American bombers and guiding them over the unfamiliar terrain.

"If I had been notified, a single American volunteer group (Flying Tigers) command ground radio station plugged into the East China net could have talked most of the raiders into a friendly field. As it was, they all crashed or bailed out in the dark.

"Doolittle himself bailed out near the Japanese lines and narrowly escaped capture. One crew flew past several friendly bases to crash in Japanese-held Poyang Lake where they were taken prisoner. Three of these crewmen were eventually executed at Shanghai. My bitterness over that bit of bungling has not eased with the passing years."

No Basis For Labor's Claim Of Mandate For T-H Repeal

—By DAVID LAWRENCE—

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—If the Taft-Hartley Act had been the sole issue in the last campaign and electoral votes had been cast on the basis of how the people voted for or against members of Congress on the basis of their record on this one piece of legislation, President Truman probably would have lost the election.

This conclusion can be reached by anyone who examines the election returns on a congressional basis.

For the official election balloting shows that 66 electoral votes were put in the Truman column from the states of Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Texas and Virginia, but if the voting of congressmen on the Taft-Hartley Act alone had been considered, there electoral votes would have to be subtracted from Truman's 304, and this would have left him only 238, which is 28 less than the necessary 266.

The five Democratic states which cast 66 electoral votes for Mr. Truman also re-elected representatives who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act during the 8th Congress as follows: 6 out of 7 in Arkansas, 9 out of 10 in Georgia, 13 out of 21 in Texas, and 6 out of 9 in Virginia.

Kentucky Results

This was a majority in each of the four states. As for Kentucky, with nine Representatives, four of the six who voted for the law and went before the people were elected—one of them being elevated to the Senate.

If the "mandate" idea is followed strictly, the 38 electoral votes that went to Governor Thurmond, the States Rights' candidate, also would not be counted for President Truman either, because in each of the four Thurmond states the members of Congress who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act were returned to office in the elections.

In all four states, the entire congressional delegations which had voted for the Taft-Hartley act were re-elected.

As for senatorial races, the Democratic nominees who were victors in Texas, Virginia, Kentucky, Georgia and Arkansas all had voted for the Taft-Hartley law and were re-elected.

Figuring the election solely on the basis of the Taft-Hartley Act, the results would indicate that, if all these votes had been cast against Mr. Truman's position, the result would have shown a total of 238 votes for Mr. Truman and 293 for the opposition.

Even if the Thurmond votes had been cast independently so as to throw the election into the House of Representatives, the 81st Congress, voting by state-delegation majorities as required under the Constitution, would have cast 25 votes against Mr. Truman whereas a majority of 25 votes are necessary to decide when an election is conducted by the House.

This means that today in the 81st Congress there are 25 state delegations in which a majority have already recorded themselves in favor of the Taft-Hartley law. In seven more states one-half of the delegation has already been recorded in famor of the Taft-Hartley Act. Thus in only 16 states of the union do the majority of the members of the House of Representatives from those states appear to have voted against the Taft-Hartley Act.

The above breakdown of the election returns assumes, moreover, that all new members of the House would vote against the Taft-Hartley law, when, as a matter of fact, many were elected from farm districts where a vote for restoration of the one-sided Wagner law will be regarded as out of harmony with the expressed wishes of the people heretofore.

In stating that there appears to be a majority against the Taft-Hartley law in 16 states, it must be pointed out that the new members have not expressed themselves or recorded their votes. Thus in California 11 out of 23 House members are recorded in favor of the law but only 7 are actually recorded against it. In Pennsylvania 15 out of 33 are on record in favor of, but only 5 actually recorded against the law.

South Dakota would be tied on the basis of one of its two representatives recorded in favor, but the other representative is a Republican elected to succeed Karl Mundt, who went to the Senate and who had voted for the Taft-Hartley Act.

There is no basis for the claim, therefore, that the election of Mr. Truman means a mandate for the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. This law was due for amendment, anyway, and public sentiment favors a balanced labor-management statute. The argument that Mr. Truman was instructed by the electorate to Act with minor amendments cannot be sustained by any examination of the referendum that was held in connection with the election of members of the House and Senate who put their respective records on this piece of legislation before the people.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Wall Street

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, Henry Wallace, the Communists and anyone else who wants to nick a whipping boy denounce "Wall Street." They try to convey the assumption that the wealth, the power of money, the lending power of the United States is in Wall Street. That might have been true 40 years ago. It is not true today. There is no such entity as Wall Street. The big companies of the United States are widely owned and are generally, for better or for worse, controlled by their managements.

The lending power of the United States is primarily concentrated in the government of the United States; in the Federal Reserve System, the RFC, the ECA; in the Export-Import Bank; Federal Crop Insurance Corporation; Rural Electrification administration; Farm Credit Administration; Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation; Commodity Credit Corporation, etc. It runs about 37 agencies that have an investment of more than $10,000,000,000 and that have liabilities of about $100,000,000,000.

In a word, this country has to an astonishing extent socialized the flow of capital, not only reducing the money-power of Wall Street but in some areas altogether eliminating that famous street. For instance, Wall Street plays little part in the movement of crops. It plays no role in the mortgage market. It continues to do a share of the underwriting of the country, but so do financial institutions in Cleveland, Chicago, Minneapolis and other cities. The House of Morgan is no longer pivotal in either national or international financing and no other house has taken its place.

The Federal Reserve member banks in 94 cities on January 12 reported $62,596,000,000 in loans and investments; $25,087,000,000 in net loans. The amount of loans to brokers and dealers for purchasing or carrying U. S. government obligations amouted to $714,000,000; other securities, $399,000,000. Of the net loans, New York was carrying on that date only $8,556,000,000 and that included loans to carry government obligations.

In other words, the Street plays a very small part in the whole picture of moving American capital, in financing the movement of crops and commodities, in housing in the development of new industries or the expansion of existing ones. The entire country performs that task and a small bank in the Bronx or in Duluth plays its role as effectively as the so-called Wall Street houses.

I write this to spoil the whipping boy. Wall Street was in its time an effective agency for the transfer of capital. Its role was greatest when the United States needed to import capital from Europe to build its railroads, open its mines, and develop its industries. For instance, in 1899, foreign investments in the United States were calculated at $3,330,000,000; in 1908, they were calculated at $6,400,000,000. In the former year, Great Britain's holdings amounted to $2,500,000,000; in the latter, to $3,500,000,000. In 1908, Germany's investments amounted to $1,000,000,000.

That explains why, in those years, so many German banking houses existed in Wall Street. The Alien Property Custodian in his 1919 report showed about $468,752,000 of German, Austrian and other enemy country investments in this country.

During World War II credit transactions affecting governments were between governments. Thus, one of the principal functions of Wall Street, international finance, disappeared. The government of the United States took over that business, through lend-lease, the Export-Import Bank and eventually ECA.

American industries, when they require capital, generally get it on the best terms available without regard to Wall Street. Of course, some firms are still tied to certain banks and underwriting houses by agreements, associations and traditions, but it is more usual today for financial institutions to be looking for business than for the customers to come up to them hat in hand.

Wall Street has become a myth. The biggest new business of our time—the various Kaiser industries—has been financed more by the government of the United States than by private banks.

So, Mr. Truman, Henry Wallace and the Communists had better pick on the RFC, the Export-Import Bank, and ECA than on Wall Street, and it might consider what part politics plays in lending these days.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

We received a wonderful reception in Macon, Georgia. Yes sir. Before we could get out of the plane Mayor Lewis B. Wilson actually climbed up onto the ship to welcome us.

I couldn't figure out why he bothered to come aboard until he stepped over and whispered:

"Keep the motors running." Immediately after we stepped out the whole cast was whisked away in 10 shiny new convertibles to a luncheon given by the Macon Exchange Club. I was very flattered that they had me up in the first car with all the city dignitaries. Poor Bill Farrell and Hy Averback got stuck in the last car with all the girls.

At the luncheon I couldn't resist having two pieces of lemon pie. I was afraid that by the time we got back to California, they wouldn't have a lemon left.

The Club itself had the ancient charm of the Old South but Les Brown didn't seem to grasp the historical motif of the edifice. He just took one look and yelled: "Man, this place is beat."

Just before the luncheon they presented me with a mule and someone in the crowd was snide enough to infer that it was one of Crosby's horses.

Of course I knew immediately that it couldn't have been one of Bing's night mares . . . this beast was standing.

Macon happens to be the home of Honeychile Wilder, my first radio partner, and being there sure brought back memories. I always thought we had a great act but now I'm beginning to wonder if that could have an connection with her living in South America for the last six years.

Signs That Inflation Peak Has Been Reached Multiplying

The signs are multiplying that the peak of post-war inflation has been reached and passed. Actually, as figures on the cost-of-living index compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics show, the nation is on a mild downward price trend.

There are a number of causes for this condition. In many lines of goods supply has caught up with demand. Consumer resistance, too, has had its affect. A huge national budget, syphoning off a big slice of personal income in taxes, is a steadying influence.

The immediate effect of a price drop would be good on the national economy. A mild fall would, among other things, tone down or even eliminate demands for a fourth round of wage increases which, in itself, would be a highly inflationary move. It would permit the country to enter a period of price stabilization.

However there is a danger that the movement might snowball into real deflation. Already there is increasing talk about a coming recession. Labor, in some instances, is charting its course to protect itself against an actual depression. One economist predicts a major depression in five years.

Such talk can be damaging. A defeatist attitude breeds defeat and expectations of a depression may produce one. The present mild decline in the cost-of-living, the increasing layoffs and the growth in the ranks of the unemployed are signs that the national economy could not maintain its past momentum, and needed adjustment.

Whether what is happening now is merely adjustment or whether it is the beginning of a trend in the other direction is something that requires serious study and consideration. It is too easy, at this stage of the game, to upset the applecart by ill-timed demands from labor, super-caution on the part of business, or the application of half-baked New Deal economic panaceas by the Administration.

The Squabble Over The GOP National Chairman

Hugh D. Scott, Republican Congressman from Philadelphia, made a good record in both the Atlantic and Pacific areas in World War II and he entered Japan on the first day of the American occupation. However, he did nearly all his fighting then and none to speak of—or at least none that registered—when, as Governor Dewey's choice, he became the Republican National Chairman in 1948.

Both men evidently believed, as most others did, that the Party would coast to an easy and a certain victory. Although the campaign was supposed to be fought on the record made by the Eightieth (Republican) Congress, its achievements and the attacks upon it made by the President and other speakers were largely ignored by the Party manager.

So there were valid reasons for the numerously supported demands at the Omaha conference of the Republican National Committee that another national chairman be chosen. And there should have been. Mr. Scott did not measure up to the type of leadership the G. O. P. is in need of. The National Committee should have grasped the opportunity to inject into the veins of the Party the blood of one it felt could jolt it out of its complacency with a program that would rekindle the fighting spirit of the rank and file of the American people.

But the motion to declare the office vacant was tabled in a close vote (54 to 50) and Congressman Scott remains at the helm, the custom that a chairman who fails to deliver a victory shall step down being disregarded. However, much to the surprise of his most severe critic, Scott showed at Omaha, what was not greatly in evidence in the recent campaign, that he knew how to fight. If this preludes a purpose to follow through and put the Republican organization in fighting trim, the disappointment widely felt over the failure to choose a new chairman might be dispelled.

Something New Has Been Added To The Cat World

If the lion is the king of beasts, the cat is surely their princess. And now, it is revealed, a new royal line has been established. A New York breeder has developed a new strain by crossing white Persians with Siamese. The product is short-haired and cream-colored, with red points. Its eyes are blue.

Readers who are not too familiar with terms as applied to the cat family may need to be told that the "points" of a Siamese, which are always darker than the rest of its body, are its paws, tail and ears, mostly. Siamese now come in two strains, seal points and blue points.

A distinction was formerly made between Persian cats, supposedly from Iran, and Angoras, supposedly from Ankhara, Turkey. It is no longer recognized. These are called long-hairs, though the quality of their nocturnal music is no more symphonic than the tones produced by amorous short-hairs.

Persians, or long-hairs, most of them, have reasonably quiet voices, a low, cobby build, low-slung tails. Siamese talk louder, and produce sounds considerably more raucous and feral than a mere meow. Like other short-hairs, they have a rangier build and carry their tails at parade-rest.

They differ in temperament, too. Swinburne, who wrote, "Stately, kindly, lordly friend condensed here to sit by me" was obviously talking to a Persian. Persians are likely to be aloof and scornful, except when they choose to let their hair down and go zany. People who don't like them can generally manage to ignore them.

But a Siamese will not permit itself to be ignored. When it isn't climbing the curtains, it may be swarming up its owners' back. The Siamese is an affectionate rowdy, and it won't let people alone.

So, the new line, bred from a Persian and a Siamese, should be a creature of contradictions born from a mating of opposites.

We are making history, as a Congressman says, but the world is suffering from an over-abundance of history.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Trachoma—Granulated Eyelids

TRACHOMA IS a serious eye infection that has plagued the inhabitants of Asia, Europe, and Egypt for centuries. In our country, it is particularly prevalent among the Indians and reams have been written on how these early Americans became infected. The disease was transmitted from Europe, according to the traditions of the Red Man, by employes of the Hudson bay company.

By 1912, almost 25 per cent of our Indians were afflicted; this figure varied, however, and was higher in certain areas than others. By 1938 there was little change because trachoma had become resistant to all known remedies. The discovery of the sulfonamides proved a boon and by 1943, the percentage among the Navajos had dropped from 32.5 to 10.11.

Before the advent of the wonder drug there were few eye conditions as miserable as trachoma. The malady usually persisted for many years and upon healing, left scars that interfered with vision and movement of the eyes. The under surfaces of the lids and the white part of the orbit are affected mainly. The disease begins like any ordinary infection; the vessels become prominent and the parts red and swollen. Burning and itching appear and the individual complains that he "has something in the eye." The orbit becomes watery and light intensifies distress. The irritated lids twitch and now and then the victim is bothered to such an extent that he has difficulty in seeing. In a short time, eye changes occur that give the disorder its nickname, "granulated eyelids." Tiny protrusions similar to gooseflesh literally cover the membranes. They may be no larger than a pinhead and are soft initially but eventually become granulated and hard. This accentuates irritation and inflammation and the secretions accumulate, causing the lid margins to stick together.

Intermittent improvement may be invariably the ailment returns to its former state. This stage may go on for months or years until the disease burns itself out; but healing is accompanied by scar formation which may obliterate sight so markedly that blindness ensues. Sometimes fibrous bands tug on the margins of the lids, causing them to evert; as a result, the lashes touch and irritate the orbit. In others, the lid becomes everted and exposes the membranes to the elements.

The sulfonamides are of no value in curing such complications but frequently control the acute stage of the disease. Distressing symptoms and granular surfaces disappear rapidly; ulcers heal, tearing is lessened, and swelling subsides. This is in contrast to the older forms of treatment in which the membranes were cauterized with copper solutions or silver nitrate. In chronic cases, the granulations must be squeezed out and in some instances, literally are scrubbed with a stiff toothbrush. Surgery often is required to rectify the after-effects of scarring.

Trachoma is contagious and its victims should be extremely cautious not to pass the infection on to others. They should keep their handkerchiefs, towels, and linens to themselves and be careful not to use the same wash-basin as others. A virus is said to be responsible, which is transmitted by direct contact or through vermin. Individuals living in unhygienic environments are most susceptible and for this reason the disease is more prevalent among the poorer classes.

Rib Removal

C. R. writes: A friend claims that her ribs were removed for high blood pressure. I think this is done for tuberculosis. Is there an operation for high blood pressure?

Yes. When the operation known as a "sympathectomy" is done in hypertension, the ribs are removed in order to reach certain nerves along the spine.

Undersecretary Of State Webb Vetoes Big Business For University Job; Big Butter Producer Lobbies For Oleo; Sen. Ball Censored TVA Report

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Not many people know it, but President Truman had a hard time persuading Jimmy Webb, then Director of the Budget, to become Undersecretary of State.

Webb, whose job of whittling down the budget is one of the toughest in the Government, had received several lush offers to return to private business. Tom Morgan, head of Sperry Gyroscope, offered him $35,000. Clay Williams of Reynolds Tobacco made him an equally attractive offer, while a big chemical company in New York also put in a bid.

However, the job which appealed to Webb most would have paid him much less. It came from an old friend whom Webb greatly respected—Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina. While Graham was in the Dutch East Indies trying to iron out the Indonesian civil war, he scribbled a note in longhand to Webb asking him to become Dean of the North Carolina School of Business.

The salary was about half what private firms offered him—$15,000. But this was the job Webb was planning to take when President Truman finally persuaded him to become Undersecretary of State.

Along Pennsylvania Avenue

President Truman, who always sports a neat crease in his trousers, wont stand for a crease in his coat sleeves. Always an expert on men's haberdashery, he believes in a smooth, rounded sleeve—no wrinkles and no crease . . . One artist, who did a portrait of the President, was requested by the Chief Executive to "kindly paint out those creases in the sleeves." . . . The President dictates so fast that his confidential secretary, Rose Coway, has abandoned shorthand and now uses a stenotype machine to keep up with her boss . . . Back in the 1890's the great Polish patriot-pianist, Jan Ignace Paderewski, paid a visit to Independence, Mo. While there, he took time out to give a piano lesson to an awe-struck youngster named Harry Truman. Later Paderewski became President of Poland, and his piano pupil became President of the United States . . . One of the biggest guessing games in Washington revolves around the question of why Ed Bacher, executive director of the Republican National Committee, has a machine attached to his telephone to record conversations. It's generally agreed he's not trying to catch Democrats off guard. Beyond that, it's anybody's guess.

Man Bits Dog

Believe it or not, a butter producer is now lobbying for oleomargarine—not against it. Senators are blinking their eyes over a letter which Kingsdale Dairies of New York City is circulating on Capitol Hill.

Under a letterhead advertising "for bettering the buttering habits of the nation," Kingsdale Dairies confesses: "While we have a vital interest in butter, we believe we have nothing to fear from the removal of the oleomargarine taxes nor even from the removal of color restrictions—provided, of course, the margarine is not fraudulently foisted on the American people as butter. We feel that the danger of such fraud is small.

"That a large segment of the American people want oleomargarine needs no demonstration, and that they want it colored is now amply evidenced by their demand, at extra cost, for the new type bag which permits easy coloring by the housewife.

"To favor one industry by restricting another is not in our opinion compatible with democracy nor is it in the best interest of all business as a whole, or of the American people.

"We respectfully urge your support on any legislation that will free oleomargarine from its present restrictions."

In the flood of mail that deluges Capitol Hill, such a letter—lobbying against the sender's interests for the public good—is rare indeed. Congratulations.

Senator Ball's Censorship

The Democrats are about to take the wraps off a report that was kept in mothballs while the Republicans were still in power on Capitol Hill.

It is a survey on how the Tennessee Valley Authority has been getting along with labor. The Republicans intended it to be an unfavorable report and sent an investigator into the Tennessee Valley looking for trouble. Instead, the agent found TVA humming and labor putting its shoulder to the wheel.

The man who initiated this investigation and tried to blast TVA was ex-Senator Joe Ball of Minnesota and ex-Chairman of the Joint Labor-Management Relations Committee. He ordered staff investigator Alexander Christie to turn TVA upside down and bring back the facts. That's exactly what Christie did. But when his report turned out to be a boomerang, praising TVA instead of knocking it, Ball let the report gather dust on his shelf.

Whereupon Christie burned up, showed the report to Democratic Senator James Murray of Montana who has now promised publication.

Meanwhile, this column has already obtained a copy which painstakingly goes in TVA's labor problems. Summing up, the report declares: "The Tennessee Valley Authority has been in existence over 15 years and during that period its relations with labor have been relatively free of strife and discord.

"There is nothing in the labor policies of TVA that smacks of paternalism. The Authority is out to receive value for every dollar it spends. It . . . constantly strives for economical and efficient operation . . .

"TVA believes that by treating its employees as human beings, honestly and aboveboard, by having the employees express themselves and take part in the joint cooperative committees, by letting individual employees join unions if they so desire, by giving the individual some recognition—he is not just another cog in a heartless, impersonal machine . . . .

"TVA has proven that it wants to get along with labor—all other factors are of secondary importance to this one. Labor knows these things. Therefore, it cooperates with TVA, it works hard and it produces."

This is part of what Senator Ball suppressed.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(INS) — Sideglances at celebrities:

People close to the workings of U.N. believe that President Truman was doing a lot more than talking for exercise when he said, in Kansas City, that there were pro-American elements in the Russian high command.

The editors of "United Nations World" now criticize the State Department for pooh-poohing the intent of Truman's off-the-cuff speech. They say the President has "sources" that have nothing to do with State Department channels.

These "sources" have informed him of innermost secrets of the politburo, it is said. They have told him that Stalin has mysteriously absented himself from a number of policy-making meetings of the politburo, and, as a result, considerable internal discord has made itself evident.

Chief conversation piece of Stalinless politburo meetings is the relative merits and demerits of the "cold war." With the cat away, the mice have become emboldened enough to speak their minds — and some of those speeches, the President has learned, are strongly in favor of much closer relations with the United States.

Speaking of Kansas City, it is the home and trading place of the world's biggest dealer in sugary sentiment — Joyce C. Hall. Mr. Hall prints greetings cards, suitable for all occasions ranging from birth to the grave.

We are, by all odds, the most sentimental country in history. More than 10 per cent of the mountains of mail handled each year by the Post Office Department is made up of tender messages — the kind of tender messages that can be printed on huge presses that grind out the good night and day.

Joyce has proof-read every poem and sentimental line, and inspected evry swift stroke of his cupid-conscious artists' brushes for many, many years. Somehow, he has survived this mass maudlinity so well that he now publishes 1,000,000 cards every day.

Valentine's Day, by the way, is second only to Christmas in the matter of dispatched devotion.

Every once in a while, in desperation, he puts a ban on all New York models and searches around the outlands for dolls who don't think curves should be confined to ballparks.

"New York dames," he said the other day, in what amounted to a pet. "They have no fores and no afts," which will hold the nice bone-laden ladies of my set until an apter description comes along.

One of those who comes under Gen. Claire Chennault's stinging lash, in the General's just-published book, is Clayton Bissell, World War I fighter ace and later air force aid. Chennault blames Bissell for the disasters which befell Jimmy Doolittle's Tokyo raiders.

Bissell, sent to China to handle arrangements for the landing of Doolittle's planes there, after the historic strike at the Japanese capital, refused to take Chennault into his confidence, the General states.

"As a result, when the Doolittle raiders were forced to change their plans and arrived over China in darkness and bad weather the vast warning net of East China had no way of communicating with the American bombers and guiding them over the unfamiliar terrain.

"If I had been notified, a single American volunteer group (Flying Tigers) command ground radio station plugged into the East China net could have talked most of the raiders into a friendly field. As it was, they all crashed or bailed out in the dark.

"Doolittle himself bailed out near the Japanese lines and narrowly escaped capture. One crew flew past several friendly bases to crash in Japanese-held Poyang Lake where they were taken prisoner. Three of these crewmen were eventually executed at Shanghai. My bitterness over that bit of bungling has not eased with the passing years."

No Basis For Labor's Claim Of Mandate For T-H Repeal

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—If the Taft-Hartley Act had been the sole issue in the last campaign and electoral votes had been cast on the basis of how the people voted for or against members of Congress on the basis of their record on this one piece of legislation, President Truman probably would have lost the election.

This conclusion can be reached by anyone who examines the election returns on a congressional basis.

For the official election balloting shows that 66 electoral votes were put in the Truman column from the states of Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Texas and Virginia, but if the voting of congressmen on the Taft-Hartley Act alone had been considered, there electoral votes would have to be subtracted from Truman's 304, and this would have left him only 238, which is 28 less than the necessary 266.

The five Democratic states which cast 66 electoral votes for Mr. Truman also re-elected representatives who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act during the 8th Congress as follows: 6 out of 7 in Arkansas, 9 out of 10 in Georgia, 13 out of 21 in Texas, and 6 out of 9 in Virginia.

Kentucky Results

This was a majority in each of the four states. As for Kentucky, with nine Representatives, four of the six who voted for the law and went before the people were elected—one of them being elevated to the Senate.

If the "mandate" idea is followed strictly, the 38 electoral votes that went to Governor Thurmond, the States Rights' candidate, also would not be counted for President Truman either, because in each of the four Thurmond states the members of Congress who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act were returned to office in the elections.

In all four states, the entire congressional delegations which had voted for the Taft-Hartley act were re-elected.

As for senatorial races, the Democratic nominees who were victors in Texas, Virginia, Kentucky, Georgia and Arkansas all had voted for the Taft-Hartley law and were re-elected.

Figuring the election solely on the basis of the Taft-Hartley Act, the results would indicate that, if all these votes had been cast against Mr. Truman's position, the result would have shown a total of 238 votes for Mr. Truman and 293 for the opposition.

Even if the Thurmond votes had been cast independently so as to throw the election into the House of Representatives, the 81st Congress, voting by state-delegation majorities as required under the Constitution, would have cast 25 votes against Mr. Truman whereas a majority of 25 votes are necessary to decide when an election is conducted by the House.

This means that today in the 81st Congress there are 25 state delegations in which a majority have already recorded themselves in favor of the Taft-Hartley law. In seven more states one-half of the delegation has already been recorded in famor of the Taft-Hartley Act. Thus in only 16 states of the union do the majority of the members of the House of Representatives from those states appear to have voted against the Taft-Hartley Act.

The above breakdown of the election returns assumes, moreover, that all new members of the House would vote against the Taft-Hartley law, when, as a matter of fact, many were elected from farm districts where a vote for restoration of the one-sided Wagner law will be regarded as out of harmony with the expressed wishes of the people heretofore.

In stating that there appears to be a majority against the Taft-Hartley law in 16 states, it must be pointed out that the new members have not expressed themselves or recorded their votes. Thus in California 11 out of 23 House members are recorded in favor of the law but only 7 are actually recorded against it. In Pennsylvania 15 out of 33 are on record in favor of, but only 5 actually recorded against the law.

South Dakota would be tied on the basis of one of its two representatives recorded in favor, but the other representative is a Republican elected to succeed Karl Mundt, who went to the Senate and who had voted for the Taft-Hartley Act.

There is no basis for the claim, therefore, that the election of Mr. Truman means a mandate for the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. This law was due for amendment, anyway, and public sentiment favors a balanced labor-management statute. The argument that Mr. Truman was instructed by the electorate to Act with minor amendments cannot be sustained by any examination of the referendum that was held in connection with the election of members of the House and Senate who put their respective records on this piece of legislation before the people.

These Days

Wall Street

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, Henry Wallace, the Communists and anyone else who wants to nick a whipping boy denounce "Wall Street." They try to convey the assumption that the wealth, the power of money, the lending power of the United States is in Wall Street. That might have been true 40 years ago. It is not true today. There is no such entity as Wall Street. The big companies of the United States are widely owned and are generally, for better or for worse, controlled by their managements.

The lending power of the United States is primarily concentrated in the government of the United States; in the Federal Reserve System, the RFC, the ECA; in the Export-Import Bank; Federal Crop Insurance Corporation; Rural Electrification administration; Farm Credit Administration; Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation; Commodity Credit Corporation, etc. It runs about 37 agencies that have an investment of more than $10,000,000,000 and that have liabilities of about $100,000,000,000.

In a word, this country has to an astonishing extent socialized the flow of capital, not only reducing the money-power of Wall Street but in some areas altogether eliminating that famous street. For instance, Wall Street plays little part in the movement of crops. It plays no role in the mortgage market. It continues to do a share of the underwriting of the country, but so do financial institutions in Cleveland, Chicago, Minneapolis and other cities. The House of Morgan is no longer pivotal in either national or international financing and no other house has taken its place.

The Federal Reserve member banks in 94 cities on January 12 reported $62,596,000,000 in loans and investments; $25,087,000,000 in net loans. The amount of loans to brokers and dealers for purchasing or carrying U. S. government obligations amouted to $714,000,000; other securities, $399,000,000. Of the net loans, New York was carrying on that date only $8,556,000,000 and that included loans to carry government obligations.

In other words, the Street plays a very small part in the whole picture of moving American capital, in financing the movement of crops and commodities, in housing in the development of new industries or the expansion of existing ones. The entire country performs that task and a small bank in the Bronx or in Duluth plays its role as effectively as the so-called Wall Street houses.

I write this to spoil the whipping boy. Wall Street was in its time an effective agency for the transfer of capital. Its role was greatest when the United States needed to import capital from Europe to build its railroads, open its mines, and develop its industries. For instance, in 1899, foreign investments in the United States were calculated at $3,330,000,000; in 1908, they were calculated at $6,400,000,000. In the former year, Great Britain's holdings amounted to $2,500,000,000; in the latter, to $3,500,000,000. In 1908, Germany's investments amounted to $1,000,000,000.

That explains why, in those years, so many German banking houses existed in Wall Street. The Alien Property Custodian in his 1919 report showed about $468,752,000 of German, Austrian and other enemy country investments in this country.

During World War II credit transactions affecting governments were between governments. Thus, one of the principal functions of Wall Street, international finance, disappeared. The government of the United States took over that business, through lend-lease, the Export-Import Bank and eventually ECA.

American industries, when they require capital, generally get it on the best terms available without regard to Wall Street. Of course, some firms are still tied to certain banks and underwriting houses by agreements, associations and traditions, but it is more usual today for financial institutions to be looking for business than for the customers to come up to them hat in hand.

Wall Street has become a myth. The biggest new business of our time—the various Kaiser industries—has been financed more by the government of the United States than by private banks.

So, Mr. Truman, Henry Wallace and the Communists had better pick on the RFC, the Export-Import Bank, and ECA than on Wall Street, and it might consider what part politics plays in lending these days.

We received a wonderful reception in Macon, Georgia. Yes sir. Before we could get out of the plane Mayor Lewis B. Wilson actually climbed up onto the ship to welcome us.

I couldn't figure out why he bothered to come aboard until he stepped over and whispered:

"Keep the motors running." Immediately after we stepped out the whole cast was whisked away in 10 shiny new convertibles to a luncheon given by the Macon Exchange Club. I was very flattered that they had me up in the first car with all the city dignitaries. Poor Bill Farrell and Hy Averback got stuck in the last car with all the girls.

At the luncheon I couldn't resist having two pieces of lemon pie. I was afraid that by the time we got back to California, they wouldn't have a lemon left.

The Club itself had the ancient charm of the Old South but Les Brown didn't seem to grasp the historical motif of the edifice. He just took one look and yelled: "Man, this place is beat."

Just before the luncheon they presented me with a mule and someone in the crowd was snide enough to infer that it was one of Crosby's horses.

Of course I knew immediately that it couldn't have been one of Bing's night mares . . . this beast was standing.

Macon happens to be the home of Honeychile Wilder, my first radio partner, and being there sure brought back memories. I always thought we had a great act but now I'm beginning to wonder if that could have an connection with her living in South America for the last six years.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

Marilyn Maxwell

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31 (INS)—Clark Gable, who is always loathe to make too many pictures in one year, has agreed to star in "Key To the City," but not until he returns from four months in Europe.

His plan now is to take his car with him and really tour—visiting countries he has not yet seen. This means he will be seen briefly in fashionable Cannes and other places on the French Riviera. He leaves as soon as his current picture, "Any Number Can Play" is finished.

One reason Clark has agreed to play in "Keys To the City" is because it is an out-and-out comedy, and something different for him. The completed script and original story by Z. Wayne Griffin, is reported to have a fancy price and includes Griffin as producer.

Clifton Webb, since "Sitting Pretty," has made the name of Lynn Belvedere famous, now with "Mr. Belvedere Goes To College," which, I hear from the sneak previewers is riotiously funny, Clifton is in danger of being typed.

That wouldn't be bad in his case, but neither he nor Darryl Zanuck want it, so they have made his next picture a murder-melodrama entitled "Mr. Nolan."

Clifton is going to play a murderer.

Last year, the National Safety Council got Gracie Allen's permission to use her name in a "scare" slogan for all the nitwit accidents that happen inside and outside the home.

"Don't be a Gracie" means don't pick up a telephone with wet hands; don't get hit on the head by a falling bottle or can from an overcrowded medicine cabinet and things like that.

Now Gracie and her scatterbrained antics will be starred in a featurette to be produced by the Council on the screen.

Now, don't all you trinket-buyers start a stampede when I tell you that "The Shah of Persia" (it's a diamond) is for sale for a mere $500,000.

The diamond, which has had a long and bloody history, has been in a vault in Los Angeles for 30 years and was taken out last week long enough for Deborah Kerr to wear for a portrait sitting. The guards hanging around made it look more like a mob scene.

It's a big secret who the owner is, but the jeweler, who is acting as agent in a possible sale, will take the gem on tour so those with a loose half-milion or so on hand can get a look at it.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31 (INS)—Clark Gable, who is always loathe to make too many pictures in one year, has agreed to star in "Key To the City," but not until he returns from four months in Europe.

Marilyn Maxwell

His plan now is to take his car with him and really tour—visiting countries he has not yet seen. This means he will be seen briefly in fashionable Cannes and other places on the French Riviera. He leaves as soon as his current picture, "Any Number Can Play" is finished.

One reason Clark has agreed to play in "Keys To the City" is because it is an out-and-out comedy, and something different for him. The completed script and original story by Z. Wayne Griffin, is reported to have a fancy price and includes Griffin as producer.

Clifton Webb, since "Sitting Pretty," has made the name of Lynn Belvedere famous, now with "Mr. Belvedere Goes To College," which, I hear from the sneak previewers is riotiously funny, Clifton is in danger of being typed.

That wouldn't be bad in his case, but neither he nor Darryl Zanuck want it, so they have made his next picture a murder-melodrama entitled "Mr. Nolan."

Clifton is going to play a murderer.

Last year, the National Safety Council got Gracie Allen's permission to use her name in a "scare" slogan for all the nitwit accidents that happen inside and outside the home.

"Don't be a Gracie" means don't pick up a telephone with wet hands; don't get hit on the head by a falling bottle or can from an overcrowded medicine cabinet and things like that.

Now Gracie and her scatterbrained antics will be starred in a featurette to be produced by the Council on the screen.

Bill Marshall, who has given up acting for all time, brought his fiancee Micheline Presley to call on me. He has produced a number of pictures in France, and will spend some of that $500,000 his father left him on making "The Life of Sarah Bernhardt" with his bride-to-be as the star.

Now, don't all you trinket-buyers start a stampede when I tell you that "The Shah of Persia" (it's a diamond) is for sale for a mere $500,000.

The diamond, which has had a long and bloody history, has been in a vault in Los Angeles for 30 years and was taken out last week long enough for Deborah Kerr to wear for a portrait sitting. The guards hanging around made it look more like a mob scene.

It's a big secret who the owner is, but the jeweler, who is acting as agent in a possible sale, will take the gem on tour so those with a loose half-milion or so on hand can get a look at it.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Sharon Harmon, three-year-old daughter of Tommy Harmon and Elyse Knox, has been in St. Joseph's hospital in the Valley, with a bad case of flu.

Ethel Waters, the famous negro singer, flew into Hollywood and right out, after making a test for "Pinky" at 20th. She had a concert to do in Chicago Sunday.

A comic book put out by Dell Publications will feature Errol Flynn in a series of adventure stories in cartoon.

Now that her romance with Mike North is higher than a kite, Marilyn Maxwell leaves on a six weeks personal appearance tour in New York, Florida and New England, with a zingie wardrobe by Jacqueline Ross.

Billy Bakewell with Diane Griffith was at a table for two at The Kings.

Poor Eleanor Parker, all in one day her house caught fire, and her eleven-month-old daughter, Susan, became violently ill from a vaccination.

That's all today.

After 1750 the Windsor or Philadelphia chair was made generally throughout Massachusetts.

LOOK OUT FOR PIN-WORMS

Recent medical reports reveal that an amazing number of children (and grownups too) may be victims of Pin-Worms—often without suspecting what is wrong! And these pests, living inside the human body, can cause real distress.

So watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms—especially the aggravating rectal itch. Get JAYNE'S P-W and follow the directions.

P-W is the Pin-Worm treatment developed in the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, after years of patient research. The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms.

Buffet Supper To Precede Final Play

The concluding round of the cards tournament at the Cumberland Country Club will be held Thursday night. Preceding the tournament, the club will serve members a hot buffet supper, beginning at 5 o'clock.

The bridge tournament, in which 60 teams are competing for the club championship, is so closely contested that virtually every team has a chance to the title which will not be determined until the final game is completed, Harry Beneman, chairman, reports.

In the first three rounds, Mrs. Walter Capper and Mrs. Ann Russell are in the lead with 20,010 points with Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Bowers, runnersup, only 55 points behind the first team. Mrs. Fred Mills and Mrs. Eugene Gunning are in third place, less than 200 points behind the leaders.

Other teams composing the first 10 are Mrs. Fred Small and Mrs. William Gunter; Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Taylor; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. J. Morison; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kauffman; Mr. and Mrs. Morton Peskin; Mr. and Mrs. David Kauffman and Dr. and Mrs. Karl Heintz.

Twelve players are closely bunched in the gin rummy tournament, in which players are competing individually. Mrs. William Somerville, Mrs. Frank Cawley and Gordon Bowie are high scorers.

The tournaments have attracted the largest attendance in the history of the club. Reservations for the supper are being made with the club steward and the entire membership is invited for the conclusion of this series of parties.

Smalls Are Honored At Many Parties

Among the numerous farewell parties given in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Small prior to their leaving for New York, the largest was the cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gunter on Saturday at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Small, who have resided in Cumberland for the past 25 years, will leave for New York in the near future, Mr. Small having been transferred there as head of plant operations for the Celanese Corporation of America. He also will serve on the Board of Directors. He served as manager of the local plant since 1940.

Both natives of Australia, Mr. and Mrs. Small were called before a "Kangaroo Court" presided over by their host, as a feature of the party. There also were vocal solos by William Hewitt, of the Australian Embassy, Washington, who led group singing.

Among the out-of-town guests here for the party were Mr. and Mrs. John Maginnis, Chicago, son-in-law and daughter of the hosts; Miss Joy Small, Washington, Fred Small, Jr., children of the honor guests, James Maginnis, Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt. Over 400 guests attended.

A string ensemble under the direction of Wilton Syckes played during the party and spring flowers of pastel colors with smylax and silver candelabra with white tapers decorated the buffet table and mantle.

Other parties given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Small were dinner parties by Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, The Dingle, at the Cumberland Country Club Saturday night; one by Miss Elizabeth L. Lowndes and Tasker G. Lowndes at their home, 27 Washington Street; and one by Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hitchens, The Dingle, at the club.

Missionary Will Address Women's Association Feb. 7

Miss Cookingham To Be Entertained

The Woman's Association of the First Presbyterian Church will have Miss Mary Cookingham as guest speaker at the monthly meeting February 7. The meeting is to be held at 8 o'clock in the lecture hall. Miss Cookingham, a missionary from China, will speak about Yenching University.

Miss Cookingham, who will arrive today to visit her sister, Mrs. Ralph F. Potter, will be entertained by her at a tea from 2 until 5 Friday at her home, 850 Greene Street. The hostess will be assisted by members of the Templar Bible Class, which sponsors the collection of clothing for needy at Yenching University as one of it's projects, and by Mrs. Frederick Dodge, Mrs. Carl A. Sander, Mrs. William Ludman, Mrs. W. Duke Burger, Mrs. George Reuschlein and Mrs. Wallace Close. Approximately 50 guests are expected.

Going to Yenching University in 1923, Miss Cookingham first did secretarial work and for the last 15 years was bursar and made five trips to Peiping, formerly Peking. Interned at Weihfiem from March 1943 until September of the same year, she returned to the states on the Gripsholm in December 1943, and was employed in the university office in New York for two years, returning to Peiping in the summer of 1946, where she remained until the American consulate advised Americans to leave North China. She arrived back in the states last December.

Blessing boxes of members of the association will be received at the meeting. The Martin-Messer Circle will serve as hostesses.

Circle No. 1, WSCS, of Centre Street Methodist Church, will hold a rummage sale tonight at [illegible] o'clock in the church basement. Mrs. Leslie Randall, leader, will be in charge.

The community service group of First Presbyterian Church will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the church house. Mrs. A. H. Amick is chairman.

A class of candidates will be initiated and the charter draped at the meeting of Pride of Allegany Council 110, D. of A., at 7:30 tonight.

Buffet Supper To Precede Final Play

The concluding round of the cards tournament at the Cumberland Country Club will be held Thursday night. Preceding the tournament, the club will serve members a hot buffet supper, beginning at 5 o'clock.

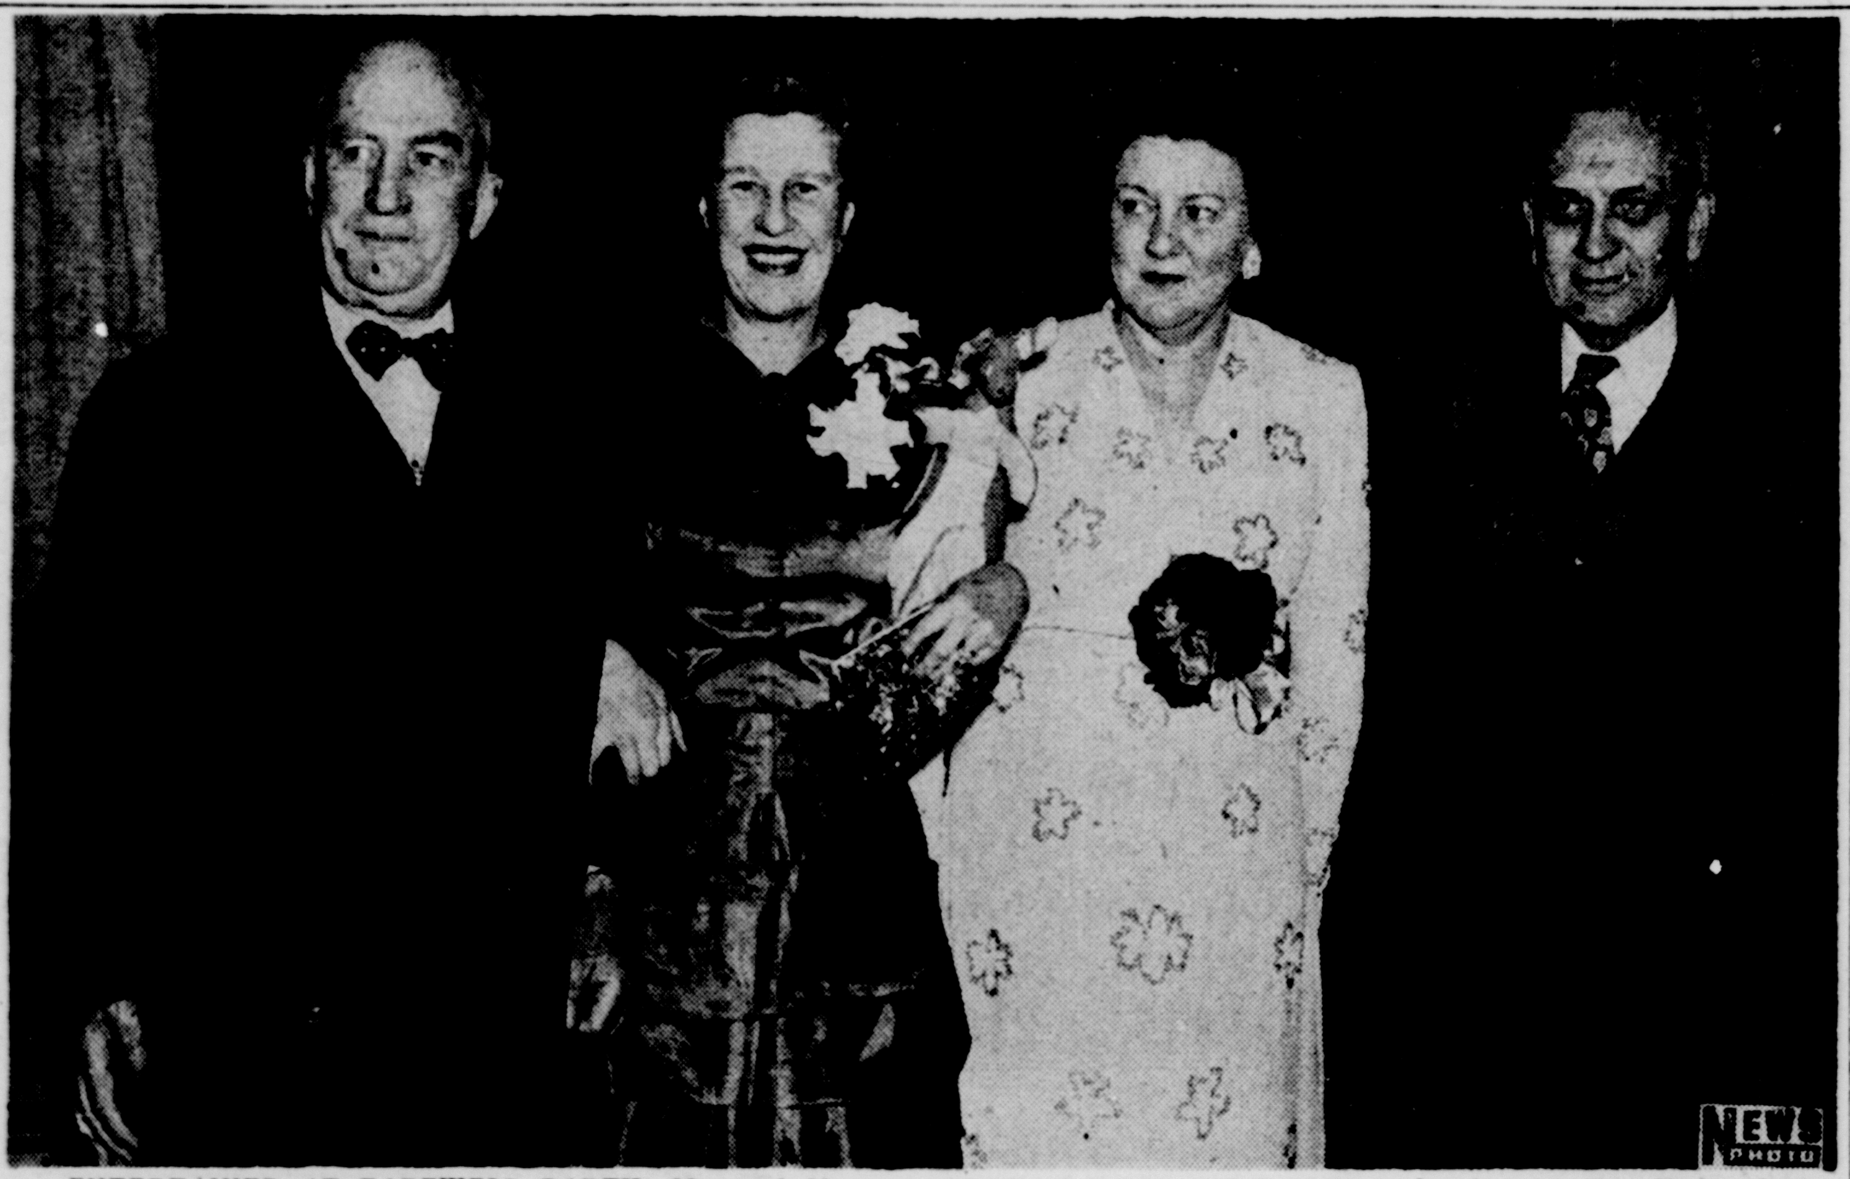
The bridge tournament, in which 60 teams are competing for the club championship, is so closely contested that virtually every team has a chance to the title which will not be determined until the final game is completed, Harry Beneman, chairman, reports.

In the first three rounds, Mrs. Walter Capper and Mrs. Ann Russell are in the lead with 20,010 points with Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Bowers, runnersup, only 55 points behind the first team. Mrs. Fred Mills and Mrs. Eugene Gunning are in third place, less than 200 points behind the leaders.

Other teams composing the first 10 are Mrs. Fred Small and Mrs. William Gunter; Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Taylor; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. J. Morison; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kauffman; Mr. and Mrs. Morton Peskin; Mr. and Mrs. David Kauffman and Dr. and Mrs. Karl Heintz.

Twelve players are closely bunched in the gin rummy tournament, in which players are competing individually. Mrs. William Somerville, Mrs. Frank Cawley and Gordon Bowie are high scorers.

The tournaments have attracted the largest attendance in the history of the club. Reservations for the supper are being made with the club steward and the entire membership is invited for the conclusion of this series of parties.



ENTERTAINED AT FAREWELL PARTY—Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Small (left) were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gunter (right) with a cocktail party Saturday at the Cumberland Country Club, prior to leaving for New York where Mr. Small has been transferred by the Celanese Corporation of America as head of plant operations.

Ethel Gillum Named Head Of 4-H Club

New officers of the Bedford Road 4-H Girls Club were elected at the meeting Saturday at the home of Mrs. John Hardinger, leader. They are Ethel Gillum, president; Caroline Knisley, vice president; Joan Blamble, secretary; Melva Hardinger, assistant secretary; Flora Hardinger, treasurer, and Nancy Purnell, assistant treasurer.

Chairmen for the year are Caroline Knisley, Program; Joan Blamble, Publicity; Ruth Ann Hardinger, Song Leader; Joan Blamble, Music; Melva Hardinger, Barbara Purnell, Camp; Nancy Purnell, Community Service; Gretta Hevner, Garden; Flora Hardinger, Clothing; Grace Gillum, Home Furnishings; Ethel Gillum; Home Management; Joyce White and Joyce Knisley, Nutrition and Health; and Flora Hardinger, Reading.

Miss Gloria Bohn, assistant home demonstration agent, spoke to the group about keeping 4-H record books and also gave an outline of the program for 1949. She showed the girls how to make a bonnet out of a head scarf.

After the meeting the group fried doughnuts for refreshments.

Smalls Are Honored At Many Parties

Among the numerous farewell parties given in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Small prior to their leaving for New York, the largest was the cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gunter on Saturday at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Small, who have resided in Cumberland for the past 25 years, will leave for New York in the near future, Mr. Small having been transferred there as head of plant operations for the Celanese Corporation of America. He also will serve on the Board of Directors. He served as manager of the local plant since 1940.

Both natives of Australia, Mr. and Mrs. Small were called before a "Kangaroo Court" presided over by their host, as a feature of the party. There also were vocal solos by William Hewitt, of the Australian Embassy, Washington, who led group singing.

Among the out-of-town guests here for the party were Mr. and Mrs. John Maginnis, Chicago, son-in-law and daughter of the hosts; Miss Joy Small, Washington, Fred Small, Jr., children of the honor guests, James Maginnis, Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt. Over 400 guests attended.

A string ensemble under the direction of Wilton Syckes played during the party and spring flowers of pastel colors with smylax and silver candelabra with white tapers decorated the buffet table and mantle.

Other parties given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Small were dinner parties by Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, The Dingle, at the Cumberland Country Club Saturday night; one by Miss Elizabeth L. Lowndes and Tasker G. Lowndes at their home, 27 Washington Street; and one by Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hitchens, The Dingle, at the club.

Missionary Will Address Women's Association Feb. 7

Miss Cookingham To Be Entertained

The Woman's Association of the First Presbyterian Church will have Miss Mary Cookingham as guest speaker at the monthly meeting February 7. The meeting is to be held at 8 o'clock in the lecture hall. Miss Cookingham, a missionary from China, will speak about Yenching University.

Miss Cookingham, who will arrive today to visit her sister, Mrs. Ralph F. Potter, will be entertained by her at a tea from 2 until 5 Friday at her home, 850 Greene Street. The hostess will be assisted by members of the Templar Bible Class, which sponsors the collection of clothing for needy at Yenching University as one of it's projects, and by Mrs. Frederick Dodge, Mrs. Carl A. Sander, Mrs. William Ludman, Mrs. W. Duke Burger, Mrs. George Reuschlein and Mrs. Wallace Close. Approximately 50 guests are expected.

Going to Yenching University in 1923, Miss Cookingham first did secretarial work and for the last 15 years was bursar and made five trips to Peiping, formerly Peking. Interned at Weihfiem from March 1943 until September of the same year, she returned to the states on the Gripsholm in December 1943, and was employed in the university office in New York for two years, returning to Peiping in the summer of 1946, where she remained until the American consulate advised Americans to leave North China. She arrived back in the states last December.

Blessing boxes of members of the association will be received at the meeting. The Martin-Messer Circle will serve as hostesses.

Circle No. 1, WSCS, of Centre Street Methodist Church, will hold a rummage sale tonight at [illegible] o'clock in the church basement. Mrs. Leslie Randall, leader, will be in charge.

The community service group of First Presbyterian Church will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the church house. Mrs. A. H. Amick is chairman.

A class of candidates will be initiated and the charter draped at the meeting of Pride of Allegany Council 110, D. of A., at 7:30 tonight.

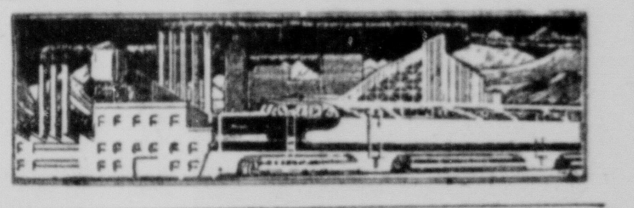
FROSTBURG NEWS FROM THE TRI-STATE AREA KEYSER



Boy Scout Fund Drive Set In Frostburg Area

Dr. Adam Baer Heads Committee

FROSTBURG—A drive to raise funds for Boy Scout work in this area will be conducted during Boy Scout Week February 6 through 13 by Mountain District of the Potomac Council. The district quota is $1,500, and the quota for the entire council is $11,400.

Dr. Adam Baer will be in charge, assisted by a committee consisting of Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart, City Commissioner W. W. Sluss, Jr., Clifton D. Jeffries, Walter Mackay, John F. Ash, Frank T. Powers and Carmel Pinto.

According to John L. Dunkle, the last public appeal for Boy Scout funds was made in 1946. Since that time interest in Scout activities has been on the decline here because of lack of leadership.

With the prospect of securing adult leaders who are expected to take the leadership training course this month, plans are being made to organize several Scout troops.

Several years ago there were eight troops in the Mountain District, three in Frostburg, sponsored by the Rotary Club, St. Michael's Church and Hill Street School; troops in Grantsville, Zihlman, Midland and Mt. Savage, and a troop of Sea Scouts in Frostburg.

The finance committee of Mountain District will contact Boy Scout committees in the towns formerly having troops to help raise the $1,500 in their separate communities.

Similar drives for funds will be conducted in all the towns of the Potomac District during Boy Scout Week.

Two Receive Fines In Frostburg Court

FROSTBURG — Two men were fined $10.75 each for motor violations preferred by State Police following a three-car accident Saturday on Barn Hill, Route 40, at a hearing yesterday morning before Trial Magistrate Alexander P. Nicol.

William E. Williams, 64 Armstrong Street, pleaded guilty to exceeding the speed limit and Robert Ryan, Eckhart, entered the same plea for failing to identify himself after the accident.

According to State Trooper Jack Browning a car owned by Ryan overturned on Barn Hill about 7:30 Saturday night.

He said that as a wrecker was attempting to move the overturned machine another auto, driven by John Kirkpatrick, 7 Charles Street, and headed east, stopped to wait for the road to be cleared.

Trooper Browning reported that Williams, also driving east, failed to heed the warning flares and crashed into the rear of the Kirkpatrick machine, injuring Mrs. Kirkpatrick. She was treated for injuries of the neck and back. Paul W. Green, an occupant of the Williams car, was treated for minor cuts and bruises.

Frostburg Personals

William H. Lewis, 124 East Main Street, former secretary of the Cumberland YMCA, is spending part of the winter months vacationing in Florida.

Samuel Hunter, a student at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, arrived home Friday to remain until February 9 during the mid-winter vacation.

Mrs. Arch Davis, 276 East Main Street, ill for the past week, is reported improving at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jenkins returned to Cleveland, O., after a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. Grace Long and family, 41 West College Avenue.

Mrs. Ralph M. Race, Beall Lane, who underwent an operation in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, last week, is reported improving.

Harry Pearson is reported ill at his home, Green Street.

4-H Club To Meet

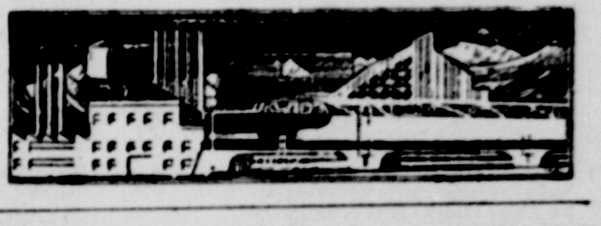
FROSTBURG NEWS FROM THE TRI-STATE AREA KEYSER



Boy Scout Fund Drive Set In Frostburg Area

Dr. Adam Baer Heads Committee

FROSTBURG—A drive to raise funds for Boy Scout work in this area will be conducted during Boy Scout Week February 6 through 13 by Mountain District of the Potomac Council. The district quota is $1,500, and the quota for the entire council is $11,400.

Dr. Adam Baer will be in charge, assisted by a committee consisting of Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart, City Commissioner W. W. Sluss, Jr., Clifton D. Jeffries, Walter Mackay, John F. Ash, Frank T. Powers and Carmel Pinto.

According to John L. Dunkle, the last public appeal for Boy Scout funds was made in 1946. Since that time interest in Scout activities has been on the decline here because of lack of leadership.

With the prospect of securing adult leaders who are expected to take the leadership training course this month, plans are being made to organize several Scout troops.

Several years ago there were eight troops in the Mountain District, three in Frostburg, sponsored by the Rotary Club, St. Michael's Church and Hill Street School; troops in Grantsville, Zihlman, Midland and Mt. Savage, and a troop of Sea Scouts in Frostburg.

The finance committee of Mountain District will contact Boy Scout committees in the towns formerly having troops to help raise the $1,500 in their separate communities.

Similar drives for funds will be conducted in all the towns of the Potomac District during Boy Scout Week.

Two Receive Fines In Frostburg Court

FROSTBURG — Two men were fined $10.75 each for motor violations preferred by State Police following a three-car accident Saturday on Barn Hill, Route 40, at a hearing yesterday morning before Trial Magistrate Alexander P. Nicol.

William E. Williams, 64 Armstrong Street, pleaded guilty to exceeding the speed limit and Robert Ryan, Eckhart, entered the same plea for failing to identify himself after the accident.

According to State Trooper Jack Browning a car owned by Ryan overturned on Barn Hill about 7:30 Saturday night.

He said that as a wrecker was attempting to move the overturned machine another auto, driven by John Kirkpatrick, 7 Charles Street, and headed east, stopped to wait for the road to be cleared.

Trooper Browning reported that Williams, also driving east, failed to heed the warning flares and crashed into the rear of the Kirkpatrick machine, injuring Mrs. Kirkpatrick. She was treated for injuries of the neck and back. Paul W. Green, an occupant of the Williams car, was treated for minor cuts and bruises.

Fall From Car Fatal To Moorefield Woman

Mrs. Blanche Crites Hefner, Moorefield, W. Va., died yesterday at 12:15 a. m. in Memorial Hospital from injuries received while trying to rescue her three-year-old niece from a fall.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said death was caused by an intercranial hemmorhage due to a fractured skull.

The Moorefield waman was hurt Sunday while trying to keep little Arbutus See from falling out of an open car door three miles south of Moorefield on Route 220. Both fell from the vehicle which was moving at about 35 miles an hour; the child sustained slight injuries.

The little girl was the daughter of Mrs. Hefner's sister, Mrs. Minnie Crites See, who was killed July 23 in a bus accident near Romney, W. Va.

Mrs. Hefner is survived by her husband, James B. Hefner, her parents, Wilbur and Roberta Parsons Crites, a son, James Hefner, and several other children.

A funeral service will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Baker Ghapel near Moorefield. Rev. Dryfield, pastor, will officiate and burial will be in Scott Graveyard near Moorefield, W. Va.

Bock Beer History Dates Back To Ancient Times

If you are toasting the arrival of Spring with Bock Beer, you may not know it, but you really are following the pattern of some far-off ancestor going as far back as the days of King Hammurabi, the great lawgiver of some 4,000 years ago.

Archaeologists have dug up engravings on burnt clay which show ancient Mesopotamian couriers drinking their ceremonial beer and, believe it or not, the artist depicted an excellent likeness of the Bock Beer goat jumping at a circle believed to represent the sun. Archaeologists turned to the records of the old astrologers for an interpretation and, after they found it, confirmed the fact that Billy Bock is in every farmer's almanac and has been for countless generations.

He's apparently a compromise between two of the symbols of the ancient zodiac — Capicornus the Goat, whose space in the solar year occurs in December, and Aries the Ram, the first point of Spring.

Students of ancient brewing history believe there is no accident in the fact that the world's traditional Spring beverage is brewed of the finest harvest grains under the sign of Capricorn and served to the waiting public with the commencement of Spring, when Aries rules.

Incidentally, B[illegible] always been c[illegible] [illegible]nal drink and its [illegible]nial [illegible] the Spring Festi[illegible] traceable [illegible] the very roots o[illegible] [illegible]ed history. Until a few hun[illegible] [illegible]rs ago the New Year comm[illegible] [illegible]ith March and [illegible] made with [illegible] [illegible]est [illegible] of the last harv[illegible] [illegible]nial New Year drin[illegible] [illegible] part of the inhabited world. England changed the beginning of the legal New Year to January 1st in 1752, but no matter how the ancients counted the year, beer and its famous symbol have been inseparable among the signs of Spring.

To the ancients, Bock represented the harvest brew for it was made with the pick of the grains garnered in the Fall and matured during the cold season. Today with mechanical temperature controls and fine materials available at all times, Bock could be made the year round, but its season is limited for two reasons—continuation of an age-old tradition and the public's taste preference. Bock, being a heavier brew than most other types, suits the early Spring taste, but most connoisseurs prefer the lighter brews the rest of the year. So the obliging brewmaster patterns his formula to conform to American tastes.

Brewmasters being individualists as well as masters of an ancient craft, there is no uniform formula for Bock Beer. However, it is usually slightly heavier-bodied, sweeter and darker than most brews, although there are also pale and "dry" Bocks. The darker color is obtained by carmelization or additional toasting of the barley malt, which forms the principal ingredient of all beers and ales.

Another legend explaining the name of Bock is that it was derived from Einbeck, a town near Hamburg, Germany, which was widely known for its brewing industry as far back as 700 years ago. Einbeck was sometimes slurred as Ein Bock which, translated, means "One Goat" . . . hence the name of the rare brew used today.

You can take your pick of the stories concerning Bock Beer, but there's only ONE Bock Beer to choose when you're looking for the oldtime satisfying flavor of this traditional Springtime brew . . . and that's Old German Bock Beer. It's on sale today at your favorite tavern and at package stores and food stores.

Bock Beer History Dates Back To Ancient Times

If you are toasting the arrival of Spring with Bock Beer, you may not know it, but you really are following the pattern of some far-off ancestor going as far back as the days of King Hammurabi, the great lawgiver of some 4,000 years ago.

Archaeologists have dug up engravings on burnt clay which show ancient Mesopotamian couriers drinking their ceremonial beer and, believe it or not, the artist depicted an excellent likeness of the Bock Beer goat jumping at a circle believed to represent the sun. Archaeologists turned to the records of the old astrologers for an interpretation and, after they found it, confirmed the fact that Billy Bock is in every farmer's almanac and has been for countless generations.

He's apparently a compromise between two of the symbols of the ancient zodiac — Capicornus the Goat, whose space in the solar year occurs in December, and Aries the Ram, the first point of Spring.

Students of ancient brewing history believe there is no accident in the fact that the world's traditional Spring beverage is brewed of the finest harvest grains under the sign of Capricorn and served to the waiting public with the commencement of Spring, when Aries rules.

Incidentally, B[illegible] always been c[illegible]nal drink and its [illegible] the Spring Fest[illegible] traceable [illegible] the very roots [illegible]ed history. Until a few hun[illegible]rs ago the New Year comm[illegible]ith [illegible] March and [illegible] made with [illegible]est [illegible] of the last harv[illegible]nial New Year drin[illegible] part of the inhabited world. England changed the beginning of the legal New Year to January 1st in 1752, but no matter how the ancients counted the year, beer and its famous symbol have been inseparable among the signs of Spring.

To the ancients, Bock represented the harvest brew for it was made with the pick of the grains garnered in the Fall and matured during the cold season. Today with mechanical temperature controls and fine materials available at all times, Bock could be made the year round, but its season is limited for two reasons —continuation of an age-old tradition and the public's taste preference. Bock, being a heavier brew than most other types, suits the early Spring taste, but most connoisseurs prefer the lighter brews the rest of the year. So the obliging brewmaster patterns his formula to conform to American tastes.

Brewmasters being individualists as well as masters of an ancient craft, there is no uniform formula for Bock Beer. However, it is usually slightly heavier-bodied, sweeter and darker than most brews, although there are also pale and "dry" Bocks. The darker color is obtained by carmelization or additional toasting of the barley malt, which forms the principal ingredient of all beers and ales.

Another legend explaining the name of Bock is that it was derived from Einbeck, a town near Harburg, Germany, which was widely known for its brewing industry as far back as 700 years ago. Einbeck was sometimes slurred as Ein Bock which, translated, means "One Goat" . . . hence the name of the rare brew used today.

You can take your pick of the stories concerning Bock Beer, but there's only ONE Bock Beer to choose when you're looking for the oldtime satisfying flavor of this traditional Springtime brew . . . and that's Old German Bock Beer. It's on sale today at your favorite tavern and at package stores and food stores.

Ridgeley High Tops Piedmont Cagers, 39-32

Hawks Stave Off Late Rally To Cop Conference Game

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The Ridgeley High Blackhawks staved off a last half challenge by Piedmont High School's basketballers here tonight and stored away a 39-32 victory.

Piedmont moved off to an early 3-0 lead but the Blackhawks managed to pull one point ahead by first quarter time and then rolled to a 25-16 advantage at the half.

Charging back after intermission, Piedmont capped one of its best games this season by outscoring Ridgeley by two points in the nip and tuck final two periods.

In a clean, well officiated game, Loy and Lindsay were best for Ridgeley and Thompson and E. Smith sparked Piedmont.

Piedmont meets Romney High School Tuesday night at Romney.

EVENS ACCOUNTS— Jimmy Demaret, above, fashion-plate of the fairways, squared playoff accounts with Ben Hogan yesterday when he defeated the the latter in a playoff to decide the $10,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament. He won top prize of $2,000 by beating Beltin' Ben, 67-70. Last week Hogan whipped Demaret in a playoff for the Long Beach Open title, 67-69.

Ben Hogan Bows To Jim Demaret In Phoenix Open

Letter Cops Playoff By 3-Stroke Margin

By JACK STEVENSON

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 31 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret squared playoff accounts with Ben Hogan today as he won a three-stroke victory in an 18-hole special round to decide the $10,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The colorful Ojai, Calif., shotmaker scored a four under par 67. Hogan took a 70. They had finished the 72-hole tourney yesterday tied at 278.

As he finished the round Demaret quipped, "I feel like a race horse beating Citation."

Outcome Is Reversed

This was a reversal of the outcome last week when Demaret and Hogan ended deadlocked in the Long Beach Open. Hogan won that playoff 67-69.

With his approaches hitting the green with deadly accuracy, Demaret brought a careful putting game into play.

A pair of putts between 25 and 30 feet helped the Demaret cause. One, on the fouth hole, gave him a two-stroke lead. Hogan three-putted the hole. The second came on the 18th, when Demaret already had virtually clinched the event.

It was the 11th straight day of competitive golf for Demaret. He played in the pro-amateur meet here between the Long Beach playoff and the start of this tournament.

Although Demaret grabbed a four stroke lead in the first six holes, Hogan squared things in the next six. They were even through 13.

Demaret's approach shot on the 234-yard 14th hole landed about seven feet from the pin. Hogan was 12 feet away. The Hershey, Pa., sharpshooter missed the putt and Demaret, Carefully lined up his shot, sent it dead to the cup for a birdie and the lead.

Gets $2,000 Top Prize

To the winner goes the $2,000 top prize. Hogan gets $1,400. The two also divided 50 per cent of the gate from the extra day's play. The crowd, estimated by host pro Willie Low at about 3,000 persons, paid $1.50 each to see the play.

Both golfers commented the course was in better shape today than it had been during the regulation 72 holes.

Rupp And Peterson To Coach East, West

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Two old rivals, Adolph Rupp of Kentucky and Vadal Peterson of Utah, will coach the east and west forces, respectively, in the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund's fourth annual all-star basketball game, the sponsors announced today.

The contest will be held in Madison Square Garden, Saturday, April 2. The east leads in the series, two to one.

Ten men will be picked for each team. The stars will report to their coaches in New York, March 28, for a week of practice.

Selection of Rupp and Peterson marked the first time the sponsors have gone to the South and Rocky Mountain areas for the teams' coaches.

The East has been coached by Joe Lapchick, then of St. John's (Brooklyn), Nat Holman of CCNY, and Ben. Carnevale of Navy. The west has been led by Harold Olsen, then of Ohio State, Hank Iba of Oklahoma A. & M. and Moose Krause of Notre Dame.

Kentucky, under Rupp, defeated Peterson's Utah five in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament in 1944.

Peterson evened the score in '47 when the UTES upset Kentucky in the finals of the N.I.T.

Potomac State Trims Virginia College Quint

Lough's Club Downs Shenandoah, 64-54

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 31—Potomac State's Catamounts spotted Shenandoah College of Dayton, Va., six points in the first quarter here tonight and then went on to win by a 64-54 score.

In playing one of their best games of the season, the Cats lost the services of Eaton, their first string center, who was hospitalized with a severe leg cut in the second quarter. Coach Dana "Horse" Lough said he expects Eaton to be out of the lineup for a week to 10 days. His leg was cut on a metal knee brace worn by a Shenandoah player and stitches were required to close the wound.

Potomac State moved to a 14-14 tie at the end of the first quarter but rolled to a 16-point lead at one time in the second quarter before Shenadoah got back in the ball game. The Cats had things pretty much their own way in the last half of the non-conference tilt.

Simms, with 18 points, sparked the Cats and Hill and Spencer starred for Shenandoah.

Potomac State will meet Alderson-Broaddus in a West Virginia Conference tilt at Keyser Friday night and will play host to National College of Doylestown, Pa., Saturday night.

Midland Pinmen Take Six Straight Games

Midland won six games during the past week and now trails Bowl-Mor of Barton in the Bi-State Junior Bowling League by the margin of five games.

The Midland team swept three from Keyser at Midland. Bob Wilt led the winners with a 165-451 set while Elmer Wilson topped Keyser with 176-455. Then Midland scored a 3-0 win over Maple Lanes (Westernport). In this match J. Wilson was high man for Midland with a 189-504 set and Bob Wilson's 171-466 paced Maple Lanes.

Barton made it three in a row over Keyser. Roy Winters led the attack for Bowl-Mor with a 168-448 while Bob Dye was Keyser's best bet with 179-461. The standings:

Bearden Of Cleveland Honored By Writers

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31 (AP)—Gene Bearden, Cleveland Indians' pitching star who carries a platinum plate in his head and another in his leg as a result of war injuries, tonight was named "most courageous athlete of 1948" by the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association.

Bearden, world series hero and American League rookie of the year, was honored at the annual writers banquet along with his manager, Lou Boudreau, who was named the "outstanding athlete of the year."

Hank Greenberg, Cleveland vice president, received the award for Bearden in the absence of the pitcher.

Charley Bednarik, Penn football star, was honored as "lineman of the year.

Belloise Is Victor

BROOKLYN, Jan. 31 (AP)—Steve Belloise, 162, New York, stopped Henry Chemel, 163, Portland, Me., in 2:51 of the second round of their scheduled eight round fight at the Eastern Parkway Rink tonight.

Belloise contender for the middleweight crown, dumped Chemel twice for counts of nine in the first round before putting him away for keeps in the second.

Chisox Sign Scout

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (INS)—Fred Hunter, for 16 years a scout with the Bostan Red Sox, was signed in a similar capacity by the Chicago White Sox today and assigned to cover Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas.

Brown Is Retained As Cleveland Coach

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31—(INS)—Paul Brown put an end to countless rumors tonight by signing to remain as coach of the Cleveland Browns, All-America Football Conference champions, for at least seven years.

Reported ready to fill practically every major coaching vacancy in the land, Brown signed a five-year contract that will pick up where his present pact, which has two years to run, leaves off.

Mickey McBride, owner of the Browns, said Brown will continue to receive $25,000 yearly plus 15 per cent of the team's net receipts.

Modern All-Time Outfield

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 31 — Fred Corcoran, baseball and golf statistician, traveled from Boston to Los Angeles recently, stopping off at various stations.

"Enroute," Corcoran said, "I took a poll of ballplayers and fans about a new all-time outfield, to either follow or to supplant the old-time trio consisting of Cobb, Speaker and Ruth. You may think a lot of us are daffy, but I think we've polled and picked one just as good."

"If you've left out Joe Jackson," we answered, "here is the one you picked—Joe DiMaggio, Stan Musial and Ted Williams. It had to be."

"Those are the three that got almost a unanimous vote," Corcoran said. "Look them over. They are certainly just as good on defense. I think a little better. They have better arms. Their batting averages won't be far away. In addition, they'll drive in more runs. There isn't any rule that Cobb, Speaker and Ruth should be the all-time outfield forever, is there?"

We could think of no such rule.

"DiMaggio, Musial and Williams," Fred went on, "have more power than Cobb, Speaker and Ruth. Ruth stands alone. But Cobb and Speaker were never long-distance hitters.

"Taking the old-time three in its peak years, I still think DiMaggio, Williams and Musial would drive in more runs. All three are long distance hitters. All three are home-run hitters. Even with Babe Ruth to bank on, the modern group would hit more home runs than the old-time trio would ever hit.

"I know it sounds like a sacrilege," Corcoran continued, "but you'd be surprised to know how many smart baseball people would rather have DiMaggio, Williams and Musial on their team than Cobb, Speaker and Ruth when it came down to winning ball games—which is the main idea. At least the gap is very thin.

"Too many of us get sold to the past. We forget to remember that every record that can be timed or measured is far better today than it was yesterday. All old records are continually broken or smashed. If there were some machine that could measure baseball and football players, you'd find most of the top stars belonged to the last ten years."

Which could be true enough.

The Last Fifteen Years

I asked Corcoran and his cast how they would pick the all-star team of the last fifteen years—the way Connie Mack said they should be picked.

"We could give you a pretty tough all-star team," Fred said. "We would have Bill Dickey back of the bat. Dickey can hold his place with anyone, including Cochrane and Hartnett.

"Pitchers? No, we haven't any Johnsons or Mathewsons or Alexanders, maybe, but it wouldn't be so bad. How about Bob Feller—at his best—Hal Newhouser, Dizzy Dean (at his peak), Lefty Grove or Carl Hubbell.

"The infield—no great first basemen lately—no Sisler, Chase, Gehrig—maybe Hank Greenberg. Second base? No Collins, Lajoie, Frisch or Hornsby. How about Joe Gordon? Shortstop—Lou Boudreau, close to Hans Wagner. Third base—? Red Rolfe? Why not? George Kell may prove to be the best. Ken Keltner hasn't been too bad. "After all, Greenberg, Gordon, Boudreau and Rolfe or Kell wouldn't be too bad for the infield. Then add DiMaggio, Musial and Williams for the outfield."

This gives us the following all-star team for the last ten or twelve years:

Catcher—Dickey.
Pitchers—Feller, Newhouser, Dean, Grove and Hubbell.
First base—Greenberg.
Second base—Gordon.
Shortstop—Boudreau.
Third base—Rolfe or Kell.
Outfield — DiMaggio, Musial and Williams.

"This takes all these men in at their peak," Corcoran said. "A lot of us believe that Feller, Newhouser and Dean, in their best years, would be an even match for anybody. Dean in his two big years could have been an even bet against Johnson, Alexander or Mathewson. Carl Hubbell and Lefty Grove were as good as anybody. They were the two best left-handers."

This all-time infield doesn't quite match the pick of the past—Sisler, Gehrig, Chase, Collins, Lajoie, Hornsby, Frisch, Wagner and Traynor or Collins. But the catching, pitching and outfield match up better than you might think.

I doubt that an all-time team picked up to 1920 would have any advantage of an all-time team picked after 1925. For we could make use of Gehringer at second, rated by many as the peer of Collins, Lajoie or Hornsby for all-around value.

At least the time is about ripe to start discarding some of the oldtimers who have been planted for eternity on an all-time team. Eternity is a long time.

Widdoes Will Coach Ohio U. Grid Team

Carroll Widdoes

That was the announcement today of Brandon T. (Butch) Grover, assistant to the president of Ohio U., who declared only a few details remained to be worked out before the former Ohio State University head coach would take over the Bobcat reins.

Widdoes, who voluntarily stepped down from the Buckeye coaching job after highly successful seasons in 1944 and 1945, will succeed Harold Wise as Ohio U. grid chief. Wise resigned early this month.

Since giving up the head coaching job at Ohio State, Widdoes has served as assistant to Paul Bixler and Wesley Fesler at the same university. He came to Ohio State in 1941 as assistant to Paul Brown, when the latter succeeded the late Francis Schmidt.

Louis Scores KO, Oliver Injured

Ring Minus Padding Is Cause Of Mishap

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis knocked out Dixie Lee Oliver, veteran negro fighter from St. Petersburg, Fla., in the fourth round of their exhibition bout here tonight.

Oliver, who weighed 222 pounds, was out for more than 10 minutes and was carried from the ring in a stretcher. He was taken to a hospital for an examination.

Louis felled Oliver with a left hook to the chin one minute and 30 seconds after the last round started. There was no padding under the canvas and Oliver's head struck the floor when he fell.

Louis, who weighed in at 221, was obviously concerned over Oliver's condition and did not leave the ring until the St. Petersburg fighter had been carried away. He said it was only the second fighter he had really hurt in his boxing career.

An estimated 5,200 persons saw the bout.

Fourteen ounce gloves were used in the bout.

Purple Heart Wins

The women's shuffleboard team of the Military Order of Purple Heart defeated Cresap Tavern in two out of three games last night by the score of 77-72. Mrs. Juanita Loundy led the winners with 17 points and Mrs. W. Ware headed the losers with 15.

Central-Fort Hill, LaSalle-Berlin Games Are Scheduled Here Tonight

Piedmont At Romney, Beall Plays Ft. Ashby

Fort Hill's Sentinels will be angling for their sixth consecutive victory in the W. M. I. League when they play Central High School of Lonaconing tonight at 8 o'clock on the Fort Hill court.

The defending champions took the opener of the series at Lonaconing by the score of 37-23 and are expected to make it two in a row tonight.

LaSalle Host To Berlin

Central is tied with Bruce for third place in the circuit, each team having won two games and lost three.

LaSalle High's Explorers will be out to avenge a 54-30 setback they suffered in Berlin, Pa., early in the season when they face Berlin-Brothersvalley High School in a return game tonight at 8 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court. It will be the 16th start of the season for the Explorers who have won only four and lost eleven.

Jackets Seek Eighth

Moorefield High will attempt to make it eight out of nine in the Potomac Valley Conference when it tackles Mathias High in Moorefield tonight. The Yellow Jackets hold a 39-31 win over Mathias.

Davis High which has engaged in only three conference games to date will invade Circleville tonight to meet Coach Guy Propst's Indians. Coach Weider Pell's Tucker County Wildcats clawed Circleville earlier in the campaign by the score of 44-22. Davis' P. V. C. record is two and one.

In the third conference game of the night Piedmont High's Lions (1-2) will invade Romney to engage Dick McElwee's Vikings (2-3). It will be their first meeting of the season.

Fort Ashby At Beall

Other scholastic games on tap for tonight include: Oakland at Accident, Friendsville at Kitzmiller, Parsons at Tygarts Valley (Mill Creek), Fort Ashby at Beall High (Frostburg), Bruce at Elk Garden, Petersburg at Bayard and Bedford at Huntingdon.

Frostburg State Teachers and Shenandoah College of Dayton, Va., meet in Frostburg tonight.

Dawson Of Beall Leads WMI Loop Foul Shooters

AHS Team Averages 50 Points Per Game

Bill Dawson of Beall High School topped the foul shooters with an average of .607 for 17 points in 28 tries and Eddie Landefeld of Allegany headed the individual point scorers with 70 markers, an average of 14 per game, during the first half of the season in the W.M.I. Basketball League.

Don Moran of Bruce High trailed Landefeld by scoring 67 points while Russell Devore of Bruce and John Alderton of Fort Hill were tied for third with 60 points each.

Six players had 25 chances or more at the foul line and Dawson's average was tops.

Allegany High's second place team averaged 50 points per game for the five first half contests and tied Fort Hill for the best defensive mark, each limiting the opposition to an average of 29.4 per game. Barton yielded the greatest number of points—237—and average of 47.4.

Bill Tilden Sought On Morals Charge

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 31 (AP)—A warrant for the arrest of William T .Tilden II, former world tennis champion, on a morals charge was issued today.

Lieut. Lynn Brackett, head of the juvenile division of the police department, said Tilden, 55, is accused of making improper advances to a 17-year-old boy last Friday.

A second complaint accuses Tilden of violating five years probation on a similar charge two years ago involving a 14-year-old boy in Beverly Hills.

The new complaint was issued by Superior Judge A. A. Scott of Juvenile Court who had sentenced Tilden to nine months in jail in 1947.

At that time Scott called Tilden a disappointment to thousands of youngsters and adults all over the world "who do not expect this kind of conduct from a world champion."

Brackett said an Inglewood youth told him Tilden picked him up on Wilshire Boulevard, drove to Santa Monica, but finally let him out of the car when the lad spurned the tennis players' overtures.

One of the conditions of Tilden's probation is that he shall not be in the company of a male or female juvenile unless the juvenile's parent or parents are present. The court also prescribed psychiatric consultations.

Penn State Will Play Nine Football Games

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP)—Penn State College today announced a nine-game football schedule for 1949 opening September 24, against Villanova College.

The schedule: Sept. 24, Villanova; Oct. 1, Army at West Point; 8, Boston College; 15, Nebraska; 22, Michigan State at East Lansing; 29, Syracuse; Nov. 5, West Virginia at Morgantown; 12, Temple at Philadelphia, and 19, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

WVU To Play Texans

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 31 (AP)—Football teams of West Virginia University and Texas Mines will meet here November 12, it was announced today.

A return game will be played at El Paso, Texas, November 25, 1950, Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley announced.

The two teams first met New Year's Day in Sun Bowl play at El Paso this year, with the Mountaineers coming out on top 21-12.

Duquesne U. Halts Villanova, 65-37

PITSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP)—Duquesne broke the back of a Villanova bid for a basketball season without defeat by coasting to any easy 65 to 37 win tonight on The Gardens court.

Charley Cooper, the Dukes' center, supplied most of the spark for the Duquesne runaway. Cooper was high man with 18 points and he held Paul Arizin, the Wildcats' "super" jump man, to a meager nine points.

Villanova's loss left Hamlin University, of St. Paul, Minn., the nation's only unbeaten team.

Fight Results

Jimmie Getson, 137½, Lonaconing VFW, won 2-1 decision over Lee Stevens, 136, Diamond A. C.

Billy Wilson, 138¾, Lonaconin VFW, scored technical knockout over "Chuck" Henry, 134¾, Diamond A. C., in 1:40 of the first round. Referee Kelley stopped match after Henry had been floored second time.

Jimmie Foote, 116½, Lonaconing, VFW, scored technical knockout over Eddie Hamilton, 116, Diamond A. C., in 36 seconds of first round. Referee Kelley stopped match after Hamilton started reeling after a hard punch to the body.

Pat Thomas, 128¼, Merrick A. C., Washington, D. C., won 3-0 decision over Jim Folk, 132, Royale A. C., in five rounds.

"Doc" Watkins, 135, Zivic A. C., Pittsburgh, scored technical knockout over Paddy Bullock, 132 ¾, Merrick A. C., Washington, D. C., in 1:04 of the fourth round of scheduled five round bout. Referee Kelley stopped the match with Bullock in a bad way.

Carlton Shore, 144½, Diamond A. C., won 3-0 decision over Owen Lewis, 137 ½, Lonaconing VFW.

"Bunky" Frazier, 125¾, Merrick A. C., Washington, D. C., won 3-0 decision over Marty Mull, 128, Diamond A. C.

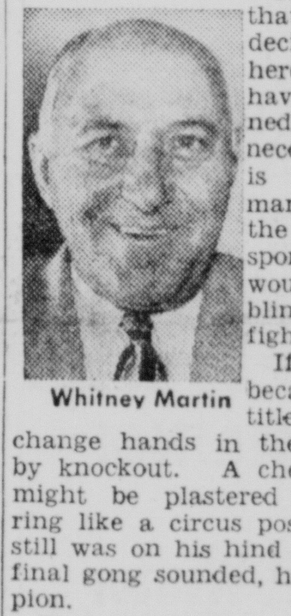
DeWitt Butler, 146, Merrick A. C., Washington, D. C., won 2-1 decision over Russell Bean, 146½, Diamond A. C.

New York Bill Would Outlaw Decision Bouts

Confusion Is Seen If Law Is Passed

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—A bill has been introduced in the New York legislature which would ban the giving of decisions in boxing matches in the state.



Whitney Martin

It is admitted that some of the decisions given hereabouts should have been banned, by law if necessary, but that is not the primary purpose of the bill. The sponsor thinks it would curb gambling on prize fights.

If such a bill became a law a title could not change hands in the state except by knockout. A cheese champion might be plastered all over the ring like a circus poster, but if he still was on his hind legs when the final gong sounded, he's still champion.

For years, when decisions were banned in most states over the country, sports writers of the local papers gave their own opinion of who won a fight, but out-of-town papers often got their idea of who won through wires from the manager.

Both Managers Claimed Wins

The manager who could sprint fastest to the telegraph office could register a victory for his man, and probably more than one old-time editor can remember receiving a wire from one pilot reading "we win easy," and a few minutes later getting a message from the rival manager to the effect that "we take every round."

The no-decision bouts made it tough for ring historians who, with no official verdict rendered, only could put down "ND" as the result of a fight unless it ended in a knockout or foul.

In Nat Fleischer's ring record book the record of Benny Leonard covers more than full page, but most of the bouts are tabbed "No Decision." It is acknowledged that Leonard, one of the greatest of champions, won most of those bouts, but you can't prove it by the record and as time goes by and witnesses to the encounters pass on that cold, bleak "ND" can mean almost anything.

A law banning decisions might curb attempts to bribe judges or referees, who are supposed to be stern, upright men in no need of such protection, but we don't see how it would stop betting on fights. It would just put the reporters who gave newspaper decisions on the spot.

They'll Bet On Anything

The men who bet on fights would bet on anything, and if they couldn't bet on the fights they would put down their wagers on the number of beans in a bottle or the number of apples in applesauce.

They'd find some way to bet on fights, though, agreeing to abide by newspaper decisions, or betting on the possibility of a knockdown or knockout.

We'll have to get our semi-private ring historian, Dumb Dan Morgan, to recount some of his experiences during the days of no-decision bouts. He was a sprightly lad, built for speed, and we imagine he was pretty fair at winning telegraph decisions for his boys.

Jimmy Johnston was another of the racehorse type, and, like Morgan, had a gift for words. Returning from an out-of-town no-decision fight we can imagine them giving lurid accounts of the battle, not giving their boys any the worst of it, and with no official verdict to refute them you just had to take their word for what happened.

Would Add Confusion

Anyway, we just can't see a return to the no-decision contests serving much of a purpose except to confuse, and there is enough confusion in the fight business already.

Butler Beats Bean, "Bunky" Frazier Wins

Washington, 'Coney Boxers Annex Three Bouts In Good Show

Pat Thomas, Golden Gloves featherweight champion of Washington, D. C., outpunched and outboxed Jim Folk, Meyersdale, Pa., battler representing the Royale A. C., of this city, to romp off with an unanimous decision in the five-round feature match of the Diamond Athletic Club's amateur fistic carnival last night at the State Armory.

A gathering of 505 cash customers saw the clever Merrick A. C., scrapper, who was making his second appearance here in a year, belt out a well earned decision in a match that topped a highly pleasing card of eight contests offered by Matchmaker Jim Klosterman.

With the exception of the second round when Folk shaded his capital city opponent and opened a cut near the latter's eye, it was Thomas all the way. Pat bombarded Folk with left hooks to the body and jaw and when he wasn't relying on his southpaw to pile up points he was jarring the Royale A. C. battler to his heels with solid smashes to the head. On several occasions the fighters stood in mid-ring or in a corner and slugged it out toe-to-toe to the delight of the paying patrons.

Watkins Wins Third Here

In the semi-final, another bout set for five heats, "Doc" Watkins, classy Pittsburgh lightweight, seconded by Fritzie Zivic, former world's champion, scored a TKO over Paddy Bullock, Washington negro, in 1:04 of the fourth stanza. It was Watkins' third straight victory in a local ring. He put Bullock down for eight in the second and was hitting the colored lad with everything but the water bucket when Referee Jim Kelley stopped the slaughter in the 4th.

"Bunky" Frazier, Washington's rugged little featherweight, belted Marty Mull, Diamond A. C. 128-pounder from pillar to post for three rounds to walk off with a 3-0 decision in the 7th match on the program. Mull put up a courageous stand but he was simply outclassed by the Merrick A. C. "buzz saw." It was "Bunky's" second win here in three starts.

Butler Outslugs Bean

The Washington boxers, seconded by "Biff" Jones, professional lightweight boxing star of the capital city, made it three out of four for the evening when DeWitt Butler, hard-hitting negro welter, outslugged Russell Bean in a hair-raising battle. There was never a dull moment in this scrap and Bean was hot so hard and often in the final round many were of the opinion he wouldn't last. In three previous matches here Bean was on the winning end via TKO's. Butler won a split decision but there was little doubt about who was the victor.

Boxers representing the Lonaconing Veterans of Foreign Wars won three of the four preliminaries in which novices participated. In the curtain-raiser Jimmie Getson gained a 2-1 nod over Lee Stevens. Then Billy Wilson of 'Coney, floored "Chuck" Henry twice and was awarded a TKO in 1:40 of the first round. Jimmie Foote made it three in a row for Coach Joe McGreevy's team when he TKO'd Eddie Hamilton in 36 seconds, the referee halting the affair with Hamilton in a wobbly condition after he received a hard wallop to the mid-section.

Carlton Shore of the DAC finally halted the 'Coney winning streak when he decisioned Owen Lewis. It looked like a toss-up at the finish but Shore landed a 3-0 verdict.

Jim Kelley refereed all of the matches with Gilbert Becker and Jack Rorick as the judges, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Announcement was made that St. Mary's Boys' Club will hold the next amateur show at the armory on Monday, February 14.

Vince Foster Wins Over Phil Burton

OMAHA, Jan. 31 (INS)—Vince Foster, Omaha welterweight, outboxed Phil Burton of New York City in their ten-round main go tonight at Omaha's Municipal Auditorium.

The tough New Yorkers kept his record of never being kayoed in 57 bouts. He took Foster's heaviest artillery and hurt the Omaha slugger at times, but had to hold on frequently to weather the storm of rights and lefts delivered by Foster and win the decision.

Burton slipped to the canvas in the third round but there was no count.

Foster weighed 147 and Burton 143½.

Blues Set Record

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 31—Wheeling's Blues, leaders of the All-American Pro Basketball League, hung up a new record tonight by defeating the Washington, Pa., Jewels, 106-71. It was Wheeling's 12th win in 18 starts.

Moore Scores K.O.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 31 (AP)—After pounding Bob Satterfield to the canvas three times in the second round, Archie Moore of St. Louis knocked out his Chicago opponent in 25 seconds of the third round tonight before 4,200 fans at Sports Arena.

Moore, weighing 167, spotted Satterfield eight pounds. He used a hard overhand right to score the three second-round knockdowns, two of them for nine counts. The end of the round came on the count of five in the third flooring.

Ridgeley High Tops Piedmont Cagers, 39-32

Hawks Stave Off Late Rally To Cop Conference Game

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The Ridgeley High Blackhawks staved off a last half challenge by Piedmont High School's basketballers here tonight and stored away a 39-32 victory.

Piedmont moved off to an early 3-0 lead but the Blackhawks managed to pull one point ahead by first quarter time and then rolled to a 25-16 advantage at the half.

Charging back after intermission, Piedmont capped one of its best games this season by outscoring Ridgeley by two points in the nip and tuck final two periods.

In a clean, well officiated game, Loy and Lindsay were best for Ridgeley and Thompson and E. Smith sparked Piedmont.

Piedmont meets Romney High School Tuesday night at Romney.

EVENS ACCOUNTS— Jimmy Demaret, above, fashion-plate of the fairways, squared playoff accounts with Ben Hogan yesterday when he defeated the the latter in a playoff to decide the $10,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament. He won top prize of $2,000 by beating Beltin' Ben, 67-70. Last week Hogan whipped Demaret in a playoff for the Long Beach Open title, 67-69.

Ben Hogan Bows To Jim Demaret In Phoenix Open

Letter Cops Playoff By 3-Stroke Margin

By JACK STEVENSON

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 31 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret squared playoff accounts with Ben Hogan today as he won a three-stroke victory in an 18-hole special round to decide the $10,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The colorful Ojai, Calif., shotmaker scored a four under par 67. Hogan took a 70. They had finished the 72-hole tourney yesterday tied at 278.

As he finished the round Demaret quipped, "I feel like a race horse beating Citation."

Outcome Is Reversed

This was a reversal of the outcome last week when Demaret and Hogan ended deadlocked in the Long Beach Open. Hogan won that playoff 67-69.

With his approaches hitting the green with deadly accuracy, Demaret brought a careful putting game into play.

A pair of putts between 25 and 30 feet helped the Demaret cause. One, on the fouth hole, gave him a two-stroke lead. Hogan three-putted the hole. The second came on the 18th, when Demaret already had virtually clinched the event.

It was the 11th straight day of competitive golf for Demaret. He played in the pro-amateur meet here between the Long Beach playoff and the start of this tournament.

Although Demaret grabbed a four stroke lead in the first six holes, Hogan squared things in the next six. They were even through 13.

Demaret's approach shot on the 234-yard 14th hole landed about seven feet from the pin. Hogan was 12 feet away. The Hershey, Pa., sharpshooter missed the putt and Demaret, Carefully lined up his shot, sent it dead to the cup for a birdie and the lead.

Gets $2,000 Top Prize

To the winner goes the $2,000 top prize. Hogan gets $1,400. The two also divided 50 per cent of the gate from the extra day's play. The crowd, estimated by host pro Willie Low at about 3,000 persons, paid $1.50 each to see the play.

Both golfers commented the course was in better shape today than it had been during the regulation 72 holes.

Rupp And Peterson To Coach East, West

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Two old rivals, Adolph Rupp of Kentucky and Vadal Peterson of Utah, will coach the east and west forces, respectively, in the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund's fourth annual all-star basketball game, the sponsors announced today.

The contest will be held in Madison Square Garden, Saturday, April 2. The east leads in the series, two to one.

Ten men will be picked for each team. The stars will report to their coaches in New York, March 28, for a week of practice.

Selection of Rupp and Peterson marked the first time the sponsors have gone to the South and Rocky Mountain areas for the teams' coaches.

The East has been coached by Joe Lapchick, then of St. John's (Brooklyn), Nat Holman of CCNY, and Ben. Carnevale of Navy. The west has been led by Harold Olsen, then of Ohio State, Hank Iba of Oklahoma A. & M. and Moose Krause of Notre Dame.

Kentucky, under Rupp, defeated Peterson's Utah five in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament in 1944.

Peterson evened the score in '47 when the UTES upset Kentucky in the finals of the N.I.T.

Potomac State Trims Virginia College Quint

Lough's Club Downs Shenandoah, 64-54

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 31—Potomac State's Catamounts spotted Shenandoah College of Dayton, Va., six points in the first quarter here tonight and then went on to win by a 64-54 score.

In playing one of their best games of the season, the Cats lost the services of Eaton, their first string center, who was hospitalized with a severe leg cut in the second quarter. Coach Dana "Horse" Lough said he expects Eaton to be out of the lineup for a week to 10 days. His leg was cut on a metal knee brace worn by a Shenandoah player and stitches were required to close the wound.

Potomac State moved to a 14-14 tie at the end of the first quarter but rolled to a 16-point lead at one time in the second quarter before Shenandoah got back in the ball game. The Cats had things pretty much their own way in the last half of the non-conference tilt.

Simms, with 18 points, sparked the Cats and Hill and Spencer starred for Shenandoah.

Potomac State will meet Alderson-Broaddus in a West Virginia Conference tilt at Keyser Friday night and will play host to National College of Doylestown, Pa., Saturday night.

Midland Pinmen Take Six Straight Games

Midland won six games during the past week and now trails Bowl-Mor of Barton in the Bi-State Junior Bowling League by the margin of five games.

The Midland team swept three from Keyser at Midland. Bob Wilt led the winners with a 165-451 set while Elmer Wilson topped Keyser with 176-455. Then Midland scored a 3-0 win over Maple Lanes (Westernport). In this match J. Wilson was high man for Midland with a 189-504 set and Bob Wilson's 171-466 paced Maple Lanes.

Barton made it three in a row over Keyser. Roy Winters led the attack for Bowl-Mor with a 168-448 while Bob Dye was Keyser's best bet with 179-461. The standings:

	W.	L.
Bowl-Mor (Barton)	22	8
Midland	17	13
Keyser	11	16
Maple Lanes (Westernport)	7	20

Bearden Of Cleveland Honored By Writers

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31 (AP)—Gene Bearden, Cleveland Indians' pitching star who carries a platinum plate in his head and another in his leg as a result of war injuries, tonight was named "most courageous athlete of 1948" by the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association.

Bearden, world series hero and American League rookie of the year, was honored at the annual writers banquet along with his manager, Lou Boudreau, who was named the "outstanding athlete of the year."

Hank Greenberg, Cleveland vice president, received the award for Bearden in the absence of the pitcher.

Charley Bednarik, Penn football star, was honored as "lineman of the year.

Belloise Is Victor

BROOKLYN, Jan. 31 (AP)—Steve Belloise, 162, New York, stopped Henry Chemel, 163, Portland, Me., in 2:51 of the second round of their scheduled eight round fight at the Eastern Parkway Rink tonight.

Belloise contender for the middleweight crown, dumped Chemel twice for counts of nine in the first round before putting him away for keeps in the second.

Chisox Sign Scout

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (INS)—Fred Hunter, for 16 years a scout with the Bostan Red Sox, was signed in a similar capacity by the Chicago White Sox today and assigned to cover Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas.

Brown Is Retained As Cleveland Coach

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31—(INS)—Paul Brown put an end to countless rumors tonight by signing to remain as coach of the Cleveland Browns, All-America Football Conference champions, for at least seven years.

Reported ready to fill practically every major coaching vacancy in the land, Brown signed a five-year contract that will pick up where his present pact, which has two years to run, leaves off.

Mickey McBride, owner of the Browns, said Brown will continue to receive $25,000 yearly plus 15 per cent of the team's net receipts.

Modern All-Time Outfield

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 31 — Fred Corcoran, baseball and golf statistician, traveled from Boston to Los Angeles recently, stopping off at various stations.

"Enroute," Corcoran said, "I took a poll of ballplayers and fans about a new all-time outfield, to either follow or to supplant the old-time trio consisting of Cobb, Speaker and Ruth. You may think a lot of us are daffy, but I think we've polled and picked one just as good."

"If you've left out Joe Jackson," we answered, "here is the one you picked—Joe DiMaggio, Stan Musial and Ted Williams. It had to be."

"Those are the three that got almost a unanimous vote," Corcoran said. "Look them over. They are certainly just as good on defense. I think a little better. They have better arms. Their batting averages won't be far away. In addition, they'll drive in more runs. There isn't any rule that Cobb, Speaker and Ruth should be the all-time outfield forever, is there?"

We could think of no such rule.

"DiMaggio, Musial and Williams," Fred went on, "have more power than Cobb, Speaker and Ruth. Ruth stands alone. But Cobb and Speaker were never long-distance hitters.

"Taking the old-time three in its peak years, I still think DiMaggio, Williams and Musial would drive in more runs. All three are long distance hitters. All three are home-run hitters. Even with Babe Ruth to bank on, the modern group would hit more home runs than the old-time trio would ever hit.

"I know it sounds like a sacrilege," Corcoran continued, "but you'd be surprised to know how many smart baseball people would rather have DiMaggio, Williams and Musial on their team than Cobb, Speaker and Ruth when it came down to winning ball games—which is the main idea. At least the gap is very thin.

"Too many of us get sold to the past. We forget to remember that every record that can be timed or measured is far better today than it was yesterday. All old records are continually broken or smashed. If there were some machine that could measure baseball and football players, you'd find most of the top stars belonged to the last ten years."

Which could be true enough.

The Last Fifteen Years

I asked Corcoran and his cast how they would pick the all-star team of the last fifteen years—the way Connie Mack said they should be picked.

"We could give you a pretty tough all-star team," Fred said. "We would have Bill Dickey back of the bat. Dickey can hold his place with anyone, including Cochrane and Hartnett.

"Pitchers? No, we haven't any Johnsons or Mathewsons or Alexanders, maybe, but it wouldn't be so bad. How about Bob Feller—at his best—Hal Newhouser, Dizzy Dean (at his peak), Lefty Grove or Carl Hubbell.

"The infield—no great first basemen lately—no Sisler, Chase, Gehrig—maybe Hank Greenberg. Second base? No Collins, Lajoie, Frisch or Hornsby. How about Joe Gordon? Shortstop—Lou Boudreau, close to Hans Wagner. Third base—? Red Rolfe? Why not? George Kell may prove to be the best. Ken Keltner hasn't been too bad. "After all, Greenberg, Gordon, Boudreau and Rolfe or Kell wouldn't be too bad for the infield. Then add DiMaggio, Musial and Williams for the outfield."

This gives us the following all-star team for the last ten or twelve years:

Catcher—Dickey.
Pitchers—Feller, Newhouser, Dean, Grove and Hubbell.
First base—Greenberg.
Second base—Gordon.
Shortstop—Boudreau.
Third base—Rolfe or Kell.
Outfield — DiMaggio, Musial and Williams.

"This takes all these men in at their peak," Corcoran said. "A lot of us believe that Feller, Newhouser and Dean, in their best years, would be an even match for anybody. Dean in his two big years could have been an even bet against Johnson, Alexander or Mathewson. Carl Hubbell and Lefty Grove were as good as anybody. They were the two best left-handers."

This all-time infield doesn't quite match the pick of the past—Sisler, Gehrig, Chase, Collins, Lajoie, Hornsby, Frisch, Wagner and Traynor or Collins. But the catching, pitching and outfield match up better than you might think.

I doubt that an all-time team picked up to 1920 would have any advantage of an all-time team picked after 1925. For we could make use of Gehringer at second, rated by many as the peer of Collins, Lajoie or Hornsby for all-around value.

At least the time is about ripe to start discarding some of the old-timers who have been planted for eternity on an all-time team Eternity is a long time.

Widdoes Will Coach Ohio U. Grid Team

Carroll Widdoes

That was the announcement today of Brandon T. (Butch) Grover, assistant to the president of Ohio U., who declared only a few details remained to be worked out before the former Ohio State University head coach would take over the Bobcat reins.

Widdoes, who voluntarily stepped down from the Buckeye coaching job after highly successful seasons in 1944 and 1945, will succeed Harold Wise as Ohio U. grid chief. Wise resigned early this month.

Since giving up the head coaching job at Ohio State, Widdoes has served as assistant to Paul Bixler and Wesley Fesler at the same university. He came to Ohio State in 1941 as assistant to Paul Brown, when the latter succeeded the late Francis Schmidt.

Louis Scores KO, Oliver Injured

Ring Minus Padding Is Cause Of Mishap

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis knocked out Dixie Lee Oliver, veteran negro fighter from St. Petersburg, Fla., in the fourth round of their exhibition bout here tonight.

Oliver, who weighed 222 pounds, was out for more than 10 minutes and was carried from the ring in a stretcher. He was taken to a hospital for an examination.

Louis felled Oliver with a left hook to the chin one minute and 30 seconds after the last round started. There was no padding under the canvas and Oliver's head struck the floor when he fell.

Louis, who weighed in at 221, was obviously concerned over Oliver's condition and did not leave the ring until the St. Petersburg fighter had been carried away. He said it was only the second fighter he had really hurt in his boxing career.

An estimated 5,200 persons saw the bout.

Fourteen ounce gloves were used in the bout.

Purple Heart Wins

The women's shuffleboard team of the Military Order of Purple Heart defeated Cresap Tavern in two out of three games last night by the score of 77-72. Mrs. Juanita Loundy led the winners with 17 points and Mrs. W. Ware headed the losers with 15.

Central-Fort Hill, LaSalle-Berlin Games Are Scheduled Here Tonight

Piedmont At Romney, Beall Plays Ft. Ashby

Fort Hill's Sentinels will be angling for their sixth consecutive victory in the W. M. I. League when they play Central High School of Lonaconing tonight at 8 o'clock on the Fort Hill court.

The defending champions took the opener of the series at Lonaconing by the score of 37-23 and are expected to make it two in a row tonight.

LaSalle Host To Berlin

Central is tied with Bruce for third place in the circuit, each team having won two games and lost three.

LaSalle High's Explorers will be out to avenge a 54-30 setback they suffered in Berlin, Pa., early in the season when they face Berlin-Brothersvalley High School in a return game tonight at 8 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court. It will be the 16th start of the season for the Explorers who have won only four and lost eleven.

Jackets Seek Eighth

Moorefield High will attempt to make it eight out of nine in the Potomac Valley Conference when it tackles Mathias High in Moorefield tonight. The Yellow Jackets hold a 39-31 win over Mathias.

Davis High which has engaged in only three conference games to date will invade Circleville tonight to meet Coach Guy Propst's Indians. Coach Weider Pell's Tucker County Wildcats clawed Circleville earlier in the campaign by the score of 44-22. Davis' P. V. C. record is two and one.

In the third conference game of the night Piedmont High's Lions (1-2) will invade Romney to engage Dick McElwee's Vikings (2-3). It will be their first meeting of the season.

Fort Ashby At Beall

Frostburg State Teachers and Shenandoah College of Dayton, Va., meet in Frostburg tonight.

Dawson Of Beall Leads WMI Loop Foul Shooters

AHS Team Averages 50 Points Per Game

Bill Dawson of Beall High School topped the foul shooters with an average of .607 for 17 points in 28 tries and Eddie Landefeld of Allegany headed the individual point scorers with 70 markers, an average of 14 per game, during the first half of the season in the W.M.I. Basketball League.

Don Moran of Bruce High trailed Landefeld by scoring 67 points while Russell Devore of Bruce and John Alderton of Fort Hill were tied for third with 60 points each.

Six players had 25 chances or more at the foul line and Dawson's average was tops.

Allegany High's second place team averaged 50 points per game for the five first half contests and tied Fort Hill for the best defensive mark, each limiting the opposition to an average of 29.4 per game. Barton yielded the greatest number of points—237—and average of 47.4.

Bill Tilden Sought On Morals Charge

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 31 (AP)—A warrant for the arrest of William T .Tilden II, former world tennis champion, on a morals charge was issued today.

Lieut. Lynn Brackett, head of the juvenile division of the police department, said Tilden, 55, is accused of making improper advances to a 17-year-old boy last Friday.

A second complaint accuses Tilden of violating five years probation on a similar charge two years ago involving a 14-year-old boy in Beverly Hills.

The new complaint was issued by Superior Judge A. A. Scott of Juvenile Court who had sentenced Tilden to nine months in jail in 1947.

At that time Scott called Tilden a disappointment to thousands of youngsters and adults all over the world "who do not expect this kind of conduct from a world champion."

Brackett said an Inglewood youth told him Tilden picked him up on Wilshire Boulevard, drove to Santa Monica, but finally let him out of the car when the lad spurned the tennis players' overtures.

One of the conditions of Tilden's probation is that he shall not be in the company of a male or female juvenile unless the juvenile's parent or parents are present. The court also prescribed psychiatric consultations.

Penn State Will Play Nine Football Games

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP)—Penn State College today announced a nine-game football schedule for 1949 opening September 24, against Villanova College.

The schedule: Sept. 24, Villanova; Oct. 1, Army at West Point; 8, Boston College; 15, Nebraska; 22, Michigan State at East Lansing; 29, Syracuse; Nov. 5, West Virginia at Morgantown; 12, Temple at Philadelphia, and 19, Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

WVU To Play Texans

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 31 (AP)—Football teams of West Virginia University and Texas Mines will meet here November 12, it was announced today.

A return game will be played at El Paso, Texas, November 25, 1950, Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley announced.

The two teams first met New Year's Day in Sun Bowl play at El Paso this year, with the Mountaineers coming out on top 21-12.

Duquesne U. Halts Villanova, 65-37

PITSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP)—Duquesne broke the back of a Villanova bid for a basketball season without defeat by coasting to any easy 65 to 37 win tonight on The Gardens court.

Charley Cooper, the Dukes' center, supplied most of the spark for the Duquesne runaway. Cooper was high man with 18 points and he held Paul Arizin, the Wildcats' "super" jump man, to a meager nine points.

Villanova's loss left Hamlin University, of St. Paul, Minn., the nation's only unbeaten team.

Fight Results

Jimmie Getson, 137½, Lonaconing VFW, won 2-1 decision over Lee Stevens, 136, Diamond A. C.

Billy Wilson, 138¾, Lonaconin VFW, scored technical knockout over "Chuck" Henry, 134¾, Diamond A. C., in 1:40 of the first round. Referee Kelley stopped match after Henry had been floored second time.

Jimmie Foote, 116½, Lonaconing, VFW, scored technical knockout over Eddie Hamilton, 116, Diamond A. C., in 36 seconds of first round. Referee Kelley stopped match after Hamilton started reeling after a hard punch to the body.

Pat Thomas, 128¼, Merrick A. C., Washington, D. C., won 3-0 decision over Jim Folk, 132, Royale A. C., in five rounds.

"Doc" Watkins, 135, Zivic A. C., Pittsburgh, scored technical knockout over Paddy Bullock, 132 ¾, Merrick A. C., Washington, D. C., in 1:04 of the fourth round of scheduled five round bout. Referee Kelley stopped the match with Bullock in a bad way.

Carlton Shore, 144½, Diamond A. C., won 3-0 decision over Owen Lewis, 137 ½, Lonaconing VFW.

"Bunky" Frazier, 125¾, Merrick A. C., Washington, D. C., won 3-0 decision over Marty Mull, 128, Diamond A. C.

DeWitt Butler, 146, Merrick A. C., Washington, D. C., won 2-1 decision over Russell Bean, 146½, Diamond A. C.

New York Bill Would Outlaw Decision Bouts

Confusion Is Seen If Law Is Passed

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—A bill has been introduced in the New York legislature which would ban the giving of decisions in boxing matches in the state.

Whitney Martin

It is admitted that some of the decisions given hereabouts should have been banned, by law if necessary, but that is not the primary purpose of the bill. The sponsor thinks it would curb gambling on prize fights.

If such a bill became a law a title could not change hands in the state except by knockout. A cheese champion might be plastered all over the ring like a circus poster, but if he still was on his hind legs when the final gong sounded, he's still champion.

For years, when decisions were banned in most states over the country, sports writers of the local papers gave their own opinion of who won a fight, but out-of-town papers often got their idea of who won through wires from the manager.

Both Managers Claimed Wins

The manager who could sprint fastest to the telegraph office could register a victory for his man, and probably more than one old-time editor can remember receiving a wire from one pilot reading "we win easy," and a few minutes later getting a message from the rival manager to the effect that "we take every round."

The no-decision bouts made it tough for ring historians who, with no official verdict rendered, only could put down "ND" as the result of a fight unless it ended in a knockout or foul.

In Nat Fleischer's ring record book the record of Benny Leonard covers more than full page, but most of the bouts are tabbed "No Decision." It is acknowledged that Leonard, one of the greatest of champions, won most of those bouts, but you can't prove it by the record and as time goes by and witnesses to the encounters pass on that cold, bleak "ND" can mean almost anything.

A law banning decisions might curb attempts to bribe judges or referees, who are supposed to be stern, upright men in no need of such protection, but we don't see how it would stop betting on fights. It would just put the reporters who gave newspaper decisions on the spot.

They'll Bet On Anything

The men who bet on fights would bet on anything, and if they couldn't bet on the fights they would put down their wagers on the number of beans in a bottle or the number of apples in applesauce.

They'd find some way to bet on fights, though, agreeing to abide by newspaper decisions, or betting on the possibility of a knockdown or knockout.

We'll have to get our semi-private ring historian, Dumb Dan Morgan, to recount some of his experiences during the days of no-decision bouts. He was a sprightly lad, built for speed, and we imagine he was pretty fair at winning telegraph decisions for his boys.

Jimmy Johnston was another of the racehorse type, and, like Morgan, had a gift for words. Returning from an out-of-town no-decision fight we can imagine them giving lurid accounts of the battle, not giving their boys any the worst of it, and with no official verdict to refute them you just had to take their word for what happened.

Would Add Confusion

Anyway, we just can't see a return to the no-decision contests serving much of a purpose except to confuse, and there is enough confusion in the fight business already.

Butler Beats Bean, "Bunky" Frazier Wins

Washington, 'Coney Boxers Annex Three Bouts In Good Show

Pat Thomas, Golden Gloves featherweight champion of Washington, D. C., outpunched and outboxed Jim Folk, Meyersdale, Pa., battler representing the Royale A. C., of this city, to romp off with an unanimous decision in the five-round feature match of the Diamond Athletic Club's amateur fistic carnival last night at the State Armory.

A gathering of 505 cash customers saw the clever Merrick A. C., scrapper, who was making his second appearance here in a year, belt out a well earned decision in a match that topped a highly pleasing card of eight contests offered by Matchmaker Jim Klosterman.

With the exception of the second round when Folk shaded his capital city opponent and opened a cut near the latter's eve, it was Thomas all the way. Pat bombarded Folk with left hooks to the body and jaw and when he wasn't relying on his southpaw to pile up points he was jarring the Royale A. C. battler to his heels with solid smashes to the head. On several occasions the fighters stood in mid-ring or in a corner and slugged it out toe-to-toe to the delight of the paying patrons.

Watkins Wins Third Here

In the semi-final, another bout set for five heats, "Doc" Watkins, classy Pittsburgh lightweight, seconded by Fritzie Zivic, former world's champion, scored a TKO over Paddy Bullock, Washington negro, in 1:04 of the fourth stanza. It was Watkins' third straight victory in a local ring. He put Bullock down for eight in the second and was hitting the colored lad with everything but the water bucket when Referee Jim Kelley stopped the slaughter in the 4th.

"Bunky" Frazier, Washington's rugged little featherweight, belted Marty Mull, Diamond A. C. 128-pounder from pillar to post for three rounds to walk off with a 3-0 decision in the 7th match on the program. Mull put up a courageous stand but he was simply outclassed by the Merrick A. C. "buzz saw." It was "Bunky's" second win here in three starts.

Butler Outslugs Bean

The Washington boxers, seconded by "Biff" Jones, professional lightweight boxing star of the capital city, made it three out of four for the evening when DeWitt Butler, hard-hitting negro welter, outslugged Russell Bean in a hair-raising battle. There was never a dull moment in this scrap and Bean was hot so hard and often in the final round many were of the opinion he wouldn't last. In three previous matches here Bean was on the winning end via TKO's. Butler won a split decision but there was little doubt about who was the victor.

Boxers representing the Lonaconing Veterans of Foreign Wars won three of the four preliminaries in which novices participated. In the curtain-raiser Jimmie Getson gained a 2-1 nod over Lee Stevens. Then Billy Wilson of 'Coney, floored "Chuck" Henry twice and was awarded a TKO in 1:40 of the first round. Jimmie Foote made it three in a row for Coach Joe McGreevy's team when he TKO'd Eddie Hamilton in 36 seconds, the referee halting the affair with Hamilton in a wobbly condition after he received a hard wallop to the mid-section.

Carlton Shore of the DAC finally halted the 'Coney winning streak when he decisioned Owen Lewis. It looked like a toss-up at the finish but Shore landed a 3-0 verdict.

Jim Kelley refereed all of the matches with Gilbert Becker and Jack Rorick as the judges, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Announcement was made that St. Mary's Boys' Club will hold the next amateur show at the armory on Monday, February 14.

Vince Foster Wins Over Phil Burton

OMAHA, Jan. 31 (INS)—Vince Foster, Omaha welterweight, outboxed Phil Burton of New York City in their ten-round main go tonight at Omaha's Municipal Auditorium.

The tough New Yorkers kept his record of never being kayoed in 57 bouts. He took Foster's heaviest artillery and hurt the Omaha slugger at times, but had to hold on frequently to weather the storm of rights and lefts delivered by Foster and win the decision.

Burton slipped to the canvas in the third round but there was no count.

Foster weighed 147 and Burton 143½.

Blues Set Record

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 31—Wheeling's Blues, leaders of the All-American Pro Basketball League, hung up a new record tonight by defeating the Washington, Pa., Jewels, 106-71. It was Wheeling's 12th win in 18 starts.

Moore Scores K.O.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 31 (AP)—After pounding Bob Satterfield to the canvas three times in the second round, Archie Moore of St. Louis knocked out his Chicago opponent in 25 seconds of the third round tonight before 4,200 fans at Sports Arena.

Moore, weighing 167, spotted Satterfield eight pounds. He used a hard overhand right to score the three second-round knockdowns, two of them for nine counts. The end of the round came on the count of five in the third flooring.

Mehrtens Rides Winners In Two Hialeah Events

Daiquari Captures Sunny South Purse

By FRED HAYDEN

HIALEAH, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—George P. (Maje) Odam, astute young New Yark horseman, and Jockey Warren Mehrtens batted 1,000 per cent on the card here today.

They combined to score a consecutive double, their second success coming in the feathered Sunny South Purse when Daiquari, which Odom saddled for Mrs. Aksel Wichfield, breezed home a three lenths winner. In the previous event, Odom had sent out his own filly, Cheesecloth, which also rang up an early triumph with Mehrtens up. These were the only two races on the washday program in which Odom and Mehrtens participated.

Daiquari which cost Mrs. Wichfeld $28,000 as a yearling at the 1947 sales, won the six furling Sunny South at the direct expense of R. A. Firestone's Long Shot, Sand Run. Four horses wound up heads apart behind Daiquari. Just behind Sand Run came Gustave Ring's Galloping Gus to finish third, while Air Attack and Fugitive followed.

The well backed Mr. Jay faded from first to seventh in the field of eight three-year-olds. An estimated 14,300 fans saw Daiquari score at odds of exactly 2 to 1.

The crowd had a hard time deciding on a favorite in the feature. The winner and Mr. Jay closed co-choices, while Galloping Gus went postward at 6 to 5.

Daiquari's time of 1:11 two-fifths was three-fifths of a second slower than that turned in by stablemate Cheesecloth—which was making her first start since November—but both won without being fully extended.

Golf Leaders Named

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Southpaw Percy Lucas will captain the British amateur golfers in the Walker Cup matches at the Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., on Aug 19 and 20.

Britain's best lefthanded player, Lucas was given the assignment today by the selection committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews.

The U. S. Golf Association picked the veteran Francis Ouimet of Boston, to captain the American team at its annual meeting in New York City last Saturday.

Double Dose

Jet Hot Shot

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Hal Tidrick of the Indianapolis Jets of the Basketball Association of America is one of the top foul shooters in the game. Last year, when the Jets were in the National League, Tidrick led the circuit with 198 shots out of 243 tries for a .778 percentage.

Sometimes we feel like the Belle of the Town

Remember the belle of the town in the old melodramas? We always envied her. Her life, we thought, was pure happiness—one joyous moment after another.

Now we know better. She, too, had her troubles.

* * * *

You see, for some time now, we've felt like a belle ourselves.

We handle the most wanted car in the world—Chevrolet. Over the past 18 years Chevrolet has sold more cars and trucks than any other manufacturer.

True to the obligation imposed by such popularity, Chevrolet has delivered half a million more cars and trucks, since the war, than any other manufacturer. Chevrolet was first to deliver a million cars and trucks in a post-war year.

Still more folks want Chevrolets. So we've been wooed as ardently as the belle of any melodrama.

Far be it from us to say there is not a certain satisfaction about having a surplus of proposals. On the other hand, we have a new appreciation of the problem the belle faced when she had to put off some of her suitors. It is definitely not a pleasant task.

We wish no one were ever disappointed in his desire for a Chevrolet.

When disappointments do occur, even though the fault is not ours, our concern over them is much more real than that of the belle of the melodramas over the disappointment of her suitors.

* * * *

Nevertheless, we are proud of Chevrolet's record—proud because it is also our record. We support Chevrolet 100% in its established policy of delivering to the public as many cars as possible . . . at the lowest possible price.

WE ARE PROUD OF OUR CHEVROLET SUPER SERVICE SHOP, TOO

Mehrtens Rides Winners In Two Hialeah Events

By FRED HAYDEN

HIALEAH, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—George P. (Maje) Odam, astute young New Yark horseman, and Jockey Warren Mehrtens batted 1,000 per cent on the card here today.

They combined to score a consecutive double, their second success coming in the feathered Sunny South Purse when Daiquari, which Odom saddled for Mrs. Aksel Wichfield, breezed home a three lenths winner. In the previous event, Odom had sent out his own filly, Cheesecloth, which also rang up an early triumph with Mehrtens up. These were the only two races on the washday program in which Odom and Mehrtens participated.

Daiquari which cost Mrs. Wichfeld $28,000 as a yearling at the 1947 sales, won the six furling Sunny South at the direct expense of R. A. Firestone's Long Shot, Sand Run. Four horses wound up heads apart behind Daiquari. Just behind Sand Run came Gustave Ring's Galloping Gus to finish third, while Air Attack and Fugitive followed.

The well backed Mr. Jay faded from first to seventh in the field of eight three-year-olds. An estimated 14,300 fans saw Daiquari score at odds of exactly 2 to 1.

The crowd had a hard time deciding on a favorite in the feature. The winner and Mr. Jay closed co-choices, while Galloping Gus went postward at 6 to 5.

Daiquari's time of 1:11 two-fifths was three-fifths of a second slower than that turned in by stablemate Cheesecloth—which was making her first start since November—but both won without being fully extended.

Szafaryn Joins Pros

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Len Szafaryn, North Carolina tackle, signed a contract today to play pro football with the Washington Redskins.

Szafaryn, a standout tackle for the past two years, is 21 years old, is 6 feet 2, and weighs 215 pounds. His home is in Ambridge, Pa.

Golf Leaders Named

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Southpaw Percy Lucas will captain the British amateur golfers in the Walker Cup matches at the Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., on Aug 19 and 20.

Britain's best lefthanded player, Lucas was given the assignment today by the selection committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews.

The U. S. Golf Association picked the veteran Francis Ouimet of Boston, to captain the American team at its annual meeting in New York City last Saturday.

Double Dose

Jet Hot Shot

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Hal Tidrick of the Indianapolis Jets of the Basketball Association of America is one of the top foul shooters in the game. Last year, when the Jets were in the National League, Tidrick led the circuit with 198 shots out of 243 tries for a .778 percentage.

Sometimes we feel like the Belle of the Town
Remember the belle of the town in the old melodramas? We always envied her. Her life, we thought, was pure happiness—one joyous moment after another.
Now we know better. She, too, had her troubles.
* * * *
You see, for some time now, we've felt like a belle ourselves.
We handle the most wanted car in the world—Chevrolet. Over the past 18 years Chevrolet has sold more cars and trucks than any other manufacturer.
True to the obligation imposed by such popularity, Chevrolet has delivered half a million more cars and trucks, since the war, than any other manufacturer. Chevrolet was first to deliver a million cars and trucks in a post-war year.
Still more folks want Chevrolets. So we've been wooed as ardently as the belle of any melodrama.
Far be it from us to say there is not a certain satisfaction about having a surplus of proposals. On the other hand, we have a new appreciation of the problem the belle faced when she had to put off some of her suitors. It is definitely not a pleasant task.
We wish no one were ever disappointed in his desire for a Chevrolet.
When disappointments do occur, even though the fault is not ours, our concern over them is much more real than that of the belle of the melodramas over the disappointment of her suitors.
* * * *
Nevertheless, we are proud of Chevrolet's record—proud because it is also our record. We support Chevrolet 100% in its established policy of delivering to the public as many cars as possible . . . at the lowest possible price.
WE ARE PROUD OF OUR CHEVROLET SUPER SERVICE SHOP, TOO
Drive in . . . you'll be delighted with our Chevrolet style service!

Mr. And Mrs. Ace Return To Air On CBS At New Time

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—The Aces, that would be Mr. and Jane, are due back on the air of CBS Tuesday night. Thus will have a new night, also a new time, 10:30 for their previous series ran Fridays at 8:30. They moved out there when the sponsor decided to change the program to My Favorite Husband.

The Aces have been on a vacation in the interim between leaving and coming back.

A new item for MBS—another one—will be the Georgia Jamboree at 3 p. m., to be heard also Wednesdays and Thursdays. It comes from Atlanta and goes in for the Dixie Barn Dance.

Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press Science editor, is to discuss progress in medicine for the CBS five-day series, You and Your Doctor, at 6:15.

America's Town Meeting of ABC at 8:30 is debating about "How Can We Make a Defense Pact With Western Europe?" On the panel are to be Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tenn., R.W.G. Mackay of the British parliament, Sen. B. B. Hickenlooper of Iowa and Commentator Quincy Howe.

The Detroit Symphony of ABC at 9:45 for 45 minutes is to display Brahms fourth symphony.

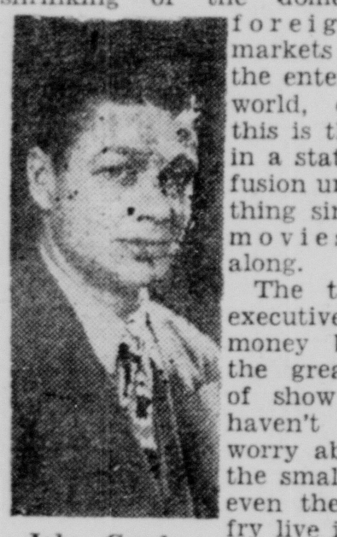
RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Shadow and Substance



John Crosby

The C.B.S. raids on other networks, the advent of television, the shrinking of the domestic and foreign movie markets has put the entertainment world, of which this is the center, in a state of confusion unlike anything since sound movies came along.

The top level executives, the big money boys and the great names of show business haven't much to worry about. But the small fry and even the medium fry live in a state of constant uncertainty. Actors and studio employees who have made a living out of pictures for ten or twenty years are quitting the business in droves for more substantial though less glamorous enterprise.

Actors who earned $1,000 a week not so long ago are selling real estate or insurance. If you ask for a car demonstration in Los Angeles, you may find the car salesman to be a remarkably handsome young man whose vaguely familiar features you suddenly recall seeing in "B" pictures during the war years. Some of these good-looking young men have turned into extremely persuasive salesmen; they are earning as much, sometimes more than they did in pictures; still, they yearn for the excitement of pictures.

For every actor who has deserted or been dropped by pictures there are several score stenographers, secretaries, publicity men, electricians and the hordes of other employees who are now doing something besides making pictures. Few of them have trouble finding work but it's not the sort of work or the sort of pay they are accustomed to.

Radio actors and actresses are obsessed with the fear that the day of $3,500 to $25,000 a week salaries are gone forever, that the technical expense of television is too great to permit high salaries. It is perhaps natural that this idea should take root. Television salaries here are fantastically low. You can earn more driving a taxi. Benay Venuta, for example, was about to start a television show when "Variety" printed her prospective salary. Twenty-five dollars a week. Miss Venuta promptly withdrew. Another popular singer whose last radio salary was $3,500 a week was offered a television show five times a week. Salary: $100. She may take it. Stagehands for one video show here are recruited from the Pasadene Playhouse student group. Salary: zero.

These salary fears, according to the more foresighted members of the industry, are groundless. Sidney Strotz, vice-president in charge of west coast operation for N.B.C., predicts that television salaries will eventually match or exceed those of radio. Lou Wasserman, president of the Music Corporation of America, points out that television performers in New York are already being paid more per listener than radio performers. A guest shot on the "Theater Guild on the Air" television show may bring $1,000 as compared with $2,500 for a guest shot on the Guild's radio show. The radio show has perhaps twenty times as great an audience as the TV show.

Entertainers here are both heartened and dumbfounded at the news that the Ford Theater television budget is $17,500, a figure that compares quite respectably with some of the biggest shows in radio.

There is one specter that haunts even the deeper thinkers in the business. Right now radio is paying television's bills and, at least temporarily, radio has the cash to do it. But video is increasingly cutting into radio's audience and it won't be much longer before the advertisers ask for a reduction in time rates. There may be a period when radio can no longer afford the vast expenses of television and television may not yet be able to stand on its own feet.

City Will Be Site Of Music Festival

One of three scheduled Maryland Federation of Music Clubs music festivals will be held in Cumberland, according to Naomi Margaret Thomas, Baltimore, junior state councillor and festival chairman.

The Cumberland festival will be held February 26 with Mrs. Richard Trevaskis as chairman. Others will be held in Hagerstown, March 3, Mrs. J. Alvey Long, chairman, and in Baltimore, March 3, with Mrs. G. Franklin Onion in charge. The Baltimore fete is to be held in the servatory of music.

In these events, contestants up to 18 years of age will receive a rating for their musical ability. Those obtaining a rate of "superior," will receive a national certificate of merit.

Judges will be Miss Dorothea Ortman, piano; Mrs. Caroline M. Kuper, voice; Joseph Spahn, instruments. Mrs. Robert E. Clapp, Frederick, is president of the Maryland Federation.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Mr. And Mrs. Ace Return To Air On CBS At New Time

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—The Aces, that would be Mr. and Jane, are due back on the air of CBS Tuesday night. Thus will have a new night, also a new time, 10:30 for their previous series ran Fridays at 8:30. They moved out there when the sponsor decided to change the program to My Favorite Husband.

The Aces have been on a vacation in the interim between leaving and coming back.

A new item for MBS—another one—will be the Georgia Jamboree at 3 p. m., to be heard also Wednesdays and Thursdays. It comes from Atlanta and goes in for the Dixie Barn Dance.

Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press Science editor, is to discuss progress in medicine for the CBS five-day series, You and Your Doctor, at 6:15.

America's Town Meeting of ABC at 8:30 is debating about "How Can We Make a Defense Pact With Western Europe?" On the panel are to be Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tenn., R.W.G. Mackay of the British parliament, Sen. B. B. Hickenlooper of Iowa and Commentator Quincy Howe.

The Detroit Symphony of ABC at 9:45 for 45 minutes is to display Brahms fourth symphony.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Shadow and Substance

John Crosby

The C.B.S. raids on other networks, the advent of television, the shrinking of the domestic and foreign movie markets has put the entertainment world, of which this is the center, in a state of confusion unlike anything since sound movies came along.

The top level executives, the big money boys and the great names of show business haven't much to worry about. But the small fry and even the medium fry live in a state of constant uncertainty. Actors and studio employees who have made a living out of pictures for ten or twenty years are quitting the business in droves for more substantial though less glamorous enterprise.

Actors who earned $1,000 a week not so long ago are selling real estate or insurance. If you ask for a car demonstration in Los Angeles, you may find the car salesman to be a remarkably handsome young man whose vaguely familiar features you suddenly recall seeing in "B" pictures during the war years. Some of these good-looking young men have turned into extremely persuasive salesmen; they are earning as much, sometimes more than they did in pictures; still, they yearn for the excitement of pictures.

For every actor who has deserted or been dropped by pictures there are several score stenographers, secretaries, publicity men, electricians and the hordes of other employees who are now doing something besides making pictures. Few of them have trouble finding work but it's not the sort of work or the sort of pay they are accustomed to.

Radio actors and actresses are obsessed with the fear that the day of $3,500 to $25,000 a week salaries are gone forever, that the technical expense of television is too great to permit high salaries. It is perhaps natural that this idea should take root. Television salaries here are fantastically low. You can earn more driving a taxi. Benay Venuta, for example, was about to start a television show when "Variety" printed her prospective salary. Twenty-five dollars a week. Miss Venuta promptly withdrew. Another popular singer whose last radio salary was $3,500 a week was offered a television show five times a week. Salary: $100. She may take it. Stagehands for one video show here are recruited from the Pasadene Playhouse student group. Salary: zero.

These salary fears, according to the more foresighted members of the industry, are groundless. Sidney Strotz, vice-president in charge of west coast operation for N.B.C., predicts that television salaries will eventually match or exceed those of radio. Lou Wasserman, president of the Music Corporation of America, points out that television performers in New York are already being paid more per listener than radio performers. A guest shot on the "Theater Guild on the Air" television show may bring $1,000 as compared with $2,500 for a guest shot on the Guild's radio show. The radio show has perhaps twenty times as great an audience as the TV show.

Entertainers here are both heartened and dumbfounded at the news that the Ford Theater television budget is $17,500, a figure that compares quite respectably with some of the biggest shows in radio.

There is one specter that haunts even the deeper thinkers in the business. Right now radio is paying television's bills and, at least temporarily, radio has the cash to do it. But video is increasingly cutting into radio's audience and it won't be much longer before the advertisers ask for a reduction in time rates. There may be a period when radio can no longer afford the vast expenses of television and television may not yet be able to stand on its own feet.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

B O J F R U W R P F L T R
R W H R P W T R K L J
E H J B Y J W J L O R W F
E J J K—V J V R.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Father and Mother—Richard Scarlett, who passed away Jan. 30, 1936; and Clara Scarlett, who passed away Feb. 2, 1938.

Time speeds on, just 13 years today,
Since our dear Father passed away,
And in 2 years we lost another—
Our dearest friend; Our loving Mother.
Now side by side at rest they sleep
Safely in our Savior's keep.
We miss them both, but God knows best,
And called them home to eternal rest.

Sadly missed by
THE CHILDREN

In loving memory of our wife and Mother, Mrs. Helen C. Berryman, who died February 1, 1945.

As one fares forth for just a while,
No thought of staying in the mind,
So fared you forth, and left a smile
Of hope and confidence behind.
You have not died; there is no Death!
Your soul took flight in that last breath,
But well we know who closed your eyes,
We'll meet again in Paradise.

Sadly missed by her Husband and Children.

In loving memory of Mrs. Alice Turley Beal, daughter of Harry Turley, who died January 31, 1947.

She hath done her bidding here,
Angels dear!
Bear her perfect soul above,
Seraph of the skies, sweet love!
Good she was, and fair in youth,
And her mind was seen to soar,
And her heart was wed to truth;
Take her, then, forevermore.

Sadly missed by her
Family, Father, Sisters and Brothers.

TERRITORY OPEN

If you can sell, Fyr-Fyter offers you a rare opportunity to establish yourself in a permanent and profitable business. You will handle the complete Fyr-Fyter line of fire extinguishers, ranging in size from one quart to 40 gallons capacity. Every extinguisher is fully approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories and virtually all other safety organizations.

Our products are sold direct to factories, public institutions, schools, hotels, theatres, taverns, lumber companies, grain mills, homes, farms, transportation concerns and in fact all classes of prospects. We do not sell thru stores and jobbers. We extend liberal credit terms to customers.

The Fyr-Fyter Company is looking for a top grade man. This is not a part time job or a sideline job. This is a man-sized job which will produce a man-sized income year after year if you work. Fully assigned territory is yours. An incentive plan offers an opportunity to make top bracket profits. Repeat business will soon account for 60 to 70% of your income. Fyr-Fyter has been established 33 years and we have men who have been with us over 20 years.

Write the Fyr-Fyter Co., Dept. T-10, Dayton 1, Ohio, giving sufficient information about yourself to eleminate unnecessary correspondence.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Father and Mother—Richard Scarlett, who passed away Jan. 30, 1936; and Clara Scarlett, who passed away Feb. 2, 1938.

Time speeds on, just 13 years today,
Since our dear Father passed away,
And in 2 years we lost another—
Our dearest friend; Our loving Mother.
Now side by side at rest they sleep
Safely in our Savior's keep.
We miss them both, but God knows best,
And called them home to eternal rest.
Sadly missed by
THE CHILDREN

In loving memory of our wife and Mother, Mrs. Helen C. Berryman, who died February 1, 1945.

As one fares forth for just a while,
No thought of staying in the mind,
So fared you forth, and left a smile
Of hope and confidence behind.
You have not died; there is no Death!
Your soul took flight in that last breath,
But well we know who closed your eyes,
We'll meet again in Paradise.
Sadly missed by her
Husband and Children.

In loving memory of Mrs. Alice Turley Beal, daughter of Harry Turley, who died January 31, 1947.

She hath done her bidding here,
Angels dear!
Bear her perfect soul above,
Seraph of the skies, sweet love!
Good she was, and fair in youth,
And her mind was seen to soar,
And her heart was wed to truth;
Take her, then, forevermore.
Sadly missed by her
Family, Father, Sisters and Brothers.

VALUABLE SALES
TERRITORY OPEN
If you can sell, Fyr-Fyter offers you a rare opportunity to establish yourself in a permanent and profitable business. You will handle the complete Fyr-Fyter line of fire extinguishers, ranging in size from one quart to 40 gallons capacity. Every extinguisher is fully approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories and virtually all other safety organizations.

Our products are sold direct to factories, public institutions, schools, hotels, theatres, taverns, lumber companies, grain mills, homes, farms, transportation concerns and in fact all classes of prospects. We do not sell thru stores and jobbers. We extend liberal credit terms to customers.

The Fyr-Fyter Company is looking for a top grade man. This is not a part time job or a sideline job. This is a man-sized job which will produce a man-sized income year after year if you work. Fully assigned territory is yours. An incentive plan offers an opportunity to make top bracket profits. Repeat business will soon account for 60 to 70% of your income. Fyr-Fyter has been established 33 years and we have men who have been with us over 20 years.

Write the Fyr-Fyter Co., Dept. T-10, Dayton 1, Ohio, giving sufficient information about yourself to eleminate unnecessary correspondence.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Maurice Stern, the artist, said that his most embarrassing moment came when he tapped a lady on the shoulder at an exhibit and remarked, "You look a great deal like my old pupil, Dorothy Yardley. Are you any relation?" The lady regarded him coldly and said, "Mr. Sterne, I am Dorothy Yardley."

Harpo Marx pointed out that Sterne's embarrassment was nothing like his, the night he lugged his harp 12 miles to a party—and never was asked to play!

Gene Fowler once conducted a contest for "embarrassing moments" on a tabloid newspaper, offering a dollar each for letters printed. One contestant wrote, "I came home early last night and found my best friend kissing my wife. I was terribly embarrassed. Please send me two dollars, as my wife also was embarrassed."

Fowler sent a check for three dollars. "I have an idea," he wrote, "that your best friend was embarrassed too."

mines in Allegany and Garrett counties for safety violations will be hampered by the heavy snowfall that hit the region today.

He explained that many of the workings are accessible only by secondary dirt roads which are nearly impassible.

The investigation of the mines is being undertaken by the UMW under orders of John T. Jones, Cumberland, District 16 president. He has declared that all mines where hazards exist will be closed to union workers. The violations will be reported to Jones upon the completion of the examination.

The probe of area pits was ordered by Jones after reading a report of Joseph D. Buscher, assistant Maryland attorney general, on the Nethken Mine disaster at Kitzmiller in November when five men lost their lives. The attorney general's office cleared the State Bureau of Mines of any responsibility for the accident.

Playground Issue To Be Prepared

By a vote of 3 to 2 yesterday the Mayor and Council voted to have the city attorney prepare a bond issue for sale as an initial step in a $150,000 playground program.

The motion was made by Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz who said it is necessary to get the program started before spring.

Opposing the motion were Mayor Thomas S. Post and Commissioner William J. Edwards.

Edwards explained last night that he believes specific information is needed as to how the money is to be spent. He is not opposed to the playground bond issue as such, he added. Mayor Post declined comment.

The bond issue was approved over a year ago by a referendum vote of two to one. Last December a Playground Commission, appointed by the Mayor and Council to make recommendations for the expenditure of the money, gave a report in which more than $80,000 was proposed for expansion and improvement of the sites.

Commissioner Edgar Reynolds moved cautiously in his affirmative vote and called the council's attention to a proposed $250,000 street bond issue which, he said, would be broached at next week's meeting.

"The city's dirt streets are getting beyond repair," Reynolds said.

It is recalled that the street bond issue has been a primary project of Commissioner Reynolds and one which, he said, he is planning to push.

The Mayor and Council approved the payroll for the second period of January.

Water consumption was reported at 85,910,000 gallons as compared to 86,520,000 gallons last year. The daily average was 12,258,000 gallons. The water level at Lake Gordon is 10 inches above the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon one foot, eight inches below the crest.

A check was ordered drawn for the Cumberland Contracting Company in the amount of $8,161.20 for the eighth estimate for work performed on the installation of the auxiliary water line from Lake Gordon.

It takes about 2,850 tons of coal to make a ton of coke. Coals suitable for making coke are located mostly in Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Alabama.

Last Area Inductees Leave For Training

The last area inductees until further notice left Cumberland yesterday for Fort Jackson, S. C., First Lt. George J. Gocke, commanding officer of the local recruiting office, announced.

They are Joseph E. Dorsey, Mt. Savage, and George W. Miers, Keyser, W. Va., from Frostburg Board 30, and William Uphold, Deer Park, from Oakland Board 47.

All were examined during the last part of December before pre-induction examinations were closed by the Army.

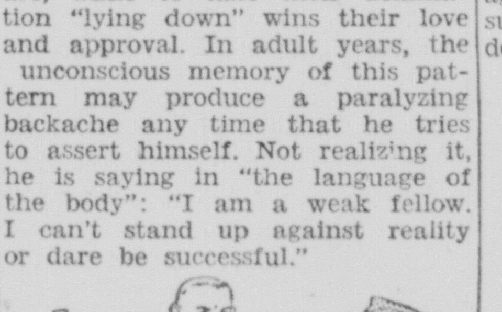
MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

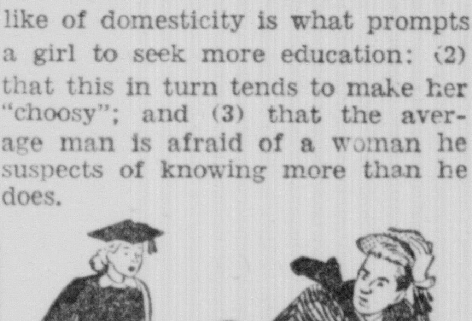
May a "weak back" mean a "spineless character"?

Answer: Yes, quite literally, asserts Dr. James Clark Moloney in the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases. A child who has domineering parents may get the impression that to "stand up for himself" will incur their displeasure, while to take their domination "lying down" wins their love and approval. In adult years, the unconscious memory of this pattern may produce a paralyzing backache any time that he tries to assert himself. Not realizing it, he is saying in "the language of the body": "I am a weak fellow. I can't stand up against reality or dare be successful."



Do educated Germans hate the Nazis?

Answer: No, says Dr. Edmund de S. Brunner in the Teachers College Record. Statistics based on the latest census indicate that—at least after 25—the more education a girl has, the less likely she will be to marry and the more likely to seek a divorce if her marriage is a failure. Three possible explanations are: (1) that dislike of domesticity is what prompts a girl to seek more education: (2) that this in turn tends to make her "choosy"; and (3) that the average man is afraid of a woman he suspects of knowing more than he does.



Does college improve a girl's marriage chances?

Answer: On the whole, yes, reports Dr. Clifford Kirkpatrick of the University of Minnesota in the American Journal of Sociology. Replies to a questionnaire by 91 Germans of the better educated classes indicate that they are inclined to blame the Nazis rather than the Allies for their sufferings during air raids, though condemning the bombing of civilians under any circumstances. They were apt to try to dodge responsibility for the atrocities of the Hitler regime but showed evidences of a guilty conscience on the subject.

Prices Lower In Quietest Market In Four Months

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—In one of the quietest stock markets in nearly four months, prices slipped lower today despite the efforts of some leading issues to push ahead.

Higher were General Motors 60¾, Chrysler 55, Goodyear 44¼, J. I. Case 36¾, Schenley 27¾, Anaconda 33⅞, and Philip Morris 40¾.

Lower were U. S. Steel 77⅜, Youngstown Sheet & Tube 71¼, Goodrich 60, Montgomery Ward 53⅜, Oliver Corp. 28, Curtiss-Wright 8⅞, Kennecott 51⅛, General Electric 38¼, Owens Illinois 54¾, U. S. Gypsum 101¼, Santa Fe 100¼, Illinois Central 28, Standard Oil (NJ) 70⅛, Mission Corp 47½, and Johns Manville 38.

With the volume of trading at 610,000 shares, it was the slowest day since October 11 when 510,000 shares were traded.

The market was narrow with only 899 individual issues traded, the lowest since October 23 when 886 were on the quotation tape. Of the total, 369 declined and 293 advanced on the day.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks also told the story of the inactivity of prices by declining only .1 of a point to 65. The industrial component lost .2, rails were down .1, and utilities were unchanged.

The bond market closed out January by refusing to budget from the steady price decline in effect all last week.

Turnover totalled $2,633,000, lowest for a full session since January 13 when sales were $2,560,000.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Maurice Stern, the artist, said that his most embarrassing moment came when he tapped a lady on the shoulder at an exhibit and remarked, "You look a great deal like my old pupil, Dorothy Yardley. Are you any relation?" The lady regarded him coldly and said, "Mr. Sterne, I am Dorothy Yardley."

Harpo Marx pointed out that Sterne's embarrassment was nothing like his, the night he lugged his harp 12 miles to a party—and never was asked to play!

Gene Fowler once conducted a contest for "embarrassing moments" on a tabloid newspaper, offering a dollar each for letters printed. One contestant wrote, "I came home early last night and found my best friend kissing my wife. I was terribly embarrassed. Please send me two dollars, as my wife also was embarrassed."

Fowler sent a check for three dollars. "I have an idea," he wrote, "that your best friend was embarrassed too."

mines in Allegany and Garrett counties for safety violations will be hampered by the heavy snowfall that hit the region today.

He explained that many of the workings are accessible only by secondary dirt roads which are nearly impassible.

The investigation of the mines is being undertaken by the UMW under orders of John T. Jones, Cumberland, District 16 president. He has declared that all mines where hazards exist will be closed to union workers. The violations will be reported to Jones upon the completion of the examination.

The probe of area pits was ordered by Jones after reading a report of Joseph D. Buscher, assistant Maryland attorney general, on the Nethken Mine disaster at Kitzmiller in November when five men lost their lives. The attorney general's office cleared the State Bureau of Mines of any responsibility for the accident.

Playground Issue To Be Prepared

By a vote of 3 to 2 yesterday the Mayor and Council voted to have the city attorney prepare a bond issue for sale as an initial step in a $150,000 playground program.

The motion was made by Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz who said it is necessary to get the program started before spring.

Opposing the motion were Mayor Thomas S. Post and Commissioner William J. Edwards.

Edwards explained last night that he believes specific information is needed as to how the money is to be spent. He is not opposed to the playground bond issue as such, he added. Mayor Post declined comment.

The bond issue was approved over a year ago by a referendum vote of two to one. Last December a Playground Commission, appointed by the Mayor and Council to make recommendations for the expenditure of the money, gave a report in which more than $80,000 was proposed for expansion and improvement of the sites.

Commissioner Edgar Reynolds moved cautiously in his affirmative vote and called the council's attention to a proposed $250,000 street bond issue which, he said, would be broached at next week's meeting.

"The city's dirt streets are getting beyond repair," Reynolds said.

It is recalled that the street bond issue has been a primary project of Commissioner Reynolds and one which, he said, he is planning to push.

The Mayor and Council approved the payroll for the second period of January.

Water consumption was reported at 85,910,000 gallons as compared to 86,520,000 gallons last year. The daily average was 12,258,000 gallons. The water level at Lake Gordon is 10 inches above the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon one foot, eight inches below the crest.

A check was ordered drawn for the Cumberland Contracting Company in the amount of $8,161.20 for the eighth estimate for work performed on the installation of the auxiliary water line from Lake Gordon.

It takes about 2,850 tons of coal to make a ton of coke. Coals suitable for making coke are located mostly in Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Alabama.

Last Area Inductees Leave For Training

The last area inductees until further notice left Cumberland yesterday for Fort Jackson, S. C., First Lt. George J. Gocke, commanding officer of the local recruiting office, announced.

They are Joseph E. Dorsey, Mt. Savage, and George W. Miers, Keyser, W. Va., from Frostburg Board 30, and William Uphold, Deer Park, from Oakland Board 47.

All were examined during the last part of December before pre-induction examinations were closed by the Army.

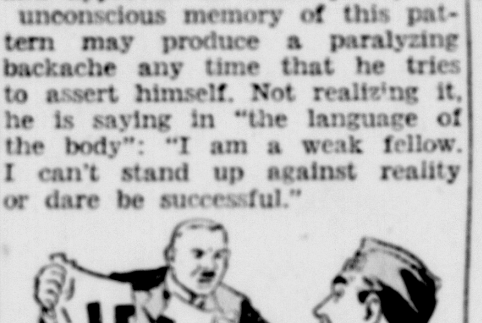
MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

May a "weak back" mean a "spineless character"?

Answer: Yes, quite literally, asserts Dr. James Clark Moloney in the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases. A child who has domineering parents may get the impression that to "stand up for himself" will incur their displeasure, while to take their domination "lying down" wins their love and approval. In adult years, the unconscious memory of this pattern may produce a paralyzing backache any time that he tries to assert himself. Not realizing it, he is saying in "the language of the body": "I am a weak fellow. I can't stand up against reality or dare be successful."



Do educated Germans hate the Nazis?

Answer: No, says Dr. Edmund de S. Brunner in the Teachers College Record. Statistics based on the latest census indicate that—at least after 25—the more education a girl has, the less likely she will be to marry and the more likely to seek a divorce if her marriage is a failure. Three possible explanations are: (1) that dislike of domesticity is what prompts a girl to seek more education: (2) that this in turn tends to make her "choosy"; and (3) that the average man is afraid of a woman he suspects of knowing more than he does.

Does college improve a girl's marriage chances?

Answer: On the whole, yes, reports Dr. Clifford Kirkpatrick of the University of Minnesota in the American Journal of Sociology. Replies to a questionnaire by 91 Germans of the better educated classes indicate that they are inclined to blame the Nazis rather than the Allies for their sufferings during air raids, though condemning the bombing of civilians under any circumstances. They were apt to try to dodge responsibility for the atrocities of the Hitler regime but showed evidences of a guilty conscience on the subject.

Prices Lower In Quietest Market In Four Months

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—In one of the quietest stock markets in nearly four months, prices slipped lower today despite the efforts of some leading issues to push ahead.

Higher were General Motors 60⅝, Chrysler 55, Goodyear 44¼, J. I. Case 36¾, Schenley 27¾, Anaconda 33⅞, and Philip Morris 40¾.

Lower were U. S. Steel 77⅝, Youngstown Sheet & Tube 71¼, Goodrich 60, Montgomery Ward 53⅝, Oliver Corp. 28, Curtiss-Wright 8⅞, Kennecott 51⅛, General Electric 38¼, Owens Illinois 54¾, U. S. Gypsum 101¼, Santa Fe 100¼, Illinois Central 28, Standard Oil (NJ) 70⅛, Mission Corp 47½, and Johns Manville 38.

With the volume of trading at 610,000 shares, it was the slowest day since October 11 when 510,000 shares were traded.

The market was narrow with only 899 individual issues traded, the lowest since October 23 when 886 were on the quotation tape. Of the total, 369 declined and 293 advanced on the day.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks also told the story of the inactivity of prices by declining only .1 of a point to 65. The industrial component lost .2, rails were down .1, and utilities were unchanged.

The bond market closed out January by refusing to budget from the steady price decline in effect all last week.

Turnover totalled $2,633,000, lowest for a full session since January 13 when sales were $2,560,000.

Bill To Place Md. Mine Laws With 'Best' Up

Legislation Will Recodify Rules

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31 (AP) — A bill which the sponsors said will "bring Maryland's mine safety code up to a par with the best" was introduced in the legislature tonight.

Senate Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany), co-sponsor of the measure with Senator Fraley (R-Garrett), said the revision was necessary because in 1948 Maryland had "the second worst mine fatality record of all the states, based on the amount of coal produced."

"Ten Western Maryland miners have been killed since last August, and numerous others have been injured or incapacitated."

The 48-page bill would completely recodify the state's mining laws.

"There is hardly a section that has not been rewritten," Kimble said.

The bill provides, among other things, for better mine ventilation, stringent regulations for the handling of power, better lighting conditions, and the latest of the other accident-prevention rules.

"It would bring Maryland's law on complete accord with the safety code of the Federal Bureau of Mines," Kimble said.

He added the bill was prepared by a "group of mining experts," and was handed to him for introduction by John T. Jones, Washington, president of District 16, United Mine Workers.

Last week Governor Lane appointed a committee to study changes in the state mining laws "as will properly better protect the safety of the men working in the mines."

Kimble made it clear that tonight's bill was drawn up independently.

The Governor had asked Jones to name a UMW representative to his committee.

Kimble said Jones sent him a copy of a telegram Jones sent the Governor in which Jones turned down the offer.

The Senator said Jones felt the question "was a matter that would have to go through the legislative process, and that the prepared bill is the best way to handle it."

Operator Posts Bond

William Brashear, owner of a mine near Westernport in which two men were killed during an explosion last week, posted $500 bond through his attorney yesterday for action of the Allegany County Grand Jury on charges of violating the state mining code.

He waived a preliminary hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court. He was represented by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

He has been charged by State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris with failing to register the operation with the Maryland Bureau of Mines.

The charge was brought by Dr. John T. Rutledge, state mine bureau director, who is heading the investigation of the disaster which claimed the lives of Fred William Kniseley, 23, Eckhart, and Kenneth Brown Riggleman, 33, Westernport, last Monday. Billie Brashear, 19, son of the owner, escaped injury in the accident.

David Watkins, a representative of District No. 16, United Mine Workers of America, here, reported yesterday that investigation of union

Lots May Be Purchased For New Playground

A proposal that the city purchase two lots on Thomas Street for future use as a public playground was tabled yesterday for one week by the Mayor and Council to give officials an opportunity to inspect the site.

Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds introduced the order calling for purchase of Lots 11 and 12, Thomas Street, from G. M. Mudge at a cost of $900, subject to approval of the title by City Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

Cost of the property would be charged to the playground appropriation. Approximate overall size of the two lots is 70.5 by 109 feet.

Six members of the Cumberland Fire Department were ordered reimbursed a total of $774.33, representing their contributions to the pension fund to secure reinstatement upon their return from the armed forces.

The order, introduced by Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan and passed unanimously, listed the men as W. E. Jenkins, J. T. Hoban, Leo Reichert, H. D. Davidson, V. V. McClure and V. H. Wegman.

W. R. Anderson, sub-station supervisor for the Gulf Oil Company, requested permission to replace two 550-gallon underground storage tanks with one new 1,000-gallon storage tank at the warehouse of the Chaney Transportation Company, 23 Howard Street. His letter was referred to City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and Fire Chief John E. Brennan.

A Way To Better Hearing For All Students

Mrs. Harold F. Sweene (left) began yesterday at West Side Elementary School an examination of the students' hearing. Before she is through the 16,000 students in Allegany County Public Schools will have received hearing tests on the audiometer which Donna Blizzard (with earphone) is shown listening to. The program is under the direct supervision of R. A. Kessler (third from left) member of the Board of Education. Waiting to receive the tests are Nancy Diehl, Gary Williams and Harry Kesecker.

Smoke Inspector May Be Named Next Monday

Salary For Post Not Yet Decided

The Mayor and Council plan to select one of the five eligible applicants for deputy smoke inspector next Monday, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

A report from the Civil Service Commission, listing the five men, was submitted to the council yesterday and filed.

Mayor Post said the appointment is expected to become effective February 15, with the inspector to be employed under a one-year contract with the city.

The question of salary for the position has not yet been determined, the mayor said.

As soon as the inspector is appointed, the matter of selecting an advisory and appeal board, as provided for in Cumberland's smoke control ordinance, will be taken up, Mayor Post said.

Fred Borden, who placed first in a previous smoke test, is listed in third place on the new eligibility list. Francis D. Mullan, formerly nominated by Mayor Post for the appointment, did not file application papers for the Civil Service examination, which was held January 26.

Heading the current list is Charles Owens, followed in order by Kenneth K. Sicker, Borden, Walter Wilton and Patrick Zembower.

Two appointments from the eligible list of four classifications were made. They were Betty Lee Larry to the post of stenographer in the Police Department and Robert R. Hammann, 446 Goethe Street, to the Police Department as a probationary patrolman. Miss Larry has been temporary stenographer in the department several weeks.

In other examinations conducted at the same time the following listed in order of highest grades, were declared eligible:

For Patrolman: Harold Shober, Robert A. Hammann (retained present rating); Lewis A. Miller (retained present rating); Walter Denison, Richard H. Smith, Lewis Stotler, Donald Leopold, Donald Dryer, Eugene Law, Jr., and Stanley Hawarth.

For Lieutenant in the Fire Department: Leroy Miller and Charles Barham.

For Stenographer in the Police Department: Betty Lee Larry and C. Y. Welsh.

The report was signed by C. Philip Jolley, chairman; Dr. B. C. Upchurch, and H. Clifford Spiker.

Conlon To Aid GI's In Job Problems

Thomas F. Conlon, Sr., assistant service officer of the Maryland Veterans Commission, has been reappointed volunteer re-employment rights committeeman for the Bureau of Veterans' Re-employment Rights, U. S. Department of Labor.

His certificate of appointment to the post was received yesterday from Maurice J. Tobin, secretary of labor. He has served on the committee for the past two years.

The committee was set up to assist former servicemen in securing re-employment rights provided under the Selective Act of 1943 and related acts.

Conlon reported that all known re-employment cases in this area have been satisfactorily settled and that any former veteran who needs assistance in securing his re-employment rights should apply to the Maryland Veterans Commission office, third floor, Liberty Trust Building.

Industrial Promotion Group Uses Labels To Boost City

The Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee has received 250,000 gummed labels to be used to advertise Cumberland and call attention to the city's industrial advantages and possibilities.

Howard M. Smith, chairman, said the labels are to be made available to local industries, business houses and business and professional people, to be attached to outgoing letters and packages.

The labels are black and gold, colors taken from the Maryland flag, and bear the inscription, "Cumberland Maryland Ideal For Industry," and a miniature sketch of an industrial plant.

These labels are just one of a number of media to be used by the committee in advertising Cumberland's industrial potential, as a part of a long-range, wide-spread publicity and advertising campaign, Smith explained.

A colorful brochure, containing statistics, information, and over half a hundred local pictures has been prepared and is now at the printer. When these are delivered, they will be mailed to a select list of industrialists and groups interested in new plant locations.

Several other phases of the committee's publicity plan are being completed and a local educational plan of Cumberland's opportunities will be undertaken, committee members said.

Store Workers Get Retroactive Pay

Retroactive pay averaging from $12 to $36 was received last Friday by meat cutters and clerks employed by the American Stores Company in this area, it was announced yesterday.

Mike Roth, representing local 322, Meat Cutters Union, said the payment to members of that union and Local 886, Retail Food Clerks Union, represented wage boosts provided in a new contract which went into effect October 8, until December, when the new rates were reflected in payrolls.

The new wage scales porvided from $3 to $5 weekly boosts for some 115 workers. The rates are effective until the contract expires October 7, 1949.

Heart Clinic Fund Campaign Plans Complete

Drive Will Be Held February 7 To 28

An organization meeting for the 1949 Heart Week fund campaign, sponsored by the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association, was held last night at the Public Library.

Daniel D'Amicol, campaign chairman, outlined plans and procedure for the drive and Mrs. Arthur C. Bright explained the operation of the proposed clinic and education campaign designed to combat rheumatic fever.

The drive throughout the county will continue from February 7 to February 28. Numerous organizations are participating, especially women's clubs, auxiliaries and service units.

D'Amicol distributed campaign material including plastic hearts to be placed in business places for public contributions, association membership cards, and lapel hearts to be given each contributor.

On February 12, a rheumatic fever "tag day" will be held throughout the county with public solicitation of funds on the streets, he explained.

Letters are being sent to organizations, firms and individuals explaining the purpose of the campaign and asking for contributions. Solicitors will seek to obtain memberships in the association from their friends and neighbors.

D'Amicol said it is hoped to raise upwards of $10,000 this year to finance the establishment of the local heart clinic, which will be operated in conjunction with the city, county and state health departments, and to employ a full-time home supervisor to educate the families of rheumatic fever patients in their proper care and treatment.

A long-range project of the association is the eventual establishment of a convalescent home in Western Maryland for rheumatic heart cases.

The American Legion also has endorsed such a project and along with other organizations is giving it active support.

Helmick Assured Of Artificial Legs By Tenn. Company And Donations

The hearts and pocketbooks of hundreds of persons throughout the eastern United States were open last night to John Helmick, 17-year-old Davis, W. Va., youth whose legs were amputated after he was lost for six days in Tucker County mountains.

Sheriff D. E. Crosten, the man who headed the search for Helmick, was kept busy separating checks and cash from well wishing messages to the youth who survived the frigid weather that killed his two companions.

The quest for a pair of artificial limbs on which Helmick can walk, ended when the Sheriff received a telegram from a Tennessee manufacturing company saying, "We will build legs free."

The telegram also informed the sheriff that the company will pay for Helmick's lodging in Tennessee while he is there for measurements and fittings of the artificial legs.

A 13-year-old Concord, N. C., boy wrote to Helmick and said, "I sympathize in the loss of your chums. I'd like to divide my allowance with you and hope you'll accept the enclosed $5 bill for pocket change." The letter was signed by Philip W. Nelson, 167 North Church Street, Concord, N. C.

The youthful Nelson informed Helmick that amateur radio work is lots of fun and said: "If you care to dig into this kind of hobby, and I can help you, I have several study books which I no longer require. I'd be glad to give them to you."

Sheriff Crosten, who issued the initial appeal for financial aid to purchase the artificial limbs for Helmick, declared last night that the response "has been wonderful."

He said letters have reached him from Michigan, North Carolina, Washington, D. C., Ohio, Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, all containing donations that will literally help the youth "get back on his feet."

The sheriff said the response has come from individuals as well as numerous business men, fraternal, veteran and union organizations. Many of the messages included birthday greetings to Helmick who marked his 17th anniversary last week.

Over 100 birthday cards were delivered to the youth at the hospital and all had money in them the sheriff said. Most of the money and leters are being addressed to the sheriff who is taking charge of the case.

Petit Jury Excused Until Thursday

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., has excused the January petit jury until Thursday at 9:15 a. m. At that time a civil trial is scheduled to be heard in the case of Charles W. Reed, trading as John H. Reed and Son, vs. George Roeder and Delores D. Roeder for $500. The suit allegedly involved a claim of $294.85.

Seeks Beer License

An application for a beer license has been filed with the clerk of court here by Abe and Juanita Loundy for 941 Bedford Street.

The Allegany County Liquor Control Board authorized a transfer of beer, wine and liquor license for Louis Seder from Baltimore Street to 37 North Centre Street.

Alburtis Held On Charge Of Entering M&A

Committed To Jail In Default Of Bond

A Ridgeley, W. Va., man was ordered held in default of $300 bond yesterday after being identified by two persons as one of a pair that broke into the M. and A. Restaurant, Baltimore Street, early Friday morning.

Booked as Donald Alburtis, the man was given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew who remanded the prisoner to Allegany County jail after hearing two witnesses testify that he was the person they saw flee from the restaurant as police arrived.

The first witness was Sgt. John Sherry, Cumberland Police Department, who assisted in the investigation. The sergeant told the court that he saw Alburtis flee into an alley behind the restaurant.

Hardy Tysinger, Wiley Ford, W. Va., a garbage collector, who notified police headquarters of the alleged breaking, also identified Alburtis as one of two men he saw running from the scene after officers arrived.

Alburtis was arrested later the same day and taken to the office of the State's Attorney for questioning. The man did not enter a plea at the hearing.

A second man held in connection with the breaking and entering was released yesterday after being held since Friday morning. He was arrested near the restaurant when the man identified as Alburtis fled.

The second man was booked as Donald Gray. He was also questioned in the office of the State's Attorney but released shortly before Alburtis was given the preliminary hearing. The prisoner was ordered held for action of the grand jury.

Authorities also released R. Dewey Leslie yesterday after holding him for questioning since Sunday.

Wilson, Charles To Address Coin Club

The Western Maryland Coin Club will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine City Club, South Centre Street, with Holmes H. Cessna, president, presiding.

Speakers will be two members of the club, Benjamin G. Charles and William L. Wilson, Sr., who will discuss Indian head pennies and Lincoln pennies.

Interested persons are invited to attend.

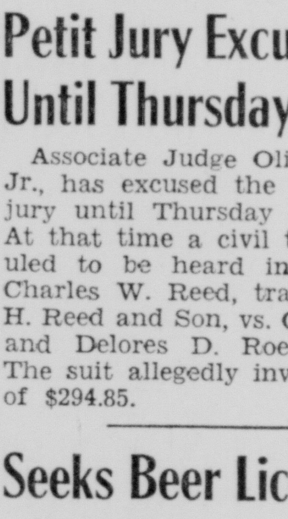
Rubber Workers Will Attend Conference

Three officials of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, will leave here Thursday morning for Detroit, Mich., to attend a District 1, URCLPWA, conference planned there Friday through Sunday.

They are A. E. Johnson, president; Stanley Zorick, treasurer, and Patrick Zembower, sentinel.

Two Pennsylvania Men Appointed To County High Shool Faculties

Two recently graduated college students have joined the faculties of Allegany County high schools, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

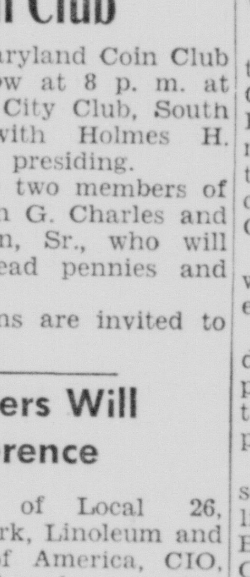


A. H. Hawkins

The new appointments are at Beall High School, Frostburg, and Allegany High School, this city. Alexander H. Hawkins, California, Pa., was assigned to Allegany and Charles A. Revello, Somerset, Pa., was assigned to Beall High.

Both men were graduated from California State Teachers College, the first semester of the 1948-1949 school term.

Hawkins, a veteran of three years in the United States Army Air Force, succeeds Boston E. Sherwood as an instructor in industrial arts at the local high School. Sherwood has been granted a leave of absence due to illness.



Revello

Revello, also a veteran of World War II, has been assigned to the Vocational-Industrial Arts Department at Beal High to succeed Anthony Laus, who resigned recently.

The new teachers completed their college education after being discharged from the Army and are accepting their first teaching assignments.

Revello is married and the father of three children. He plans to make his home in Frostburg and locate his family there as soon as suitable quarters are found.

January Ends With Eight-Inch Snow Over Area

Highway Conditions Are Nearing Normal

Eight inches of snow which fell over this area on the last day of the month made January the third wettest month in history and climaxed a month that showed temperatures ranging from the seventies down to the twenties.

Snow still covers the area, and although highways and secondary roads have been plowed open lowering temperatures last night brought a freeze which created hazardous, icy conditions in the city and both east and west throughout the area.

The snowfall began about 1:30 a. m. yesterday and continued for about 12 hours, reaching an official depth at the local weather station of 7.8 inches. In various parts of the city, especially on easterly slopes, nine and 10 inches were reported.

City, county and state roads plows went to work as soon as the snowfall stopped and by dark all main arteries, secondary roads and principal streets had been opened. County crews will resume their work this morning cindering curves and hills.

Clear Business Area

State roads plows and cinder crews continued working all day and throughout the night. The City Street Department began the task of opening streets early yesterday and worked until dark. At 11 p. m. the snow loader and a fleet of trucks began hauling snow from the business area.

Railroads reported traffic moving normally and while buses were delayed early yesterday, normal schedules were observed last night.

Traffic in the city was slowed to a crawl yesterday morning and many motorists could not move their cars. Numerous people were late for work because of bus tie-ups and school officials said many children were absent from classes because of the snow.

Again last night, traffic in the area moved slowly and cautiously due to the icy condition of streets and highways. State Police and roads officials recommended caution and chains.

In Garrett County, temperatures dropped rapidly after sundown, and "very hazardous" driving conditions were reported by police and other officials.

The Western Maryland Railway dispatcher's office said at 11 p. m. the temperature at Rockwood, Pa., was 24 above, with skies cloudy and five inches of snow. At Thomas, W. Va., temperature was also 24 and three inches of snow. At Deal, Pa., mercury stood at 20 above with six inches of snow.

In Cumberland, temperature reached a maximum of 38 yesterday, a low of 18 above with 31 reported at 11 p. m. The official snowfall was measured at 7.8 inches or 0.95 inches of precipitation.

10 Inches Of Snow

The January total of snowfall here was 10.1 inches. The average maximum temperature was 47.4. The average minimum was 31.6. The average mean temperature was 39.5.

Records show the average January normal temperature is 31.5 with a normal precipitation record of 2.51 inches. The wettest January recorded was in 1937 with 6.84 inches. In 1948, the second wettest January was noted with 4.81 inches. The total of rain and melted precipitation for the January just passed was 4.22 inches, for the third place record.

The snowfall this week is deeper than that of last month when 5.7 inches fell December 19 and 20, but melted in time to deny the area a white Christmas.

This snow is described as "light but wet," and at Constitution Park, the new ski trail is open and ski fans were making use of it late yesterday. Park officials said many fans are expected today.

Council Approves Water Agreement

An agreement was approved yesterday between the Mayor and Council and 12 residents of the Bedford Road area which will permit the residents to connect on to the new auxiliary water main being constructed from the city to Lake Gordon.

A similar agreement was reached with another group of residents several months ago.

Under the agreement, the residents must furnish the necessary pipe, valves and fittings and lay two-inch lines connecting their property with the main.

They were listed as C. E. Patterson, Flora G. Patterson, H. R. Collins, Effie M. Collins, Isaac M. Boore, Edna L. Boore, E. Carl Kight, Genevieve Kight, Charles F. Eyler, Eunice M. Eyler, Paul L. Sullivan and Eva W. Sullivan.

A bid offered to the Mayor and Council by Virgie Haines, 111 West Mary Street, of $100 each for Lots 77 and 78, Ford Avenue, Humbird Addition, was referred to Finance Commission William H. Buchholtz.

Briefs

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the post home, according to James J. Kloran, post commander.

The Junior Association of Commerce will meet tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

A mental hygiene clinic will be held Thursday and Friday in the clinic rooms at City Hall. Attendants will see patients by appointment only. Dr. Gertrude Gross of Springfield State Hospital, Marshall Bruce of the hospital staff, and Miss Ella Darling, medical social service worker, will be in charge.

Mrs. Tencie Gill, 481 Baltimore Avenue, won $50 in a prize contest conducted by a national rubber heel company during which a total of $25,000 was distributed.

Youth Hurt In Fall

Sixteen-year-old Donald Moore was treated at Memorial Hospital at 8:15 last night after he fell and injured his right wrist. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Moore, Mexico Farms

Teacher Suffers Broken Neck

Boston E. Sherwood, 816 Elmwood Lane, industrial arts teacher at Allegany High School, is in Memorial Hospital receiving treatment for two broken neck vertebrae.

Admitted Wednesday, Sherwood is in a traction splint and will be there from three to five weeks. Mrs. Sherwood said he should be able to teach again as soon as he becomes accustomed to a neck cast he will have to wear for four to eight months after discharge from the hospital.

Sherwood has been suffering from a weakness of his arm for sometime which has been attributed to the vertebrae. Mrs. Sherwood said an accident 15 or 16 years ago or several falls in the past could have caused the injury.

The industrial arts instructor has been teaching in Allegany County schools for over 20 years.

Snow Ends Hope Coney Man Will Be Found Alive

Storm Halts Search For Retired Miner

Hope of finding 77-year-old George McCormick alive was abandoned yesterday when a 10-inch snowfall prevented further searching on Savage Mountain for the retired Lonaconing coal miner who has been missing a week today.

George McCormick

Trooper Harry S. Bosley, who earlier issued a call for 40 volunteers to retrace their steps in the mountains west of Lonaconing, said the snow made it impossible to work yesterday. McCormick was last seen about a mile and a half up the mountain.

The search will be renewed, police said, but it will depend on how quickly the snow melts. The 10-inch blanket that fell early yesterday morning has covered the ground completely and would hide the body, Trooper Bosley declared.

More than 150 volunteer searchers from Lonaconing, Midland and Barton searched in the wooded mountain Saturday and Sunday, and police said they would drain a reservoir yesterday. The snow storm prevented the work, however.

Police did not learn of the case until Friday since, according to the family, the elderly man has frequently left his home for a period of days and then returned after visiting friends in Garrett County.

Efforts of a 100-man searching party Sunday failed to find a trace of the missing man, who made his home with a daughter on Dudley Street in recent years. Authorities said no organized hunt was conducted yesterday and added they knew of no one who ventured into the snow-covered hills to look for McCormick.

Local Officials To Visit Annapolis

Members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners will go to annapolis Wednesday for a hearing at 10 a. m. with the Allegany County delegation on several bills of local interest, Charles N. Wilkinson, board president, said last night.

Just what is to come before the two groups, Wilkinson said he cannot say at this time. He said the delegation has asked the commissioners to appear in Annapolis for the meeting.

Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments for Allegany County, will appear in Annapolis Thursday before the House Ways and Means Committee on a bill to regulate tax exemptions on property owned by fraternal organizations. Nicholson said yesterday he has been asked to be at the hearing on the measure.

The Weather

Seven league boots grim determination were in order to wade through the 7.8 inches of snow that slowed down Cumberland transportation considerably yesterday. The thermometer ranged from cold to downright cold with a maximum of 38 and a minimum of 18. Late last night, the official reading was 31 and the temperature was dropping hourly. The melted precipitation was 0.95. Today's forecast is cloudy and not much change in temperature.

Elevator Fixed

The Postoffice elevator, out of commission for two weeks for repairs, is open to the public again.

Official said the automatic door, damaged by floods in 1942 and 1936, was in working order again.

Taxicab Service Is Crippled By Work Stoppage

Emergency Calls To Be Accepted

Taxicab service in this city virtually ground to a halt at midnight after drivers of the Astor and Johnny's Cab Companies went on strike as a result of a contract dispute.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent for Local 453, Teamsters Union, which represents the 60 drivers, said the union will picket the Yellow Top Cab Company to get the cooperation of that firm in the work stoppage.

Fred W. Jenkins, president of the Astor firm and spokesman for the companies, said emergency service has been arranged by the companies and the union.

The union, he said, will provide one driver each shift for emergency trips to hospitals and physician's offices and to transport crippled children and kindergarten children to schools.

Union officials said the service will be terminated if non-emergency calls are accepted.

Arrangements for the work stoppage were made yesterday after conferences failed to bring agreement on a new contract to replace the one which expired at midnight.

Stutzman said the union will settle on the basis of the old contract for another year.

That contract, he said, gave drivers 40 per cent of commissions up to $100 a week and 45 per cent of all fares if they exceed the $100 mark, except that during the dull months of June through September drivers get 40 per cent under $80 and 45 per cent of all fares when they exceed $80 a week.

Jenkins said the taxi firms have been losing money during the past year and that the only way the firms could have granted the union the 45 per cent straight commissions asked yesterday would have been to raise taxi fares.

He said that the firms feel that the public would not be in favor of an increase in fares at a time when the cost of living is dropping.

The two firms, he said, offered to sign a contract which would give 40 per cent of all fares with provisions for opening the contract for a boost in commissions when operating costs come down.

The union stated the issue as "they want to give us a reduction and we're not going to take it."

Payrolls Are Up Despite Drop In Working Force

Although 2,127 fewer workers were employed in December by Cumberland's major industries, the payrolls of the firms were up $135,942.38 over December, 1947, according to the January Report of Activities of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

The employment totals for December, 1948, were 16,211 as contrasted to the 18,338 persons on the working force in December, 1947.

December, 1948, payrolls totaled $4,452,861.93, an increase of $135,942.38 over December, 1947.

December postal receipts of $44,989.73 were up $14,012.42 over November, reflecting the heavy volume of holiday mail. December sales of postal savings bonds were up $2,568.75 although Postal Savings deposits were down $10,636.

Building permits in Cumberland dropped $11,875 from November's $42,525.

The Maryland Employment Service reported 2,433 persons registered January 15, a boost of 174 over December 15's 2,259. Placements dropped 74 from December 15's 232.

Both Cumberland and Hagerstown marked seven per cent increases in debits to individual accounts in December as compared to November, -947.

November coal production in Maryland was 78,000 tons, a drop of 6,000 tons from October production.

The February, 1949, "Sales Management" index for Cumberland indicates a volume of $3,940,000, or 281.4 of the volume of February, 1939, and 96.2 of the February, 1948, volume. The City National Index for this city is 90.8, or 9.2 per cent below the national figure.

VFW Drum Corps Seeks Majorettes

Tryouts were held last night for majorettes for the drum and bugle corps of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, and a number of girls under 16 years of age competed.

According to Carl Ryan, drum corps president, tryouts will be held next Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the post home, Union Street, for senior girls between 16 and 25.

The corps wishes to enlist a group of majorettes in both junior and senior ages and Ryan said the response from the younger girls has been most encouraging. To compete the line-up, tryouts for the older girls will be held next Monday.

Civil Service Group Lists 226 Employes Holding City Jobs

As of December 31, 1948, there were 226 Civil Service employes in Cumberland, according to the annual report of the Civil Service Commission, submitted to the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The report was signed by C. Philip Jolley, chairman, and H. Clifford Spiker and Dr. Burnest C. Upchurch, members.

During the year there were 10 resignations, seven promotions, two suspensions, four discharges, two pensions, five deaths and one position abolished.

List of Civil Service employment in the various city departments follows:

Airport, 1; engineering, 9; finance, 14; fire, 48; health, 13; Constitution Park, 2; parks and playgrounds, 1; police, 47; street, 58, and water, 33.

The commision held three examinations during the year for the following positions:

Firemen, policemen, assistant fire chief, fire chief, policewoman, clerk in the Water Department, city health nurses, city clerk, secretary to the smoke abatement engineer and junior file clerk in the Police Department.

The commission also held four separate meetings for examinations of probationary policemen and firemen, all of whom were recommended as permanent appointees of the Police and Fire Departments.

On June 22, 1948, the report states, the group heard the appeal of a discharged police officer, with the discharge later upheld by the commission.

In October a complete inspection was made of the Police Department, city jail and the four fire stations in the city. A report on the inspection was previously submitted to the Mayor and Council.

Bill To Place Md. Mine Laws With 'Best' Up

Legislation Will Recodify Rules

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31 (AP) — A bill which the sponsors said will "bring Maryland's mine safety code up to a par with the best" was introduced in the legislature tonight.

Senate Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany), co-sponsor of the measure with Senator Fraley (R-Garrett), said the revision was necessary because in 1948 Maryland had "the second worst mine fatality record of all the states, based on the amount of coal produced."

"Ten Western Maryland miners have been killed since last August, and numerous others have been injured or incapacitated."

The 48-page bill would completely recodify the state's mining laws.

"There is hardly a section that has not been rewritten," Kimble said.

The bill provides, among other things, for better mine ventilation, stringent regulations for the handling of power, better lighting conditions, and the latest of the other accident-prevention rules.

"It would bring Maryland's law on complete accord with the safety code of the Federal Bureau of Mines," Kimble said.

He added the bill was prepared by a "group of mining experts," and was handed to him for introduction by John T. Jones, Washington, president of District 16, United Mine Workers.

Last week Governor Lane appointed a committee to study changes in the state mining laws "as will properly better protect the safety of the men working in the mines."

Kimble made it clear that tonight's bill was drawn up independently.

The Governor had asked Jones to name a UMW representative to his committee.

Kimble said Jones sent him a copy of a telegram Jones sent the Governor in which Jones turned down the offer.

The Senator said Jones felt the question "was a matter that would have to go through the legislative process, and that the prepared bill is the best way to handle it."

Operator Posts Bond

William Brashear, owner of a mine near Westernport in which two men were killed during an explosion last week, posted $500 bond through his attorney yesterday for action of the Allegany County Grand Jury on charges of violating the state mining code.

He waived a preliminary hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court. He was represented by Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

He has been charged by State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris with failing to register the operation with the Maryland Bureau of Mines.

The charge was brought by Dr. John T. Rutledge, state mine bureau director, who is heading the investigation of the disaster which claimed the lives of Fred William Kniseley, 23, Eckhart, and Kenneth Brown Riggleman, 33, Westernport, last Monday. Billie Brashear, 19, son of the owner, escaped injury in the accident.

David Watkins, a representative of District No. 16, United Mine Workers of America, here, reported yesterday that investigation of union

Lots May Be Purchased For New Playground

A proposal that the city purchase two lots on Thomas Street for future use as a public playground was tabled yesterday for one week by the Mayor and Council to give officials an opportunity to inspect the site.

Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds introduced the order calling for purchase of Lots 11 and 12, Thomas Street, from G. M. Mudge at a cost of $900, subject to approval of the title by City Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

Cost of the property would be charged to the playground appropriation. Approximate overall size of the two lots is 70.5 by 109 feet.

Six members of the Cumberland Fire Department were ordered reimbursed a total of $774.33, representing their contributions to the pension fund to secure reinstatement upon their return from the armed forces.

The order, introduced by Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan and passed unanimously, listed the men as W. E. Jenkins, J. T. Hoban, Leo Reichert, H. D. Davidson, V. V. McClure and V. H. Wegman.

W. R. Anderson, sub-station supervisor for the Gulf Oil Company, requested permission to replace two 550-gallon underground storage tanks with one new 1,000-gallon storage tank at the warehouse of the Chaney Transportation Company, 23 Howard Street.

His letter was referred to City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and Fire Chief John E. Brennan.

Industrial Promotion Group Uses Labels To Boost City

The Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee has received 250,000 gummed labels to be used to advertise Cumberland and call attention to the city's industrial advantages and possibilities.

Howard M. Smith, chairman, said the labels are to be made available to local industries, business houses and business and professional people, to be attached to outgoing letters and packages.

The labels are black and gold, colors taken from the Maryland flag, and bear the inscription, "Cumberland Maryland Ideal For Industry," and a miniature sketch of an industrial plant.

These labels are just one of a number of media to be used by the committee in advertising Cumberland's industrial potential, as a part of a long-range, wide-spread publicity and advertising campaign, Smith explained.

A colorful brochure, containing statistics, information, and over half a hundred local pictures has been prepared and is now at the printer. When these are delivered, they will be mailed to a select list of industrialists and groups interested in new plant locations.

Several other phases of the committee's publicity plan are being completed and a local educational plan of Cumberland's opportunities will be undertaken, committee members said.

A Way To Better Hearing For All Students

Mrs. Harold F. Sweene (left) began yesterday at West Side Elementary School an examination of the students' hearing. Before she is through the 16,000 students in Allegany County Public Schools will have received hearing tests on the audiometer which Donna Blizzard (with earphone) is shown listening to. The program is under the direct supervision of R. A. Kessler (third from left) member of the Board of Education. Waiting to receive the tests are Nancy Diehl, Gary Williams and Harry Kesecker.

Smoke Inspector May Be Named Next Monday

Salary For Post Not Yet Decided

The Mayor and Council plan to select one of the five eligible applicants for deputy smoke inspector next Monday, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

A report from the Civil Service Commission, listing the five men, was submitted to the council yesterday and filed.

Mayor Post said the appointment is expected to become effective February 15, with the inspector to be employed under a one-year contract with the city.

The question of salary for the position has not yet been determined, the mayor said.

As soon as the inspector is appointed, the matter of selecting an advisory and appeal board, as provided for in Cumberland's smoke control ordinance, will be taken up, Mayor Post said.

Fred Borden, who placed first in a previous smoke test, is listed in third place on the new eligibility list. Francis D. Mullan, formerly nominated by Mayor Post for the appointment, did not file application papers for the Civil Service examination, which was held January 26.

Heading the current list is Charles Owens, followed in order by Kenneth K. Sicker, Borden, Walter Wilton and Patrick Zembower.

Two appointments from the eligible list of four classifications were made. They were Betty Lee Larry to the post of stenographer in the Police Department and Robert R. Hammann, 446 Goethe Street, to the Police Department as a probationary patrolman. Miss Larry has been temporary stenographer in the department several weeks.

In other examinations conducted at the same time the following listed in order of highest grades, were declared eligible:

For Patrolman: Harold Shober, Robert A. Hammann (retained present rating); Lewis A. Miller (retained present rating); Walter Denison, Richard H. Smith, Lewis Stotler, Donald Leopold, Donald Dryer, Eugene Law, Jr., and Stanley Hawarth.

For Lieutenant in the Fire Department: Leroy Miller and Charles Barham.

For Stenographer in the Police Department: Betty Lee Larry and C. Y. Welsh.

The report was signed by C. Philip Jolley, chairman; Dr. B. C. Upchurch, and H. Clifford Spiker.

Conlon To Aid GI's In Job Problems

Thomas F. Conlon, Sr., assistant service officer of the Maryland Veterans Commission, has been reappointed volunteer re-employment rights committeeman for the Bureau of Veterans' Re-employment Rights, U. S. Department of Labor.

His certificate of appointment to the post was received yesterday from Maurice J. Tobin, secretary of labor. He has served on the committee for the past two years.

The committee was set up to assist former servicemen in securing re-employment rights provided under the Selective Act of 1943 and related acts.

Conlon reported that all known re-employment cases in this area have been satisfactorily settled and that any former veteran who needs assistance in securing his re-employment rights should apply to the Maryland Veterans Commission office, third floor, Liberty Trust Building.

Store Workers Get Retroactive Pay

Retroactive pay averaging from $12 to $36 was received last Friday by meat cutters and clerks employed by the American Stores Company in this area, it was announced yesterday.

Mike Roth, representing local 322, Meat Cutters Union, said the payment to members of that union and Local 886, Retail Food Clerks Union, represented wage boosts provided in a new contract which went into effect October 8, until December, when the new rates were reflected in payrolls.

The new wage scales porvided from $3 to $5 weekly boosts for some 115 workers. The rates are effective until the contract expires October 7, 1949.

Heart Clinic Fund Campaign Plans Complete

Drive Will Be Held February 7 To 28

An organization meeting for the 1949 Heart Week fund campaign, sponsored by the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association, was held last night at the Public Library.

Daniel D'Amicol, campaign chairman, outlined plans and procedure for the drive and Mrs. Arthur C. Bright explained the operation of the proposed clinic and education campaign designed to combat rheumatic fever.

The drive throughout the county will continue from February 7 to February 28. Numerous organizations are participating, especially women's clubs, auxiliaries and service units.

D'Amicol distributed campaign material including plastic hearts to be placed in business places for public contributions, association membership cards, and lapel hearts to be given each contributor.

On February 12, a rheumatic fever "tag day" will be held throughout the county with public solicitation of funds on the streets, he explained.

Letters are being sent to organizations, firms and individuals explaining the purpose of the campaign and asking for contributions. Solicitors will seek to obtain memberships in the association from their friends and neighbors.

D'Amicol said it is hoped to raise upwards of $10,000 this year to finance the establishment of the local heart clinic, which will be operated in conjunction with the city, county and state health departments, and to employ a full-time home supervisor to educate the families of rheumatic fever patients in their proper care and treatment.

A long-range project of the association is the eventual establishment of a convalescent home in Western Maryland for rheumatic heart cases.

The American Legion also has endorsed such a project and along with other organizations is giving it active support.

Paper Drives End

Due to an excess amount on hand, there will be no waste paper drives until further notice, according to Emmett Daugherty who has been in charge of collections.

Helmick Assured Of Artificial Legs By Tenn. Company And Donations

The hearts and pocketbooks of hundreds of persons throughout the eastern United States were open last night to John Helmick, 17-year-old Davis, W. Va., youth whose legs were amputated after he was lost for six days in Tucker County mountains.

Sheriff D. E. Crosten, the man who headed the search for Helmick, was kept busy separating checks and cash from well wishing messages to the youth who survived the frigid weather that killed his two companions.

The quest for a pair of artificial limbs on which Helmick can walk, ended when the Sheriff received a telegram from a Tennessee manufacturing company saying, "We will build legs free."

The telegram also informed the sheriff that the company will pay for Helmick's lodging in Tennessee while he is there for measurements and fittings of the artificial legs.

A 13-year-old Concord, N. C., boy wrote to Helmick and said, "I sympathize in the loss of your chums. I'd like to divide my allowance with you and hope you'll accept the enclosed $5 bill for pocket change." The letter was signed by Philip W. Nelson, 167 North Church Street, Concord, N. C.

The youthful Nelson informed Helmick that amateur radio work is lots of fun and said: "If you care to dig into this kind of hobby, and I can help you, I have several study books which I no longer require. I'd be glad to give them to you."

Sheriff Crosten, who issued the initial appeal for financial aid to purchase the artificial limbs for Helmick, declared last night that the response "has been wonderful."

He said letters have reached him from Michigan, North Carolina, Washington, D. C., Ohio, Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, all containing donations that will literally help the youth "get back on his feet."

The sheriff said the response has come from individuals as well as numerous business men, fraternal, veteran and union organizations. Many of the messages included birthday greetings to Helmick who marked his 17th anniversary last week.

Over 100 birthday cards were delivered to the youth at the hospital and all had money in them the sheriff said. Most of the money and leters are being addressed to the sheriff who is taking charge of the case.

Petit Jury Excused Until Thursday

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., has excused the January petit jury until Thursday at 9:15 a. m. At that time a civil trial is scheduled to be heard in the case of Charles W. Reed, trading as John H. Reed and Son, vs. George Roeder and Delores D. Roeder for $500. The suit allegedly involved a claim of $294.85.

Seeks Beer License

An application for a beer license has been filed with the clerk of court here by Abe and Juanita Loundy for 941 Bedford Street.

The Allegany County Liquor Control Board authorized a transfer of beer, wine and liquor license for Louis Seder from Baltimore Street to 37 North Centre Street.

Alburtis Held On Charge Of Entering M&A

Committed To Jail In Default Of Bond

A Ridgeley, W. Va., man was ordered held in default of $300 bond yesterday after being identified by two persons as one of a pair that broke into the M. and A. Restaurant, Baltimore Street, early Friday morning.

Booked as Donald Alburtis, the man was given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew who remanded the prisoner to Allegany County jail after hearing two witnesses testify that he was the person they saw flee from the restaurant as police arrived.

The first witness was Sgt. John Sherry, Cumberland Police Department, who assisted in the investigation. The sergeant told the court that he saw Alburtis flee into an alley behind the restaurant.

Hardy Tysinger, Wiley Ford, W. Va., a garbage collector, who notified police headquarters of the alleged breaking, also identified Alburtis as one of two men he saw running from the scene after officers arrived.

Alburtis was arrested later the same day and taken to the office of the State's Attorney for questioning. The man did not enter a plea at the hearing.

A second man held in connection with the breaking and entering was released yesterday after being held since Friday morning. He was arrested near the restaurant when the man identified as Alburtis fled.

The second man was booked as Donald Gray. He was also questioned in the office of the State's Attorney but released shortly before Alburtis was given the preliminary hearing. The prisoner was ordered held for action of the grand jury.

Authorities also released R. Dewey Leslie yesterday after holding him for questioning since Sunday.

Wilson, Charles To Address Coin Club

The Western Maryland Coin Club will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine City Club, South Centre Street, with Holmes H. Cessna, president, presiding.

Speakers will be two members of the club, Benjamin G. Charles and William L. Wilson, Sr., who will discuss Indian head pennies and Lincoln pennies.

Interested persons are invited to attend.

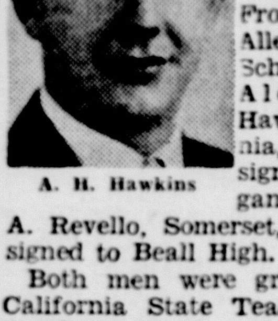
Rubber Workers Will Attend Conference

Three officials of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, will leave here Thursday morning for Detroit, Mich., to attend a District 1, URCLPWA, conference planned there Friday through Sunday.

They are A. E. Johnson, president; Stanley Zorick, treasurer, and Patrick Zembower, sentinel.

Two Pennsylvania Men Appointed To County High Shool Faculties

Two recently graduated college students have joined the faculties of Allegany County high schools, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.



A. H. Hawkins

The new appointments are at Beall High School, Frostburg, and Allegany High School, this city. Alexander H. Hawkins, California, Pa., was assigned to Allegany and Charles A. Revello, Somerset, Pa., was assigned to Beall High.

Both men were graduated from California State Teachers College, the first semester of the 1948-1949 school term.

Hawkins, a veteran of three years in the United States Army Air Force, succeeds Boston E. Sherwood as an instructor in industrial arts at the local high School. Sherwood has been granted a leave of absence due to illness.

Revello

Revello, also a veteran of World War II, has been assigned to the Vocational-Industrial Arts Department at Beall High to succeed Anthony Laus, who resigned recently.

The new teachers completed their college education after being discharged from the Army and are accepting their first teaching assignments.

Revello is married and the father of three children. He plans to make his home in Frostburg and locate his family there as soon as suitable quarters are found.

January Ends With Eight-Inch Snow Over Area

Highway Conditions Are Nearing Normal

Eight inches of snow which fell over this area on the last day of the month made January the third wettest month in history and climaxed a month that showed temperatures ranging from the seventies down to the twenties.

Snow still covers the area, and although highways and secondary roads have been plowed open lowering temperatures last night brought a freeze which created hazardous, icy conditions in the city and both east and west throughout the area.

The snowfall began about 1:30 a. m. yesterday and continued for about 12 hours, reaching an official depth at the local weather station of 7.8 inches. In various parts of the city, especially on easterly slopes, nine and 10 inches were reported.

City, county and state roads plows went to work as soon as the snowfall stopped and by dark all main arteries, secondary roads and principal streets had been opened. County crews will resume their work this morning cindering curves and hills.

Clear Business Area

State roads plows and cinder crews continued working all day and throughout the night. The City Street Department began the task of opening streets early yesterday and worked until dark. At 11 p. m. the snow loader and a fleet of trucks began hauling snow from the business area.

Railroads reported traffic moving normally and while buses were delayed early yesterday, normal schedules were observed last night.

Traffic in the city was slowed to a crawl yesterday morning and many motorists could not move their cars. Numerous people were late for work because of bus tie-ups and school officials said many children were absent from classes because of the snow.

Again last night, traffic in the area moved slowly and cautiously due to the icy condition of streets and highways. State Police and roads officials recommended caution and chains.

In Garrett County, temperatures dropped rapidly after sundown, and "very hazardous" driving conditions were reported by police and other officials.

The Western Maryland Railway dispatcher's office said at 11 p. m. the temperature at Rockwood, Pa., was 24 above, with skies cloudy and five inches of snow. At Thomas, W. Va., temperature was also 24 and three inches of snow. At Deal, Pa., mercury stood at 20 above with six inches of snow.

In Cumberland, temperature reached a maximum of 38 yesterday, a low of 18 above with 31 reported at 11 p. m. The official snowfall was measured at 7.8 inches or 0.95 inches of precipitation.

10 Inches Of Snow

The January total of snowfall here was 10.1 inches. The average maximum temperature was 47.4. The average minimum was 31.6. The average mean temperature was 39.5.

Records show the average January normal temperature is 31.5 with a normal precipitation record of 2.51 inches. The wettest January recorded was in 1937 with 6.84 inches. In 1948, the second wettest January was noted with 4.81 inches. The total of rain and melted precipitation for the January just passed was 4.22 inches, for the third place record.

The snowfall this week is deeper than that of last month when 5.7 inches fell December 19 and 20, but melted in time to deny the area a white Christmas.

This snow is described as "light but wet," and at Constitution Park, the new ski trail is open and ski fans were making use of it late yesterday. Park officials said many fans are expected today.

Council Approves Water Agreement

An agreement was approved yesterday between the Mayor and Council and 12 residents of the Bedford Road area which will permit the residents to connect on to the new auxiliary water main being constructed from the city to Lake Gordon.

A similar agreement was reached with another group of residents several months ago.

Under the agreement, the residents must furnish the necessary pipe, valves and fittings and lay two-inch lines connecting their property with the main.

They were listed as C. E. Patterson, Flora G. Patterson, H. R. Collins, Effie M. Collins, Isaac M. Boore, Edna L. Boore, E. Carl Kight, Genevieve Kight, Charles F. Eyler, Eunice M. Eyler, Paul L. Sullivan and Eva W. Sullivan.

A bid offered to the Mayor and Council by Virgie Haines, 111 West Mary Street, of $100 each for Lots 77 and 78, Ford Avenue, Humbird Addition, was referred to Finance Commission William H. Buchholtz.

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the post home, according to James J. Kloran, post commander.

The Junior Association of Commerce will meet tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

A mental hygiene clinic will be held Thursday and Friday in the clinic rooms at City Hall. Attendants will see patients by appointment only. Dr. Gertrude Gross of Springfield State Hospital, Marshall Bruce of the hospital staff, and Miss Ella Darling, medical social service worker, will be in charge.

Mrs. Tencie Gill, 481 Baltimore Avenue, won $50 in a prize contest conducted by a national rubber heel company during which a total of $25,000 was distributed.

Youth Hurt In Fall

Sixteen-year-old Donald Moore was treated at Memorial Hospital at 8:15 last night after he fell and injured his right wrist. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Moore, Mexico Farms

Teacher Suffers Broken Neck

Boston E. Sherwood, 816 Elmwood Lane, industrial arts teacher at Allegany High School, is in Memorial Hospital receiving treatment for two broken neck vertebrae.

Admitted Wednesday, Sherwood is in a traction splint and will be there from three to five weeks. Mrs. Sherwood said he should be able to teach again as soon as he becomes accustomed to a neck cast he will have to wear for four to eight months after discharge from the hospital.

Sherwood has been suffering from a weakness of his arm for sometime which has been attributed to the vertebrae. Mrs. Sherwood said an accident 15 or 16 years ago or several falls in the past could have caused the injury.

The industrial arts instructor has been teaching in Allegany County schools for over 20 years.

Snow Ends Hope Coney Man Will Be Found Alive

Storm Halts Search For Retired Miner

Hope of finding 77-year-old George McCormick alive was abandoned yesterday when a 10-inch snowfall prevented further searching on Savage Mountain for the retired Lonaconing coal miner who has been missing a week today.

George McCormick

Trooper Harry S. Bosley, who earlier issued a call for 40 volunteers to retrace their steps in the mountains west of Lonaconing, said the snow made it impossible to work yesterday. McCormick was last seen about a mile and a half up the mountain.

The search will be renewed, police said, but it will depend on how quickly the snow melts. The 10-inch blanket that fell early yesterday morning has covered the ground completely and would hide the body, Trooper Bosley declared.

More than 150 volunteer searchers from Lonaconing, Midland and Barton searched in the wooded mountain Saturday and Sunday, and police said they would drain a reservoir yesterday. The snow storm prevented the work, however.

Police did not learn of the case until Friday since, according to the family, the elderly man has frequently left his home for a period of days and then returned after visiting friends in Garrett County.

Efforts of a 100-man searching party Sunday failed to find a trace of the missing man, who made his home with a daughter on Dudley Street in recent years. Authorities said no organized hunt was conducted yesterday and added they knew of no one who ventured into the snow-covered hills to look for McCormick.

Local Officials To Visit Annapolis

Members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners will go to annapolis Wednesday for a hearing at 10 a. m. with the Allegany County delegation on several bills of local interest, Charles N. Wilkinson, board president, said last night.

Just what is to come before the two groups, Wilkinson said he cannot say at this time. He said the delegation has asked the commissioners to appear in Annapolis for the meeting.

Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments for Allegany County, will appear in Annapolis Thursday before the House Ways and Means Committee on a bill to regulate tax exemptions on property owned by fraternal organizations. Nicholson said yesterday he has been asked to be at the hearing on the measure.

The Weather

Seven league boots grim determination were in order to wade through the 7.8 inches of snow that slowed down Cumberland transportation considerably yesterday. The thermometer ranged from cold to downright cold with a maximum of 38 and a minimum of 18. Late last night, the official reading was 31 and the temperature was dropping hourly. The melted precipitation was 0.95. Today's forecast is cloudy and not much change in temperature.

Elevator Fixed

The Postoffice elevator, out of commission for two weeks for repairs, is open to the public again.

Official said the automatic door, damaged by floods in 1942 and 1936, was in working order again.

Taxicab Service Is Crippled By Work Stoppage

Emergency Calls To Be Accepted

Taxicab service in this city virtually ground to a halt at midnight after drivers of the Astor and Johnny's Cab Companies went on strike as a result of a contract dispute.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent for Local 453, Teamsters Union, which represents the 60 drivers, said the union will picket the Yellow Top Cab Company to get the cooperation of that firm in the work stoppage.

Fred W. Jenkins, president of the Astor firm and spokesman for the companies, said emergency service has been arranged by the companies and the union.

The union, he said, will provide one driver each shift for emergency trips to hospitals and physician's offices and to transport crippled children and kindergarten children to schools.

Union officials said the service will be terminated if non-emergency calls are accepted.

Arrangements for the work stoppage were made yesterday after conferences failed to bring agreement on a new contract to replace the one which expired at midnight.

Stutzman said the union will settle on the basis of the old contract for another year.

That contract, he said, gave drivers 40 per cent of commissions up to $100 a week and 45 per cent of all fares if they exceed the $100 mark, except that during the dull months of June through September drivers get 40 per cent under $80 and 45 per cent of all fares when they exceed $80 a week.

Jenkins said the taxi firms have been losing money during the past year and that the only way the firms could have granted the union the 45 per cent straight commissions asked yesterday would have been to raise taxi fares.

He said that the firms feel that the public would not be in favor of an increase in fares at a time when the cost of living is dropping.

The two firms, he said, offered to sign a contract which would give 40 per cent of all fares with provisions for opening the contract for a boost in commissions when operating costs come down.

The union stated the issue as "they want to give us a reduction and we're not going to take it."

Payrolls Are Up Despite Drop In Working Force

Although 2,127 fewer workers were employed in December by Cumberland's major industries, the payrolls of the firms were up $135,942.38 over December, 1947, according to the January Report of Activities of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

The employment totals for December, 1948, were 16,211 as contrasted to the 18,338 persons on the working force in December, 1947.

December, 1948, payrolls totaled $4,452,861.93, an increase of $135,942.38 over December, 1947.

December postal receipts of $44,989.73 were up $14,012.42 over November, reflecting the heavy volume of holiday mail. December sales of postal savings bonds were up $2,568.75 although Postal Savings deposits were down $10,636.

Building permits in Cumberland dropped $11,875 from November's $42,525.

The Maryland Employment Service reported 2,433 persons registered January 15, a boost of 174 over December 15's 2,259. Placements dropped 74 from December 15's 232.

Both Cumberland and Hagerstown marked seven per cent increases in debits to individual accounts in December as compared to November, -947.

November coal production in Maryland was 78,000 tons, a drop of 6,000 tons from October production.

The February, 1949, "Sales Management" index for Cumberland indicates, a volume of $3,940,000, or 281.4 of the volume of February, 1939, and 96.2 of the February, 1948, volume. The City National Index for this city is 90.8, or 9.2 per cent below the national figure.

VFW Drum Corps Seeks Majorettes

Tryouts were held last night for majorettes for the drum and bugle corps of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, and a number of girls under 16 years of age competed.

According to Carl Ryan, drum corps president, tryouts will be held next Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the post home, Union Street, for senior girls between 16 and 25.

The corps wishes to enlist a group of majorettes in both junior and senior ages and Ryan said the response from the younger girls has been most encouraging. To compete the line-up, tryouts for the older girls will be held next Monday.

Civil Service Group Lists 226 Employes Holding City Jobs

As of December 31, 1948, there were 226 Civil Service employes in Cumberland, according to the annual report of the Civil Service Commission, submitted to the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The report was signed by C. Philip Jolley, chairman, and H. Clifford Spiker and Dr. Burnest C. Upchurch, members.

During the year there were 10 resignations, seven promotions, two suspensions, four discharges, two pensions, five deaths and one position abolished.

List of Civil Service employment in the various city departments follows:

Airport, 1; engineering, 9; finance, 14; fire, 48; health, 13; Constitution Park, 2; parks and playgrounds, 1; police, 47; street, 58, and water, 33.

The commision held three examinations during the year for the following positions:

Firemen, policemen, assistant fire chief, fire chief, policewoman, clerk in the Water Department, city health nurses, city clerk, secretary to the smoke abatement engineer and junior file clerk in the Police Department.

The commission also held four separate meetings for examinations of probationary policemen and firemen, all of whom were recommended as permanent appointees of the Police and Fire Departments.

On June 22, 1948, the report states, the group heard the appeal of a discharged police officer, with the discharge later upheld by the commission.

In October a complete inspection was made of the Police Department, city jail and the four fire stations in the city. A report on the inspection was previously submitted to the Mayor and Council.
